STORM HEADING TOWARD TEXAS

WASHINGTON. — A tropical disturbance attended by gales near its center was reported by the weather bureau to be moving slowly northeastward 375 miles southeast of Galveston, Texas.

News Flashes

WASHINGTON. — President Roosevelt plans to land at Cartagena, Colombia, South America, on his visit to Hawaii.

WASHINGTON. — Senator Sheppard (D. Tex.) Friday introduced a bill to re-establish prohibition.

LITTLE ROCK. — President Frank R. Horsfall was ousted from A. & M. college by the governor after he heard reports from the student body concerning his anti-jazz feeling.

CHICAGO.—Creeds, colors and races are thrown into the discards as these reports roll in: At Cody, Wyoming, a milk cow of the Jersey variety adopted two baby moose calves. In Arcadia, Florida, a common hound dog adopted a suckling pig that had strayed away from its mother. In Red Wing, Minnesota, a cat adopted four baby rabbits. In Cascade, Iowa, a rooster was nursing a flock of baby ducks. All this from the news of a single day.

Photograph of Kidnaped Girl Encourages Hunt

NEW YORK.—The publication in a local newspaper of a picture of two sailors and two young girls today threw the navy into the six-year-old hunt for Grace Budd, who was kidnaped from her home when she was 10 years of age and who was recognized by her mother as being one of the girls in the photograph.

Naval officers were engaged in searching the fleet to determine which of the 36,000 sailors here were the men in the picture so that they may be asked if they know where the young woman may be found.

Cooperating with police of the missing persons' bureau the naval officers were hopeful that the posting of the photograph on each ship in the fleet would result in finding the men.

The Budd girl disappeared June 3, 1928, when a stranger, who had won the family confidence, took her away in an automobile.

William H. Mitchell, 52-year-old carpenter, who has taken a deep interest in the case, called the picture to the attention of the girl's mother, Mrs. Delia Budd.

What's Wrong With Eastern Mississippi?

From reliable sources, information coms to the effect that Dr. Russell R. Welch, the newly appointed Superintendent of the East Mississippi Insane Hospital, is a man well equipped to manage the institution.

We welcome Doctor Welch to Meridian. We are sure he will supervise the affairs of the hospital in a splendid manner. We offer congratulations to the Doctor. The newly appointed official, according to statements issued through the press, was not a candidate for the job.

Two of Meridian's most prominent physicians were candidates. One for appointment, the other for re-appointment.

A splendid and efficient Doctor from Philadelphia, Miss., was a candidate.

A Newton physician of note and ability was a candidate.

Of these we are positive. There may have been more.

All of them citizens of East Mississippi, qualified to the N'th degree to hold their job. One proving his qualifications beyond a shadow of doubt by years of active service in the particular office. All asking as East Mississippians for an office in an Eastern Mississippi institution.

All received "what Patty gave the drum."

Meridian and Eastern Mississippi makes "a fade-out."

Meridian is blessed with its splendid corps of medical men and women, some even with renowned fame. Surely they are due recognition. Underestimating their Ability can be classed only as a "farce.'

Again politics has made a political football out of an office that is close to the hearts of all citizens of Eastern Mississippi.

The new law that set up a five member board of trustees of all the 11 eleemosinary institutions of the state has gone to work. The governor claimed for the bill before its passage that it would "cut expenses." It may. We doubt it. But there is one thing certain about the cutting . . . it cut off the respect and recognition that Eastern Mississippi is due from the newly appointed board and Governor Conner.

This idea was anothe recommendation of "The Brookings Institute." Excuses will soon be in order. No use to say there won't be a little game played entitled "passing the buck." Passing the buck will be the favorite pastime. Somebody is going to say "they can't blame me, I only appointed the board, and the board acted on their own knowledge and judgment." Like nit.

Maybe somebody has been misquoted.

Maybe they can ring in the Highway Department as the cause of this section getting slighted. There is a hard surface road running past the institution.

Its not the man in the place. Its the principle involved.

Meridian and Eastern Mississippi want an explanation.

Over in these parts we admit that we ourselves could not have agreed on the same man, but we all most certainly agree that the East Mississippi Insane Hospital should have an East Mississippi man at its head.

Yes, what's wrong with Eastern Mississippi?

Dokey Drum Corps Will Attend Meet

El Hama Drum and Bugle Corps, consisting of 20 members, definitely decided at a meeting held in the Pythian building last Wednesday night to attend the Imperial Palace meeting to be held in Jacksonville, Florida, July 2, 3, and 4.

The drum corps will leave Meridian by motor on the morning of July 1, and will journey to the largest city in Florida, arriving there the evening before the convention officially opens.

El Hama Drum corps has taken several prizes on past trips to Imperial Palace meetings and expect to bring back first prize on this occasion.

Officials of the drum corps are planning to have the Imperial Palace meeting to come to Meridian at the next convention, which will mean the bringing of some 10 or 12 drum and bugle corps and also several bands to the Queen City.

MERIDIAN AFTER NIGHT-FALL

By Police Capt. C. R. Dease

Nothing unusual on the beats. The night chef of a cafe sitting out back looking over the newspaper. The waiter inside with elbows upon the counter and head resting in his hands . . a far away look in his eyes. No customers in sight. The patrolmen carry on. A taxi whizzes by with a passenger for the early morning train. A lad with a bundle under his arm approaching. A timid but courteous greeting to the officers and "Captain, have you got a match?" . lights the "tailor-made" and then an inquiry as to the where-abouts of the transit hotel. Another block and then a call to headquarters. All quiet. A few hours more and Day will break—when suddenly—a heavy, but muffled sound—an explosion—quick to rsepond, the officers make the corner and down the alley in the direction of the commotion. A lanky, lean and hungry dog had only turned over his favorite garbage can to partake of his early morning meal. . . .

TWO CITIZENS OF CUBA KILLED TEN INJURED AS BOMB EXPLODES

At a dinner given in his honor tonight at the immigration camp, President Carlos Mendieta barely escaped with his life when a bomb hurled in his direction and intended for him, exploded just back of his chair. The bomb killed two naval men and injured ten others, the president himself included. The president was injured on the hand and the Secretary of Communications Gabriel Landa, was injured on the arm. "It is a terrible thing to have happened, but it's just one of those things," stated the president after things had quieted. Ten arrests were made and double that number were expected before tomorrow. Col. Batiste stated that the authorities knew who these so-called terroists were and from now on the police and navy were taking stern measures.

United States Ambassador Jefferson Carrery called on the president t oexpress his regret at the incident and offered his congratulations at his escape.

Fire Destroys Ice Plant, Commissary At Riderwood

The Meridain fire department returned from Riderwood, Alabama, shortly after eight o'clock last night after being called there to assist the bucket brigade in checking a fire that threatened to wipe out the neighboring lumber town. The local fire department was able to confine the blaze to the small ice plant and comissary.

Phil Hardin Returns From Special Meet

Hardin, president of the Mississippi Bakers Association, returned from Jackson Thursday night, after presiding at a special meeting of his association, called for the purpose of discussing the new Bakers NRA code. The session, held in the Robert E. Lee hotel, took up all of Wednesday and a part of Wednesday night. The result of the meeting was satisfactory to all members attending.

Cars Damaged In Collision

John A. Doggett of Lisman, Alabama, was placed under arrest late yesterday afternoon and a charged placed against him for violating section 5, running a boulevard stop sign; section 20, driving while intoxicated and a charge for reckless driving.

According to a report from Police Captain C. R. Dease, the car being driven by Mr. Doggett collided with a car being driven by Miss Elizabeth Brown of 12th street and 23rd avenue. In the car with Miss Brown was Miss Ione Rush, Miss Cora Morton and Mrs. J. L. McCaskill. The occupants of Miss Brown's car were only slightly injured and were tendered medical aid at their homes.

Both cars were badly damaged.

At a late hour last night Mr. Doggett was still unable to make bond.

Dad's Day

I KNEW YOUR DAD

I used to wonder when a lad
Why folks I didn't know
Would pat my head and say
"Why, bless your heart,
My son, I knew your dad!"
And then they'd stop
Their work and say,
"Dear me!" and look around
To see if someone wasn't near, so
They could talk n' sort o' clear
The atmosphere,
N'kinda reconcile the fact
That here was Bill's boy,
Eight years old.

But now I know just why it was,
For here I am that boy
Grown up.
N' yesterday I saw
A lad
N' stopped my work n' said,
'Dear me!"
N' tried to thing how it could be.

And now I'm hoping
When some pal o' mine
Comes 'cross my girl
They'll stop and pat her head
And feel like that and say,
"Why, bless your heart,
My child,
I knew your dad!"

The Hand Writing On The Wall

For many years Meridian has been in danger of losing the East Mississippi Insane Hospital. Plans have been made time and again to push legislation through the State Legislature that would consolidate the two institutions for the insane now operating in the State and place them under one management in the New Hospital in Rankin County, now near completion.

The sponsors of this move gave as their motive "a step in the interest of economy."

Those that have studied the matter have positive proof that if the institution in Meridian is consolidated with the new hospital in Rankin county, it will double the cost of operation for the maintenance thereof, thereby costing the taxpayers of the state an additional $1,000,000.00 for the purpose of caring for the unfortunate citizens of Mississippi.

Politics, rather than economy, is the real motive behind the move.

The members of the Legislature from Lauderdale county and their friends in both houses of the law making bodies have successfully defeated the removal bill at every session.

But they did not defeat this measure alone. They were given the close co-operation and splendid assistance of a man that has given many years of worthy and efficient service to the State of Mississippi. A Meridian man that has as many friends serving as members of the Legislature, as any other man in Mississippi.

This man, to whom Meridian owes much for his successful and untiring work in retaining our institution, is none other than Dr. M. J. L. Hoye, recently removed as superintendent of the East Mississippi Insane Hospital.

Dr. Hoye's dismissal is a great loss to Eastern Mississippi for in the position that he has held in the past it was possible for him to aid in no small manner the best interest of the people of this section of the stat.

Dr. Hoye's removal, will mean a great loss to Meridian's strength in holding the Asylum here.

"The Powers that be" are at work.

An Institution Worth Fighting For

In 1933 a check was made of the expenditures of the East Mississippi Insane Hospital located in Meridian. The Legislature appropriated for 1932 and 1933 the sum of $300,000.00. Of this amount only 5% left Lauderdale county.

The institution for those two years meant a pay roll of $285,000.00 for the city of Meridian.

For the years of 1934 and 1935 the amount allotted was $287,500.00. There is no doubt that the same percentage will remain in Lauderdale as in '32 and '33.

This institution is worth much to Meridian and Eastern Mississippi. Let us hope that politics will not rob this section of the East Mississippi Insane Hospital.

N' Yawk Town

By BOB A'HEARN

In this column a few days ago we spoke of a blaze hitting pretty Kathryn Rand's dress during her act in Philly. Reports from her hospital state she'll be scared for life.

Helen Kane made a wonderful come-back at the Hollywood. Her "Fleets In" ditting is going over. The Palace is going big time 2 a day. Marshall Field, the Chicago boy, spending much of his time at Murray's. Bertha Kalich, of other days, now an invalid, discovered in her plight by some one who knew her when. Result: Benefit at 44th Street Theatre. It'll go over 'cause its a worthy stunt. New atmosphere at the Club Richman. Fifteen minutes watching the dancing at the Cubanacan in Harlem is a good act in itself. Bobbie Sanford's Showboat Review good? Alice Faye gets her big moment doing "Foolin' with the other woman's man" in "Now I'll Tell." That new one at the Palace draws a flock of stars. "When parents sleep." Consuello of the Beaux Arts offered a scholarship of two years. Too many mouths to feed at home. Couldn't spare the time. They stuck it out for two years. Fred Mandel and Minnie Bunte. Now they're as far away as Dillinger and the cops. A hundred nude photos decorate Billy Hechts Paramount office. A sign over them reads "Where is your mind." James O'Gorman and his Mrs. (The former Edna Harbor) did the great divide recently, and Claire Windsor stepping in now. Bon voyage—Bill La Hiff, Dorothy Dell and Lew Cody. Cobina named Myrtle Gardner, manicurist, co-resp. in her suit in N. Y. vs. Bill Wright. Bill hot-foots in Old Mex. Beats Cobina to it. Myrtle is now Mrs. Wright. Fast work. Geo. Smith and Ethyl Wynn took off for Havana in April. She's taking off for Reno in June. Muriel Kirkland and Hugh McDonald are as far apart as FDR and Hubert H. June Coberts is serving 'em up to Peaches Browning's "pappy."

Marjorie DeHaven and Paul Lockard are "Flying down to Reno." Lupe, Mrs. Tarzan, got all "het up" when Carranza, the Mex fighter, lost a decision the other night. Then when asked about the Max Baer fight two hands shot out (palms up) "I juice done geeve a dam." Mae West was in Max Baer's corner the night of his fight. Max has a rep. as a lady-killer. He admits it. Harlow leaving in a few days for Honolulu—to forget. Which one? Louis Sherr and his school girl bride checking out. Funny smelling bombs were dropped in a dozen big places a few nights ago. The checkers are on a walk-out. Barbar Weeks and Bert Glennan that way. Sophie Tucker—doing her stuff in London, gathered in a few Gs at the Derby when Windsor Boy came in number one. So did the Rajah of Ripsdale. The Rajah likes it. Heres a new wrinkle: Landlords of the big inns collected their rent daily—in advance. The Warners gave Jerry Wald a new sheet of paper. Jerry Cunningham—the footballer and Charley Stovall, the columnist, had it out at the Lombardy early Sat. a. m. By the way, that last one was Dorothy Dell's third auto crash. The Hal Shermans are doing a Dionne soon. Dot Sotherland (Mrs. Hal Hepburn) also mond off for the farm. Thomas looking for Hal, Jr. Percy Hamhealey putting up fifty G's for Bert Lytell's new venture this fall. Theres a wishing well at the Rose Music Hall. Ten saps buy a drink, drop it into the well and suddenly see live nudes dancing at the bottom—then the saps do their wishing. Ed Sullivan and Betty Weaver doing it soon. Another Dionne attempt—the Jimmy Hanleys. They used to be labeled "reefers"—those Marinhauna cigies. Now they are "tea." It complicated matters for the cops—a day of two. Paul Gerrits has a good act at the Palace, his stories are good while he does some fancy work on his roller skates. That boy is going places. Four Boops at the Paramount. Helen Kane recently started legal action—a pub stunt. The act not so hot. One boop not bad four of them on the same prog? Thats out. Al Bernie, 14 year old protege of Rudy Vallee in his show at the Hollywood exceptionally good. Uses four characters. Shadows, Arliss, Bernie and Wynn. Next week he adds Bernie and the Goldbergs.

Loew's State packs them in, using Cab Callaway as a headliner. Four other acts are good. The vaud takes 81 minutes.

William Henderson, and associate of the late Luther Burbank, succeeded in developing a type of gladiolas which has perfume.

Question Box

By ED WYNN

The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have just written a song. The lyrics are very sad. They are about a young man telling how he made love to a young girl and of her promise to marry him, then on the day before the wedding she tells him she will not marry him because she found out he didn't have any money. Will you please give me a suitable title for my song?

Yours truly,
ART ISTIC.

Answer—The best title for your song (according to the above description) would be "She Looked Me Up in Dunstreet's, Now I'm Dun."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Is it true that a Scotchman "loves HIS whisky?"

Sincerely,
JACK KNIFE.

Answer—It is true that he loves whisky, but not "his." He loves someone else's.

Dear Mr Wynn:
I am a young lady 22 years of age and considered very pretty. I am keeping company with three young men about my own age. Is it all right for me to go with three different fellows?

Yours truly,
I. M. A. FLIRT.

Answer—It is not all right if the other two find it out.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
In the government income tax notice, mention is always made of "A Full Return." What do you think that means?

Sincerely,
D. LINQUENT.

Answer—To me "A Full Return" always means when a man comes back home drunk.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I hear a great deal of talk about "Mermaids." I don't believe there are such things, do you? If so, maybe you are smart enough to tell me where they sleep?

Sincerely,
C. BEAST.

Answer—My dear child, "Mermaids" when they are little babies sleep in "the cradle of the deep," and when they grow up, "in the bed of the ocean."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have heard several authors of books referred to as "chemists." I know some authors have different degrees conferred on them, but never "chemist." Can you tell me what makes an author a "chemist?"

Truly yours,
I. REED ALOTT.

Answer—An author is called a "chemist" when his book becomes a drug on the market.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

"WE'RE ALL HAVING A DREADFUL TIME"

"LET'S be pleasant to each other. We are all having a dreadful time."

That was the inscription on a flag carried through the streets of London by a man described as "a forlorn outcast struggling with the wind-blown banner which he was barely able to carry."

"Let's be pleasant to each other We are all having a dreadful time."

Was the man who carried that flag a striking workman? Was he a hunger marcher? Was he a Democrat, Fascist, Communist? When people carry banners they are usually campaigning for something. What did this man want?

I should say he was as close to a modern Messiah as we shall see. And that what he wanted would not be any particular "thing"; it would not be the success of a certain party over any other party. It would be the happiness of the human race. "Peace on earth, good will to men."

If the man who carried that banner could implant his message in the hearts of every man, woman and child, he would certainly get what he wanted. If this modern Messiah, who wanted nothing for himself, had the power of leaders not so wise or disinterested to line up men and women behind him, there need be no more marching, no "cause," no strife.

If all the various factions in the world today who are trying to achieve something or to get somewhere by destroying some one else would say in their hearts, "Let's be pleasant to each other. We are all having a dreadful time"—I need not tell my readers what would happen. The millenium of peace and happiness would be here for all of us.

President Tells Congress His Further Plans for National Regeneration—Organized Business Enters a Protest—Fletcher Made G. O. P. Chairman.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© by Western Newspaper Union.

IMMEDIATE relief from distress and recovery of business prosperity fall far short of President Roosevelt's plan for regeneration of the nation. This was revealed in his special message to congress which told of the plans and recommendations he would submit to the next congress. He asked for no present legislation, but gave notice of the social experiments he proposes to begin next winter.

President Roosevelt

The message discussed the three factors of housing, land and resource planning and old age and unemployment insurance.

Expressing satisfaction over progress in relieving industry, agriculture, and unemployment, the President, asserting his right to chart social reforms, declared, "It is childish to speak of recovery first and reconstruction afterward."

Taking up the housing problem, he said millions of dollars had already been provided to improve living conditions, and voiced the hope that with passage of his housing program private capital would be stimulated to widen the scope of home building.

Discussing planned control of the land, he declared that hundreds of thousands of families now live "where there is no reasonable prospect of a living in the years to come."

Sounding the failure of the government thus far to create a "national policy" for the development of land and water resources, Mr. Roosevelt indicated his intention of providing such a policy, and for the transferring to new lands of "those people who cannot make a living in their present positions."

Outlining his view on providing security against unemployment and old age, Mr. Roosevelt said he was seeking a "sound means" which he could recommend to provide an immediate safeguard against these "hazards and vicissitudes of life."

WHEN President Roosevelt signed the tariff bargaining bill he acquired authority to negotiate reciprocal trade treaties with out senate approval and to increase or decrease tariff rates by as much as 50 per cent in order to stimulate foreign commerce. This policy of swapping reductions, the government believes, will result in great benefit to our foreign trade, and at the same time will give adequate protection to industry. Already nearly thirty foreign nations are lined up, awaiting an opportunity to negotiate reciprocal treaties.

ORGANIZED business of the United States insists that the balancing of the budget is an "imperative necessity," and fears that this may be upset by provisions in the deficiency appropriation bill carrying $1,172,000,000. These provisions permit the President to transfer Reconstruction Finance corporation funds to relief and public works purposes. The expenditures would thus be made outright instead of in reimbursable loans. Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, wrote a letter to Senator Glass, chairman of the senate appropriations committee, urging that the senate limit the President's authority to shift loans.

Mr. Harriman said in part:

"Up to the present much of the RFC funds have been used for the purpose of making reimbursable loans. The government has consequently been accumulating assets which sooner or later can be liquidated and the money received turned into the treasury.

"It has been estimated that after the debt increase of $9,900,000,000 in 1934 and 1935, as contemplated in the budget message, the government would have about $5,000,000,000 of assets which could be realised upon to discharge debt.

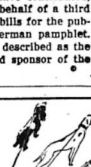
"But under the bill the purpose for which RFC funds may be used is greatly extended. These contemplate nonreimbursable expenditures with no possible recompense to the treasury. It must also be recalled that, in addition to the large increase in the public debt, the government has acquired contingent liabilities to about $6,000,000,000."

Chile's army of 35,000 men includes 77 generals and 4 admirals.

EVEN the Democrats in congress are not boasting openly of their success in passing the bill for a census of the unemployed, and many of them voted against it or were absent when it came up for final passage. That it was designed mainly to give jobs for the faithful at the expense of the national treasury was clear, for the census takers are not to get their jobs until after the November congressional elections. Then they will receive $2 a day for a long period, obtaining answers to an elaborate questionnaire. No one knows of what use this will be except to their hencemen.

DROUTH-STRICKEN regions of the Middle West were blessed with soaking rains, and hope was held out for forage crops and corn. The earlier crops, however, are ruined over most of the area. Secretary Wallace, after a trip through the "dry" states, described the drouth as a "tragedy" for the farmers who are suffering from its ravages, but a possible future "blessing for the country as a whole."

MUCH interesting information was given the special house committee that is investigating "un-American" activities in the United States, these being especially the activities of the Nazis. Facts and figures were presented showing officials of the German government had spent money for the dissemination of pro-German information in this country, the German ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, and the German consul general in New York, Dr. Otto Kiep, both figuring in the testimony.



Dr. Hans Luther

Doctor Kiep was said to have paid $4,000 to a New York city publicity and business promotion firm to "obtain publicity in this country" of anti-Semitic statements. He was said, also, to have contributed, unofficially, and in behalf of a third person, $300 in $50 bills for the publication of a pro-German pamphlet. Doctor Luther was described as the financial backer and sponsor of the pamphlet.

LARGELY through the efforts of Norman Davis, American ambassador at large, the European statesmen at Geneva were persuaded to drop their quarreling and adopt a mild compromise resolution that prolonged the life of the disarmament conference. Great Britain and France agreed upon a plan, based on the return of Germany to the conference, and the aid of Italy was enlisted. It was arranged that Chancellor Hitler should go to Venice and that Premier Mussolini should fly to that city to confer with his fellow dictator, whom he had never met. Later Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, is expected to go to Rome for a talk with Mussolini in which the misunderstandings between their countries may be ironed out.

Premier Mussolini

Mussolini and Hitler were to discuss European policies generally, and, specifically, the German claims to full armament and the Austrian question, involving Nazi propaganda in the latter country.

This Anglo-French compromise was a diplomatic setback for Russia, but the Soviet republic countered with the announcement that it had been recognized by Czechoslovakia and Rumania. Recognition by Jugoslavia was expected to follow shortly. Maxim Litvinov's announcement was taken to mean that the Russians intend to go ahead with their policy of encircling Germany.

German papers agree a new chapter in relations between Soviet Russia and the powers of southeastern Europe has been opened. It is expected the next step probably will be the conclusion of a commercial agreement between the little entente and Moscow, one of the purposes being to minimize the effect of Soviet dumping of lumber and cereals in the entente nations. Nonaggressions and mutual assistance pacts are said to be in the background.

The biggest tide in the world is in the Bay of Fundy, where the extreme rise and fall differs by 70 feet.

New Spots On Sun Effect Radio Direct

The curtain is about to fall on long-distance radio reception on the broadcasting waves. Stations on the Pacific Coast or half way across the continent, which have been coming in so clearly all winter, will drop out of hearing shortly, not to be heard again for seven or eight years with any such clarity as during the past winter or two.

Two big spots already are chasing each other around the sun this week, and another big spot has appeared in the Southern hemisphere. They will have important effects on broadcast listening, both nearby and long-distance.

For the past year or two we have been receiving a minimum of ultra-violet rays from the sun, on account of the absence of sun-spots which have been undergoing one of their cyclical "lows." With this restricted ration of ultra-violet, the great radio "reflecting layer" in the upper sky, which serves to echo back distant radio stations, has been left comparatively smooth, so that long-distance reflections have been at a minimum.

But now the spots on the sun are coming back in great numbers. Three big spots, each 20,000 miles in diameter, are now on the sun's surface, appearing at intervals of 27 days. And with them comes the out-pouring of ultra-violet rays that break up the radio reflecting mirror, and make it a poor reflector of distant broadcasting stations. Already the first of the new cycle have been observed near the sun's poles, and this means that it will not be long before radio reception conditions return to the situation of "poor DX" which we had in 1928 and 1929, when long-distance broadcast reception was at a minimum.

All the various kinds of radio waves in use may be expected to undergo marked changes in characteristics and shifts in radio properties, as the number of sun-spot groups increases during the next year or two.

These cyclic changes in sun spot numbers—with minimums coming every eight to twelve years—have been recorded carefully by astronomers for two centuries past. And their effects are written in the treerings of American forests for a thousand years back, the greater tree growth in some years reflecting the periods of greater ultra-violet radiation. Even the trees of ancient Egypt give a faithful report of these sun-spot cycles, for in the wooden status and caskets of dynasties of 2000 B. C., at the [illegible] Museum of Art in New York City, one may trace the wax and wane of the sun spots 40 centuries ago!

That BODY OF YOURS

by JAMES W. BARTON, M. D.

Psoriasis Cured by Fat Free Diet

ONE of the skin ailments that discourages both parents and physician is psoriasis—white scaly patches like mortar on the skin which, when the scales are peeled off leave a bleeding surface.

Just what causes this ailment has never been discovered. By using arsenic internally (Fowler's solution) and ammoniated mercury on the scaly patches, most cases clear up in time, only to break out again perhaps in a few months.

That "nervousness" may be a factor is admitted by many skin specialists, as also is the possibility of some gland disturbance in the body.

Thus the manner in which the body processes handle some foods may be at fault, as leaving out certain foods from the diet has cleared up a number of cases.

Some research men have found that it is during the cold weather that this skin ailment gets worse, and point out that psoriasis does not exist in the tropics.

Drs. O. Grutz and M. Burger, Berlin, relate some of their studies which tend to show that the underlying cause of psoriasis is probably a disturbance in the way in which the body uses the fat foods—cream, butter, fat meat.

Psoriasis may be due to the blood vessels of the skin allowing too much fat to be poured out on the surface of the skin, or because the form in which the fat reaches the skin is so altered that irritation arises.

In any case as it is the fats that cause the trouble, cutting down on the fats should be good treatment.

To prove this Doctors Grutz and Burger stopped all other forms of treatment in eleven cases, and simply omitted the fats in the diet.

What was the result?

In four cases that had resisted all other forms of treatment, leaving out the fats in the diet resulted in a complete cure; in five cases considerable improvements were observed, and the two cases still being treated, likewise show improvement.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

PETER GETS ANOTHER SURPRISE

"DID you hear my cousin, Brownie the Thrasher, sing?" asked Jenny Wren of Peter Rabbit.

"Did I hear him sing?" replied Peter, his eyes shining at the memory. "He sang especially for me. He has a wonderful voice, has Brownie, and when he is singing he acts as if he enjoys it himself and knows what a good singer he is. I noticed that that long tail of his hung straight down, the same way Mr. Wren's does when he sings."

Peter Blinked and Stared, for He Was a Very Much Surprised Rabbit.

"Of course it did," retorted Jenny promptly. "That's a family trait. The tails of both my other big cousins do the same thing."

"Wha—wha—what's that? Have you got more big cousins?" cried Peter, staring up at Jenny Wren as if she were some strange person he had never seen before.

"Certainly," retorted Jenny. "Mocker the Mocking-bird and Kitty the Cat-bird belong to Thrasher's family, and that makes them second cousins to me."

Such a funny expression as there was on Peter's face! He felt that Jenny Wren was telling the truth, but it was surprising news to him, and so hard to believe that for a few minutes, he couldn't find his tongue to ask another question. Finally he ventured to ask very timidly, "Does Brownie imitate the songs of other birds the way Mocker and Kitty do?"

Jenny Wren shook her head very decidedly. "No," said she; "he's perfectly satisfied with his own song."

"He ought to be," declared Peter. "Anyone who can sing as he can should be quite contented."

Before another word could be said, the clear whistle of Glory the Cardinal sounded from a tree just a little way off. Instantly Peter forgot all about Jenny Wren's relatives and scampered over to that tree. You see, Glory is so beautiful that Peter never loses a chance to see him.

As Peter sat staring up into the tree trying to get a glimpse of Glory's red coat, the clear, sweet whistle sounded once more. It drew Peter's eyes to one of the upper branches, but instead of the beautiful brilliant coat of Glory the Cardinal, he saw a bird about the size of Welcome Robin, dressed in ashy gray with two white bars on his wings and white feathers on the outer edges of his tail. He was very trim and neat and his tail hung straight down after the manner of Brownie's when he was singing. It was a long tail, but not as long as Brownie's. Peter blinked and stared, for he was a very much surprised rabbit.

Sheriff Gives Up Barrow Auto on U. S. Court Order

Federal Marshal to Hold Car Pending Disposition of Suit

Shreveport, La.—It took the United States government to find the bloodstained and bullet-schattered "Barrow" automobile.

The automobile, in which Clyde Barrow, Southwestern desperado and killed, and his gunwoman companion, Bonnie Parker, were slain, was in possession of the United States marshal today.

The machine, which disappeared after offers were received for its exhibition, reappeared after the owner from which it was stolen brought suit in federal court against Sheriff Henderson Jordan of Bienville parish, who helped kill the outlaws.

The sheriff, announcing that he wished to keep the automobile, refused to turn it over to the owner and declined to surrender it to the marshal, who was armed with a writ of sequestration.

Then Judge Ben C. Dawkins called the sheriff to court and threatened to send him to jail for contempt if the automobile was not produced by this morning.

AUTO HI-JACKERS ARE RETURNED TO MERIDIAN

Late yesterday afternoon Clifton and Otho Burt were returned to Meridian from Wichita Falls, Texas and placed in custody of federal authorities, who lodged the men in the Lauderdale County jail.

The men are charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to the 630 taxi company of Meridian. Three months ago, according to the driver, Frank Hawkins, he received a call from the Grill. Arriving there he was told by the two passengers to carry them to the Paradise Inn. While riding along Lovers Lane, he felt a gun sticking in his ribs and was robbed of what money he had on his person, the amount claimed to be $6. He then was made to get out of the car, while the two men held by authorities, drove out the 8th street road in the direction of Philadelphia. Several miles out they were met by an old Essex car that was abondoned at a point a few miles this side of Philadelphia. The license tag was taken from the Essex and placed on the cab stolen from Hawkins.

Louisiana Governor to Appoint Shreve'pt's Mayor and Board of Aldermen For 2 Years

Baton Rouge—The Senate today voted to deprive the citizens of Shreveport of the right to elect a mayor and board of aldermen. The power of appointing a mayor and 15 aldermen for the city of Shreveport for two years is vested in the governor under terms of an amendment adopted by the Senate 18 to 12.

Senator Huey Long, surrounded by his three-man body guard, stated to a Shreveport delegation that the bill had his approval. One of the delegates informed the Senator that he might have a law passed whereby his governor could appoint a mayor and 15 aldermen, but it would be a "cold day in August" before they would serve.

MOONEY LOSES TILT WITH FEDERAL JUDGE

Decision Halts Move to Carry Appeal to U. S. Supreme Court

San Francisco—Tom Mooney today lost another round in his long fight to obtain freedom.

Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure denied his certificate for probable cause which would have enabled him to appeal to the United States Supreme Court from a denial for a writ of habeas corpus made in federal court here May 17.

Mooney's attorneys filed a writ of habeas corpus in federal court on the grounds that Mooney's constitutional rights were violated. The court held that such a writ shouldn't have been filed in federal court.

Mooney, convicted of murder in connection with the 1916 Preparedness Day parade "bomb outrage," is serving a life term in San Quentin prison.

PWA LOAN APPROVED FOR CANTON GAS LINE

Canton, Miss., June 28.—Mayor Harris this morning received a telegram from Senator Pat Harrison stating that Canton's natural gas project has been approved for $158,000 by public works authorities in Washington. This means that actual construction may get under way within six or eight weeks, officials said. The project calls for the construction of a pipe line from the Jackson field, the purchase of gas wells and the construction of a distributing system in Canton.

MERIDIAN OFFICERS MAKE ARREST HERE AND IN BRAXTON

Federal authorities have placed in the county jail in Meridian several men who are charged with being connected with one of the largest automobile theft rings in the country.

Included in the ring is the marshall of Braxton, Mississippi, a small town about 40 miles south of Jackson.

Telegrams have been forwarded to New York officers to arrest members of the gang in that city.

Officers of the Meridian police department, aided by United States Deputy Marshal Graham of Decatur and United Statts Detective Blake of New Orleans, placed under arrest John Pennucci, alias Bernard Hamilton, in Meridian, and Wesley Wallace, town marshall of Braxton, Miss., yesterday. Both men are charged with being connected with a huge automobile theft ring operating out of New York, with connections scattered, perhaps over the entire United States. Pennucci, alias Hamilton, drove a new 1934 Chevrolet car from New York to Meridian on his way to Braxton according to his statement.

The car was the property of a woman living within several blocks of the point of delivery in New York, to him by Eddie Wallace, a brother of the marshall at Braxton. According to Pennucci, the motor number of the Chevrolet was sent to Wesley Wallace, marshall at Braxton by his brother Eddie, who operates a garage in New York City. Upon receipt of this motor number, Wesley purchased a license tag in Yazoo City and forwarded it to the alleged theft ring in New York. Upon receipt of this Mississippi license tag, the Chevrolet car was spotted and all arrangements for the theft were completed.

Pennucci left New York with the stolen car at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, arriving in Meridian on his way to Braxton at 8:00 o'clock Wednesday night with detailed instructions. Upon reaching Meridian, Pennucci, out of funds, called at the local Western Union office for a money transfer he had been expecting on his arrival. Pennucci admitted last night that he was somewhat crossed on his alias. The Western Union clerk, becoming suspicious, questioned Pennucci with the result that wires followed in quick succession to Braxton. From that point on, the local police department entered the scene ,and the arrest of Pennucci followed.

Members of the police department, which included Chief Hyde, Detectives Harbour and Rogers, United States Deputy Marshall Graham and United States Detective Blake of New Orleans took Pennucci to Braxton. Harbour posing as a hitch-hiker, riding in the car with Pennucci, drove into the town. According to instructions received by Pennucci from Eddie Wallace in New York the marshall approached the car and asked if the driver was Hamilton. Pennucci admitted he was, whereupon they were escorted to the marshall's home and Wallace's arrest followed. During the meantime officers in New York were notified of the Meridian officers' actions and were instructed to place under arrest Eddie Wallace and other members of the gang.

For a long period of time automobile thefts of this nature have been going on in New York. Cars finding their way to points as far away as California. Just how many cars have been delivered to this section of the country is unknown at this time.

Pennucci alias Hamilton, according to his statement, is a resident of Lawton, Oklahoma. He has a wife and three children living in Lawton. Pennucci is 28 years of age.

MAYORS TALK PLAN TO GET FEDERAL CASH

Jackson, Miss.—Tentative plans for municipalities to share in the $200,000,000 Federal Highways Act recently signed by President Roosevelt were discussed here this morning by Mayors Walter A. Scott and R. B. Wall, of Brookhaven.

Mayor Wall, who is president of the Municipal Officers Association of Mississippi, is preparing the plans to be discussed at an executive session of the municipal officers of the state at their next meeting scheduled in August.

In a letter received by Mayor Scott from Paul Betters, executive director of the United States Conference of Mayors, it was pointed out that under the terms of the act, "$200,000,000 is authorized as an outright grant for highways, of which 25 per cent must be expended on projects within municipalities."

"NO COMPLAINT IF PEOPLE ARE FOR IT"

Shreveport, La.—When informed of the proposed Senate amendments to the city charter bill, Mayor George W. Hardy, Jr., said: "That seems to be in line with the state administration's efforts to get complete authority in all governmental subdivisions.

"If they can pass a law like that and the people of Shreveport stand for it, I have no complaint," the mayor added.

MERIDIAN AFTER NIGHT-FALL

By Police Capt. C. R. Dease

Strolling along the beat . . all seemed to be quiet . . . Two faces appear . . . they are two black boys that have not been seen on the streets for several nights . . They approach the officer and with a kindly smile greet the officer of the night . . . "Where have you boys been? I haven't seen you for a week or so." "Well cap'n, to tell the truth . . we was eye balling at a crap game . . . and we is been spendin a few days and nights in the county jail."

'Eye balling at a crap game' is a common plea often put to the officers. With a hearty laugh the officer went on about his duties, but the thoughts of the two negro boys and their frankness in the matter helped to pass away the dullness of the night.

VIVISECTION!

From Chicago comes stories telling of the using of dogs for experimental purposes. Daily, the animals undergo the knife or other forms of experiments in order to test certain theories. Many times, according to reports, the canines are subjected to the most painful operations without the aid of antisetics, in order to satisfy the desires of the chemist. In some cases, the dogs, whether common or of high breed, are nailed to boards and a harness of strong steel wires are placed in the mouth in such a form as to permit the doctor to cut from the throat certain parts of that portion of the body that he may desire to experiment upon.

Some of the dogs are donated to the cause. Others are picked up upon the streets as stray animals without owners and are crucified for the sake of science.

Many famous authors and writers have written on this subject, protesting against this form of cruelty and many organizations have actively fought this present-day form of torture.

The boy or girl that owns a puppy or the man or woman that own a watch dog or the sportsman that is the proud possessor of his "hunter" could not express the feeling that exist in their hearts toward their dog to a better advantage than is found in the words of George Graham Vest when he wrote "A tribute to a dog." Mr. Vest's writing is as follows:

"The best human friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps, when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The only absolute unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deceives him, the one that never proves ungrateful and treacherous, is his dog.

A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground where the wintry winds blow and the snow drifts fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer. He will lick the wounds and sores that come in encountered with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth, an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog ask no higher privilege than that of accompanying, to guard against danger, to fight against enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and when death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there, by the graveside, may the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open, in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death."

Character

Look into the face of a man who has fought no great temptation and endured no supreme sorrow, and you will find little there to rouse your admiration. Look at the one who has weathered a great grief, like a mighty ocean liner plowing through a tempest, and you observe strength and grace in every lineament. The expression in your eye, the lines in your face, the quality of your smile, the tone of your voice, tell the story, without your being concious of it, whether your soul has faced its Gethsemane with manly courage or shaming compromise and cowardly surrender.

—F. G. Budlong.

I love the man that can smile in trouble. That can gather strength from distress and grow brave by reflection. 'Tis the business of little minds to shrink, but he whose heart is firm, and whose conscience approves his conduct, will pursue his principles unto death.

—Thomas Paine.

With malice towards none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on.

—Abraham Lincoln.

Every man should keep a fair-sized cemetery in which to bury the faults of his friends.

—Henry Ward Beecher.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MR. AND MRS. DONALD TOOMER

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Toomer who will leave soon for Gulfport were honor guests at a picnic given by the employees of the Mississippi Power Company Friday night at Echo Park.

The children were invited into the dining room where the tables were artistically decorated in pink and white. A beautifully decorated birthday cake in the same colors centered with a single candle formed a lovely center piece. In cutting the cake Janice Temple cut the button, Louise Middlebrook the dime. The hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. R. May, served ice cream. Balloons were given the children as favors. The names of the children attending were registered in a hand painted baby book, which, with other birthday remembrances, were presented the little host.

N' Yawk Town

By BOB A'HEARN

Hollywood—(Just for a week)—Last Saturday as I was leaving NY, George Burns and Gracie Allen left the dock for the Continent. We took in the opening of their "Many happy returns of the day" just before "our" sailing time. Passing over certain spots on the way out here, you are reminded of many unpleasant happenings of the past—the one where they found Knute Rockne for instance. At the landing we see a crowd around a new car—May West and "Daddy"—the ex-pug, Battling Jack West. Old man Jack can't figure just how he draws the crowd as he did back in the o'd days. No one has told him that his daughter is the world's most famous blonde. Neither has anyone told him that his "little gal" is going the limit in buying that ranch for "Daddy," and that she will spend at least another year in the same apartment that has been her home for two years. By the way, that new car of Mae West's is not armoured. She wouldn't buy the armored car that had all the bally for a while due to the fact that it afforded no protection to her chauffer. I should have mentioned this in the first line: George Bancroft met the ship and these notes are made in his hack. There's Dick Arlen. I knew the boy when he got on as a life guard following his grad. from college. Bing Crosby. By the way, in Chi, I met his bud, Bob. You'll hear him on the Big air-ways this fall. A preview going on at that theatre, Charlie Ruggles, Mary Bolan and Charles Laughton in the lobby, and there goes Lynne Overman, Lee Tracy and Helen Mack. Boy, I know that lady. Can't place her. Car stops. She comes over. It's Ruth Clifford of the old silent flickers. Has a bit in George's new one "Elmer and Elsie." Stop in just a moment at W. C. Fields. Among other things of interest that makes its appearance when strangers drop in is an old cedar chest containing his first juggling paraphernalia consisting of an old hat, a cigar box, tomato can and brogan. Up to the shack and on the way to the Cocoanut Grove. Among many others, there's Carole Lombard. To me the most charming off-screen personality in Hollywood. Miss Lombard in real life is even more beautiful than on the screen. She possesses a spontaneous gay quality which surpasses her screen portrayals.

Rumor has it that the self-appointed censors in NY are putting the thumbs on Mae West's "It ain't no sin." All of which may mean filming two versions of every picture, one of which, to be shown to conservative minded people. And, believe this or not, Marlene Dietrich's "Scarlet Empress" has the approval of six women's organizations, including a Parent-Teacher group. If Helene Co-han's name was Sadie Smith, she'd still get by. The kid is a natural. In answer to many queries, Mae West, in private life, does NOT smoke or drink. Met Joan Marsh tonight and to convince myself on one point, I held her 2-AA shoe in my hand. Here goes a wire to the boss in NY. Have an invitation to catch sword-fish off the Mex coast on the Arlen yacht and a chance to win a grand by hooking more of them than Bing Crosby. Answer quick. And, L&G. With that on your mind, who could continue to write?

'Don't Worry,' Say Bandits Robbing Jewelry Store

New York—With an injunction not to worry, "because you're insured, anyway," three holdup men cleaned out the trays of jewelry in the window and safe of the jewelry firm of "Maurice," on West 57th street today, a short time after Sampson Eisenberg, a partner of Maurice Davidson, owner of the shop, opened it for business. The men got between $20,000 and $25,000 worth of jewelry.

Eisenberg was alone in the place when two men entered and drew re-

Jack Dempsey's Garden Deal Was Discussed

New York—While everybody has been very busy trying to recall just when it was they had forgotten all about the matter, the Jack Dempsey-Madison Square Garden amalgamation has come up again, this time more urgent than ever.

Colonel John Hammond, the new head man, has been most active on this project during the last few days, his immediate purpose being to persuade his board of directors that a merger with Dempsey would be a good thing. He already has tentatively persuaded Dempsey that it would be a very good thing.

It is rumored a contract for $50,000 a year plus 10 per cent of the net profit has been offered Dempsey.

Question Box

By ED WYNN

The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Is Florida a good place for one's nerves?

Yours truly,
JACK SUNVILLE.

Answer—I'll say it is. I know a man who went to Florida five years ago and opened a hotel. He used to charge $2 a night for a room and bath. Now he has the NERVE to charge $10 a night for the same room.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Will you please settle a dispute between my wife and me? My wife has a brother who always goes to other people's houses just so he can get drinks of whisky for nothing. I claim a fellow who does that is a "sponge." My wife says he is not a "sponge." Who is right?

Yours truly,
A. GNOG.

Answer—Your wife is right. Her brother fills up on whisky while a "sponge" generally fills up on water.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

What is meant by "Race Suicide?"

Yours truly,
POLLY TISHAN.

Answer—When a man goes to the track, bets on a horse, loses all his money, becomes despondent, and kills himself—that's "Race Suicide."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a boy fifteen years of age. I applied for a job in a grocery store, and when the grocer asked me how many ounces make a pound, I said 16 ounces. He wouldn't give me the job. I wonder why?

Truly yours,
D. LIVERYBOYE.

Answer—The next time you ask for a position in a grocery store, if the grocer asks you how many ounces make a pound just say 14 ounces, and you'll get the job.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

A friend of mine who has just returned from a motor trip of 3,000 miles, told me he enjoyed touring on the roads built by Americans. I asked him what he meant "roads built by Americans," and he said: "Why, Roosevelt boulevard and Lincoln highway." Then he told me the worst roads he had to travel over were built by a Frenchman. I did not want to appear ignorant so did not ask him who he meant. Will you please tell me the name of the Frenchman who built the bad roads he referred to?

Yours truly,
MAG NEETOW.

Answer—He is referring to "Detour."

REAL BEAUTIES NEVER FOUND! SMALL TOWNS HIDE LOVELIEST SAYS "VANITIES" PRODUCER

America's most beautiful girls never reach the stage or screen. They remain "undiscovered" in small towns scattered throughout the country, never coming to the attention of play and picture producers.

This is the opinion of Earl Carroll, who has produced eleven editions of his famous "Vanities," and who brought eleven of his Broadway girls to Hollywood for Paramount's film version of his stage hit, "Murder at the Vanities." It is coming on Monday to the Strand Theatre, with Carl Brisson, Victor McLaglen, Jack Oakie, Kitty Carlisle, and Duke Ellington and his famous orchestra.

Fear of Stage

"An age-old fear of the stage keeps parents from permitting their daughters to come to the two great beauty centers," Carroll said. "A girl must come either to New York or to Hollywood to be seen. Many people still retain the erroneous belief that the stage and screen are not fit places for decent young ladies. They will not permit their daughters to become affiliated with the theatre.

"In truth, both Hollywood and New York offer a girl the equal of a finishing school education—if she is beautiful. She is taught diction and voice, she learns grace and naturalness and ease. Through companionship and associations she becomes conversant with the social amenities. She learns how to keep her youth and beauty.

Girls Get Real Chance

"When parents eventually realize that we are offering the girls both an education and a chance to earn a high salary, I believe that we will see even more beautiful girls on the stage and screen than we do now."

MURDER AT THE VANITIES

Three of the seven Hollywood beauties selected to appear with the eleven "most beautiful girls in the world" whom Earl Carroll brought from New York to appear in the Paramount film version of his "Murder at the Vanities," at the Strand Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

U. S. EXPANDS RELIEF COW BUYING PLAN

Washington.—The Farm Administration has decided to increase the purchase of livestock in the drouth areas to 10,000,000 head.

Expansion of the buying program designed to aid farmers hit by this spring's long dry spell and to rid the country of undesirable stock, will be announced within a few days. Purchase of only 2,000,000 head was contemplated originally.

Personal inspection of the parched grazing land west of the Mississippi led officials to increase the number. The 10,000,000 will include about 5,000,000 sheep. The price has not been set, officials said, but probably will be about $2 a head for animals a year or more old.

"If a year from today we can have weeded out the poorer and diseased animals from our herds the nation's livestock industry will be on better basis than at any time in the past," one prominent official said.

"This purchase program is primarily one of relieveing farmers of the burden of carrying excess animals and of giving them cash payment, but its permanent effects are of vast significance to the industry."

Directors hope the bulk of the 10,000,000 can be bought before winter, pointing out that forage and feed are inadequate to last through the cold months.

Grass and legumes are considered so badly damaged that they cannot recover over a vast section of the drouth area. Officials predicted that effects of the drouth on hay and forage crops will be felt for two years.

Sister Of Fisch Uncovers Key to Bank Safety Box

Leipzig,—The key to a safety deposit box maintained in New York by Isadore Fisch, Bruno Richard Hauptmann's "alibi" in the Lindbergh case, was found today by his sister, Hannah Fisch.

Although she previously had denied all knowledge of the key, Hannah admitted she had found it in a bunch of keys brought back here from the United States by her brother.

"I have found there is a safe deposit key in a bunch of other keys left here by Isadore," Hannah said. "Until I looked a second time, I did not realize it was the key to a safe deposit box."

Doesn't Know Bank

The sister, however, was unable to throw any light upon the name or location of the bank where Fisch rented the box. Hauptmann has told police the $13,750 Lindbergh ransom money found in his garage was given to him by Fisch, who since died here of consumption.

Hannah made her revelation in the presence of Fisch's brother, Pinkus, who returned to Leipzig after an out-of-town holiday. Fisch's father has stated the dead man sent large sums of money to his brother and sister after emigrating to the United States.

Meanwhile, although the German police have received no official request from American authorities for action in the case they have started an unofficial investigation here.

Pinkus revealed hitherto undisclosed details of his brother's friendship with Hauptmann.

Met in 1932

"They met in 1932," he said. "In March of that year, Isadore applied for a German visa, intending to visit us, but some time later cancelled his visit, declaring in his letter he was unable to get away.

"Two years later he suddenly announced he was coming home."

Pinkus stated that after his brother's death he received many letters from Isadore's New York creditors asking payment of debts ranging from $500 to $1500.

"Most of the creditors' letters came from the 'Bronx,'" he said. "One creditor wrote to his father here, authorizing him to collect $1500, but I kicked him out because he had no signed claim.

"If Isadore owed so much money, how could he have had the Lindbergh ransom?"

Pinkus admitted that during the eight years he spent in America, Isadore sent home approximately $1500.

"But during the latter part of his stay in America," Pinkus said, "he sent only small sums, such as a $1 bill on my little daughter's birthday."

Pinkus said that Hauptmann's wife, who came to Germany in 1932, did not visit the Fisch family.

GOTHAM OFFICER ARRIVES AT KAMENZ

Dresden.—Arthur Johnson. the New York detective who has been in Europe on the case of Ivan Poderjay, has arrived at Kamenz, Sexony, birthplace of Bruno Richard Hauptmann to investigate German angles in the Lindbergh case, it was learned today.

Johnson was ordered to Kamenz from Veinna soon after Hauptmann's arrest.

HAUPTMANN NOT KNOWN TO MISS GOW

Glasgow,—Betty Gow, the little Scottish nursemaid, who was in charge of the Lindbergh baby at the time of his abduction, says she had never heard of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, held in New York as a kidnap-suspect.

Located in her mother's home here, Betty authorized her brother John to speak for her and to declare that although she studied pictures of Hauptmann, she could not associate him in any way with the kidnaping.

"The new developments in America in connection with the case are just as much of a surprise to Betty as to the rest of the world," Gow said.

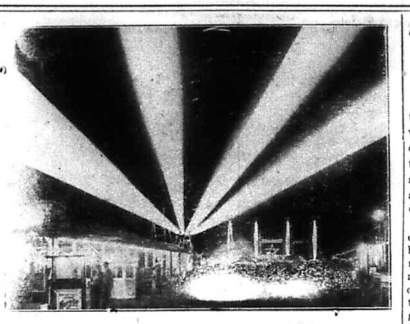
Wife Divorces Perfect Mate

Guthrie, Okla.—Helen Hanley, wealthy, several years ago wanted a companion. She married Elmer P. Robinson. Elmer was a good cook and prepared most of the family meals. He next learned to wash clothes and did most of the family washing. Notwithstanding that Robison was almost a "perfect husband," his wife appeared in court seeking a divorce. She complained that her husband was continually running for public office and was therefore neglecting his duties at home.

Rescues man in 1884; Is Rewarded in 1934

Crafton, N. D.—Ole Johnson, engineer at the city water plant in Crafton received a letter a few days ago from an attorney in England stating that the sum of $2,515 was willed to him by an Englishman.

In the fall of 1884, Johnson, then a sailor on a Norwegian boat, jumped overboard and rescued a man at sea who had been clinging to wreckage from his ship for nearly two days. It was all part of a day's work to Johnson, but not to the man he rescued. When the Englishman died he left his entire estate to the man who rescued him 50 years ago.



Search lights of 200 million candle power intensity will pierce the sky for 60 miles around Meridian during the Mississippi Fair, October 15-20 inclusive. These lights are one of the unusual free features of the Royal American Shows—World's largest midway—which will feature the amusement center for this annual event. There are four lights, each of 50-million candle-power, which are manually operated by a crew of nine former sea-fearing men. These lights were purchased from the federal government when the Cruiser Charleston was dismantled and have been transported throughout the United States and Canada, this season, as a far-reaching attraction. The beams of bluish illumination can be seen for 65 miles on ordinary nights and have been seen for 85 miles on government test.

Two Missing Meridian Girls Found After "Hitch-Hikeing" To Demopolis

Allie Mae Donald, age 15 and Rose Mae Nichols, age 14, attractive and lo kin somewhat older, were located at Demopolis, Ala., late Tuesday afternoon following a search for them in all directions of Meridian.

Both girls had left their homes near 9th Ave. and 15th St., about 8:00 o'clock Monday evening and after failing to return by 10:30, the parents notified the police department and the sheriff's office. A salesman for a local wholesale grocery concern picked the girls up while they were walking in the direction of Russell and carried them as far as York. At that point they secured another ride to Demopolis where they were located by officers of the Alabama town.

Mr. Donald, father of one of the girls, thinking that Mobile would be the possible destination of the pair, left here Monday night for that city. He was notified Tuesday that the girls were being held in Demopolis. Both he and the girls are expected home some time today. No motive for the girls disappearance from home could be given by the parents other than a desire to visit old friends and relatives in the Alabama town.

Lodge No. 224 Of Knights of Pythias Largely Attended

Monday evening in the Pythian building, Meridian Lodge number 224, held one of its best meetings of the year. Chancellor Commander Jim Goodwin, presided over the meeting and fraternal addresses were made by both old as well as new members.

Announcement was made that that lodge expected to initiate a large class of candidotes in the rank of Page at the next regular meeting to be held Monday evening October 8.

Refreshments and smokes were served to the members at the close of the meeting.

Dokey Drum Corps Holds its Meeting

El Hama's Drum and Bugle Corps held its regular meeting last night in the Pythian building with a large number of members present. Plans were made in which the drum corps is to take part in the next ceremonial to be held in Meridian in the near future.

Notice was given to all the regular members to attend each regular meeting or they would be replaced by new members.

The drum corps is making plans to attend the Imperial Palace meeting of all Dokey Temples throughout the United States and Canada at its regular meeting to be held next August in Toronto, Canado.

In 1931 this unit represented Meridian at the national meeting held in Cincinnatti, Ohio, and in 1933 in South Bend, Ind. Both times the drum corps from the Meridian Temple won prizes in the contests, competing with teams from every state in the union.

Cardinals Win; N. Y. Giants Lose

New York.—While the Phillies were beating the New York Giants Tuesday 4 to 0, the St. Louis Cardinals with Jerome Dean, the junior member of the firm of Dean and Dean, pitching, took on the Pittsburg Pirates to the tune of 3 to 2, putting the Cards exactly one game behind the Giants. This eleventh-hour performance of baseball teams running one-two in the National circuit has more thrills than the fans have had in a number of years—and they enjoy it everywhere except in New York. The Giants have three more games to play, one with the Phillies Wednesday and two games with Brooklyn on Saturday and Sunday after after resting Thursday and Friday. Brooklyn will prove anything but a set-up for Bill Terry's men as the players from Flatbush would take a great deal of pride in being able to boast that they were responsible for the Giants losing the pennant. The Cards have one more game with the Pirates Wednesday, and four games with the Cinci Reds on the four days following. The Reds are in last place and may or may not play their best brand of baseball. Figure it out for yourself.

Now IF the Cards lose to the Pirates Wednesday and then beat the Reds four straight, and IF the Giants lose one of their three remaining games, the teams will be tied with 95 games won and 58 games lost.

Squirrel Season To Open Mon., Oct. 1

Squirrel season opens Monday, and according to announcements made from the sheriff's office by Deputy Sheriff Frank Kennedy, many citizens are purchasing county and state license.

Reports from those living in the county are to the effect that there is a large crop of the fur-bearing animals this year. The limit for each hunter per doy is eight.

Packing Companies Give Pay Increase

Chicago.—Thirty thousand plant employes of Armour & Company were granted a wage increase of 8 per cent, effective at once, it was announced by T. G. Lee, president of the company.

All Armour plants in the country will be affected. While no official announcement was made as to the amount involved estimates in packing circles placed the total at around $2,000,000 yearly.

Jersey City, N. J.—An annual wage increase totaling $1,000,000 for all employes of the Cudahy Packing Company and its subsidaries will go into effect immediately, it was announced today by F. J. Cooper, vice-president of the Nagel Packing Company, Cudahy subsidiary.

Employes in all departments will share in the increase, he said.

Special Session Action Expected Soon in Jackson

Jackson, Miss.—Interest in politics is increasing in Mississippi with the discussion of an extraordinary session of the Legislature this fall, changes in relief policies anticipated, and the gubernational and other state office campaigns coming next year.

There is little doubt in political circles but that the Legislature will be in session by November 1 to make provisions for the state to assume some of the share of relief of its citizens now borne entirely by the federal government, for reorganization of the state highway department, and for the calling of a constitutional convention.

he lines are being definitely drawn for a renewal of the struggle for reorganization of the highway department at the extraordinary session, with administrationists claiming many converts since the senatorial and congressional elections. These same leaders also are expressing confidence that the Legislature will also call a constitutional convention.

On the other hand, reports from members of the Legislature who are familiar with the question seem to differ and expressed an opinion that the convention will not be called. They use the fact that candidates for the lower house of Congress, who were members of the Legislature, and were elected, did not favor the convention idea. Several candidates who favored a convention during the last legislative session were defeated by a large majority when they offered as candidates for the national legislature.

Candidates for '35 Are Lining Up

With the Congressional and States Congress in the discards, candidates for local and state offices are beginning to make their appearance. Rumors are to the effect that a large number are seriously considering entering the race for sheriff. Those mentioned upon the streets were as follows: Bill Rush Mosby, who was in the run-off three years ago with the present sheriff, Brice M. Stephens, Raymond Clay, present Justice of the Pence; Frank Kennedy, present deputy sheriff; W. P. Shannon, deputy sheriff; I. S. Watson, representative of the Lamar Life Insurance Company of Jackson; John M. Martin, candidate in 1931; Charles W. Dunn, brother to Congressman-elect Aubert C. Dunn, and a possibility that Boliver Hyde, present chief of police, will throw his hat in the fight.

In the race for Chancery Clerk, those mentioned as likely to enter were the present clerk, Mack Cameron; Jim Holland and Reece Harris.

For Circuit Clerk: present clerk, Willis Taylor; Roy L. Rush, Spinks King, and Matt J. Stone.

For Superintendent of Education: present superintendent, John R. Ellis; Hiram Raney and Professor George Lockhart.

Many prospects were reported lining up for Supervisors in the five beats and the officers of Justice of peace promised to be lively.

Altho not many candidates made known their intention of offering for legislative seats, it is to be expected a goodly number would offer for the three seats in the lower house and the office of state senate. These offices are now held by Hon. Thomas L. Bailey, representative from the city of Meridian; Monroe Bailey, county at large; Austin Hand, county outside, and James F. Waddell, present State Senator.

Highway Swallows Man's Building Lot

Peekskill, N. Y.—Eleven years ago, Louis Teebiry bought a lot at an auction sale. Teebiry has paid taxes on the lot since he bought it. A few days ago he decided to build a home on the lot, but when surveyors staked off his corners, it was discovered that his lot was in the center of a highway more than 100 feet wide. The discription of his deed calls for a lot 50x100 feet. He is suing the State Highway Department for $500.00 plus interest.

Killer of Little Girl Captured, Confesses Crime

New York.—Less than 24 hours after the fiendish murder of a 7-year-old girl on an isolated road two miles from her home at Islip Manor, L. I., police today had the confession of a state hospital carpenter, who told them the crime climaxed a week's vacation spree.

Patrick Downey, 31, married and the father of two children, including a girl about the age of his little victim, was arrested after an all-night search by more than 50 state troopers.

The body of Rita Lazzeri was found in a clump of bushes off Commack Road. A handkerchief with which she had been strangled was lying near by.

Downey collapsed when he viewed the body at the state police hadquarters in Bay Shore.

Duties Of Hi-Way Heads Are Many

(This is one of a series of weekly articles prepared by Information Service of the State Highway Department concerning administration, construction and maintenance of Mississippi's highway system.)

Mississippi's highway laws invests the State Highway commission with full and general supervision over all matters relating to the construction and maintenance of the state highway, letting of contracts and selecting of matreials to be used. The commission makes and publishes rules, regulations and ordinances for the control and policing of traffic on the highways and the prevent their abuse by any and all persons.

It may regulate and abandon grade crossings on any road fixed as a part of the state highway system whenever an underpass or overhead bridge is substituted. It may provide for boulevard stops and erect suitable direction and warning signs. Rules and regulations for the removal from the public right-of-way of any form of obstruction as well as exclusive control of grade crossings, and safety or warning devices upon the state highway system, are included in the powers and duties of the commission.

While it is obvious from the foregoing that the duties of the members of the highway commission are sufficient to keep them unusually busy, as public servants who see to the administration of one of the most extensive branches of state government, and one which is so closely related to the public, their time can seldom be called their own. From early morning until late at night, they are in demand, oftimes on minor matters, but all-important to the individual concerned.

Each member is accountable to the thousands of motorists who daily travel the highways of his district, which is approximately one-third of the state. He is called on to answer many questions, some of which are impossible to answer. He is expected to attend good road meetings and public functions of various kinds wherever and wherever the public desires, and aside from the appeals of numerous communities for more and better highways, scores of good citizens almost daily ask for employment, while as a matter of fact, other than positions of a supervisory nature, the commissioner has few jobs at his disposal.

Numerous requests for advance information on proposed routes of new roads confront the commissioners, as well as to the time necessary to complete certain construction work. Such questions cannot be answered with any degree of accuracy owing to the many and often complicated details entering into the completion of plans, their acceptability to Federal road authorities, availability of funds, and unforseen and unavoidable delays frequently encountered.

Again, We Say, "Why Not a Three Dollar Street Tax?"

We are just wondering if it would not be a profitable move for the city of Meridian if the street tax was lowered from the present $5.00 rate to $3.00.

There are many people in the city of Meridian today, who are not able to pay the present rate and therefore are going delinquent and also depriving the city of Meridian of the much needed money to run our city government. A large majority of those not paying the $5.00 could and would pay $3.00 if the amount was lowered at the next tax-paying pay day.

In our opinion, there would be more citizens paying the smaller rate and in such an amount that it would yeild the city more money than we are receiving from the tax now imposed.

A five-dollar bill would pay ones poll taxes in the county and also street taxes in the city.

We offer this again as food for thought. This little form of relief to those who are now paying would be greatly appreciated and needed. At the same time, hundreds would be able to contribute their share in the up-keep of our city who are now unable to do so because of lack of finances.

From a financial standpoint, we believe the city of Meridian would profit by this action. We know the taxpayer would welcome such a move.

THE LINDBERGH CASE

United States undercover men, aided by New York officials, have unearthed facts that appear to lead directly to the one who committed one of the most hideous crimes of this age—the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child and its death.

A German ex-convict, deported twice from the United States, and who lived within a stones throw from the Lindbergh home at the time of the crime, has been apprehended and ransom money found in his possession.

Richard Hauptman is the suspect and officers are fast weaving the mass of evidence that will very likely bring other parties directly into the linelight as partners with Hauptman. Hauptman himself, has very little chance to escape guilt, at least as an extortionist. He is a carpenter and the newly constructed ladder found at the window in the Lindbergh home was made from timber that resembles very much that found in the lumber yard where Hauptman worked. His handwriting compares, according to handwritinv experts, exactly with the handwriting in the notes that demanded the ransom money for the return of the child.

Other evidence against Hauptman seems to be equally as "airtight."

Uncle Sam does not relinquish his fight against criminals. When once on a case, there is not let up. There are cases on record where the United States government has found their man and brought him to trial, even thirty to forty years after the act itself has been committed.

As a result of the Lindbergh kidnaping, Mississippi now has a law written on its statute books, making it a capital offense for kidnaping in this state.

One of the best laws for organized society that the legislature has ever written on its books.

THE BANKHEAD ACT

United States Senator, Pat Harrison, speaking at West Point, Mississippi, pointed out the fact that he opposed any modification at the present time of the Bankhead cotton act.

Quoting from the Senator's speach, he said, "I am against any movement which would create the belief that the cotton production control plan was to be abrogated. Such a belief would drive the price of cotton down, entailing millions of dollars loss to the cotton farmers of the South."

The Senator stated, "Whatever changes are to be made and whatever policies are changes, it seems to me it would be wiser to wait until this crop is gathered and marketed."

Whether the Senator is right or not, we do know that we do not want anything at the present time to interfere with the cotton market bringing the farmers a fair and reasonable price for their crop.

The south depends upon its cotton crop. When the price of this commodity drops below 10 to 12 cents per pound, not only the farmers, as individuals, suffer very greatly, but the entire south as a whole.

The southern farmer, with a diversified crop and cotton bringing 12 to 15 cents per pound, will prosper. None of us doubt the old saying, "As the farmer prospers, so prospers the south."

Whatever happens, let us do nothing that will prevent the farmer from receiving a good price for his cotton.

Capital Activities

By WALKER WOOD
Secretary of State

The second annual convention of the Mississippi State Bar, recently held at Hattiesburg, was liberally attended and a splendid program was enjoyed. Officers elected for the ensuing year are: Major Calvin Wells, Jackson, president; James McClure, Sardis, 1st vice-president; Earl Brewer, Jackson, 2nd vice-president; Walter Capers, Jackson, secretary-treasurer.

The State Railroad Commission recently ordered a 25 per cent reduction of sand and gravel freight rates on all Mississippi railroads. Other freight reductions were also ordered on certain commodities, including canned goods, dairy products, cotton seed, lumber, cotton and petroleum products.

Fred B. Merrill, forestry director, announces that five additional CCC camps will be added to Mississippi's quotas, during the month of October. This will make a total of 32 camps in the State.

Contracts for roadway and bridges recently awarded by the State Highway Commission included projects on the Philadelphia-Louisville road in Winston county, the Columbus-Aberdeen highway in Lowndes county, and two small projects in Walthall county. The total amount of the contracts was $113,080.47.

The Mississippi supreme court has resumed its deliberations after the summer vacation. S. H. Stockett was elected by the judges as supreme court marshal to succeed the late lamented George C. Myers.

The State Democratic Executive Committee held a meeting on Tuesday, September 25th., and canvassed the returns of the second primary election, and declared the following Democratic nominees: For United States Senator—Theodore G. Bilbo; for Congress, 4th district—A. L. Ford; for Congress, 5th district—Aubert C. Dunn; for Congress, 7th district—Dan R. McGehee; for circuit court judge, 3rd district—Taylor H. McElroy; for circuit judge, 14th district—J. F. Guynes.

In giving a resume of the accomplishments of the CCC camps of this State, announcement is made that within the seventeen months of operation, 165,000 check dams have been built in Mississippi, these dams being brush, earth and other materials, placed in gullies to check the run-off after rains and to assist in reclaiming eroded lands.

On June 30, 1934, there were total deposits in the 212 state banks of Mississippi amounting to $79,832,663.00, against a total of $63,528,639.00 on the same date of 1933, according to Superintendent of Banks, J. S. Love. This reflects an increase of more than $13,000,000.00, or twenty per cent.

State examinations for graduate nurses' license will be held in Jackson, October 1st and 2nd, and approximately 200 applications for examination have been made. Other examinations to occur in October will be made to fill about 960 places in the Civilian Conservation Corps in Mississippi. These positions were made vacant by parties dropping out to attend school and to accept permanent commercial positions.

Elaborate preparations are under way, looking to making the big free State Fair at Jackson, October 8, to 13, the most interesting and enjoyable exhibition in the history of the fair. The attendance promises to be unusually large.

The daily statement issued by and under the authority of Chairman Alf. Stone of the Tax Commission for Tuesday, September 18, shows the total collections of his department for the period of January 1, 1934, to and including September 18, 1934, as amounting to $4,333,140.40, against $3,143,863.89, for the same period of 1933, or an increase of nearly twenty-five per cent. As an indication of the trend of business conditions this year over those of last year, the receipts of 1934 to date, from the retail sales tax alone, amounted in round numbers to $2,500,000.00 against $1,750,000.00 for the same period of 1933, which reflects an increase of more than forty per cent.

ported to know the identity of "the Lindbergh baby kidnaper" appeared on the scene today. He was one Ivan Petrovich of New York, held here on charges of murder.

According to reports widely circulated here, the Belgrade police have requested Arthur Johnson, New York City detective now in Europe, to come to Belgrade to investigate the claim of Petrovich.

FISCH IMPLICATED IN RANSOM MONEY

Washington.—Justice department agents sought to prove tonight that the late Isadore Fisch, tubercular German, was present in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx when the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom double-cross was consummated.

Evidence hinting at such a possibility was known to be in the hands of federal investigators.

New York.—In response to a telephone request, New York police rushed fingerprints of Bruno Richard Hauptmann to New Jersey authorities to complete their case against the immigrant carpenter for the kidnap-murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

This action tended to confirm the statement of a high police official that, despite all denials, fingerprints of the kidnaper were found on the window sill of the Lindbergh nursery the morning after the crime.

"That is the one priceless piece of evidence in the possession of the New Jersey state police," the official insisted. "They've kept it secret because they knew it was the only infallible proof. If those fingerprints tally with Hauptmann's, he might as well be sitting in the electric chair this moment."

Marks of Plane Indicated

If more evidence were needed, investigators hoped to find it in Hauptmann's tools, which were removed from his garage and taken to the office of District Attorney Samuel Foley of the Bronx.

The wood in the kidnaper's ladder bore marks of a plane, a chisel and a hammer, all of them clear enough under a miscroscope to be damaging in they correspond with the imprints of those found in the Bronx carpenter's tool kit.

The major developments during the day included:

1. Fingerprints of Hauptmann were sent to New Jersey by New York police at telephone request. This appared to confirm the statement of a high police official that —notwithstanding previous denials —fingerprints of the kidnaper had been found on the nursery window sill.

Nine Witnesses Heard

2. After a conference, Colonel Schwarzwoph and Attorney-General David Wilentz announced Hauptmann would be extradited to New Jersey on a "kidnaping and murder" charge "probably in a week."

3. Nine witnesses testified at a hearing on an extortion charge before the Bronx county grand jury before it adjourned for the day.

4. Flying East from Los Angeles to testify before the grand jury, Colonel Lindbergh landed his plane in a cow pasture near Spearman, Tex., refueled, and took off again. His wife is accompanying him.

5. Handcuffed to a chair Hauptmann was allowed to see his 10-month-old son for the first time since his arrest. As he fondled the baby with his free hand, his wife dropped to her knees and kissed his manacled hand.

More Money Found

6. District Attorney Samuel Foley of the Bronx announced that "considerably more ransom money" had been accounted for in Hauptmann's bank deposits. He said "several witnesses" had identified the prisoner with receipt of the ransom.

7. Handwriting of the late Isadore Fisch, from whom Hauptmann claims he got the "wonderful cardboard box" containing $14,000 of the Lindbergh ransom money, was found by experts to have no similarity to that in the ransom notes. In Leipzig, Germany, the family of the tubercular Bronx furrier said he died penniless.

Secretive and mysterious James M. Fawcett, attorney for the prisoner, declared on his arrival at Bronx county courthouse that he fully expected Hauptmann would be exonerated.

"I have startling information which is now being carefully investigated," Fawcett said enigmatically. "If this information is true, the case will be split wide open. It may be a matter of weeks but my investigators have been and still are quietly at work on the matter. This is just the quiet before the storm. It may be weeks before I am prepared to tell the story."

Dillinger Attorney Freed Under Bond

Chicago.—Louis Piquett celebrated his 50th birthday in grand style by walking free from the county jail.

Friends of his wife gave him his freedom as a birthday present by posting $102,500 of property to satisfy bond requirements.

Piquett, widely known criminal lawyer, is charged with harboring John Dillinger and Homer van Meter, slain outlaws, while they were hunted over the nation by federal authorities.

Two North Side rooming houses were posted as collateral for the bonds, which had been set at $20,000 cash or $100,000 in property.

Proposed Constitutional Amendments and Attorney General's Comments

Honorable Walker Wood
Secretary of State
Jackson, Mississippi
Dear Sir:

The Legislature of 1934 adopted Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 37, requesting the Attorney General to interpret each of the four constitutional amendments to be submitted to the people for their approval or rejection at the General Election to be held on November 6, 1934. In said resolution the Attorney General is requested to explain in a general manner the additional powers granted to the Legislature by the adoption of such amendments, and the probable results to be obtained as a consequence of such adoption. I am directed to file a copy of such interpretations with you, and you in turn are directed to have such interpretations published as proposed constitutional amendments are now published, and you are further directed to send a copy of said interpretations to the Election Commissioners of the various counties of the state, and the said Election Commissioners are directed to have copies thereof printed and distributed to the various voting precincts for posting and for distribution to the electors.

I trust that you and the public will understand that my discussion of these proposed amendments at this time, and in this manner, is pursuant to the request of the Mississippi Legislature as contained in said Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 37. It is no part of the duties of the Attorney General to champion any sort of legislation. Indeed, it is my judgment that he will impair his usefulness as a public official if he becomes partisan and involved in legislative controversies, therefore, I avoid all such, but when the Legislature, as it has the right to do, solemnly calls on me for my opinion and my views as in this instance, I conceive it my duty to respond in a candid manner.

Yours very truly,
GREEK L. RICE, Attorney General.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 3.

A Concurrent Resolution to amend Section 241 of the constitution of the State of Mississippi as to the qualifications of an elector.

A Concurrent Resolution to amend section 241 of the constitution of the State of Mississippi as to the qualifications of an elector providing that the payment of poll taxes which may have been legally required shall be the only payment of taxes requesite to entitle citizens otherwise qualified, to vote.

Be is Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, two-thirds of each House agreeing thereto, that the following amendment to the state constitution be submitted to the qualified electors of the state for ratification or rejection at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1934, to-wit:

Amend section 241 of the constitution so it will read as follows:

Every inhabitant of this state, except idiots, insane persons, and Indians not taxed, who is a citizen of the United States, twenty-one years old and upwards, who has resided in this state for two years, and one year in the election district, or in the incorporated city or town in which he offers to vote, and who is duly registered as provided in this article, and who has never been convicted of bribery, burglary, theft, arson, obtaining money or goods under false pretense, perjury, forgery, embezzlement, or bigamy and who has paid on or before the first day of February of the year in which he shall offer to vote, all poll taxes which may have been legally required of him, and which he has had an opportunity of paying according to law, for the two preceding years, and who shall produce to the officers holding the election satisfactory evidence that he has paid said taxes, is declared to be a qualified elector; but any minister of the gospel in charge of an organized church shall be entitled to vote after six months' residence in the election district, if otherwise qualified.

Attorney General's Comment on Amendment proposed by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3

The explanation here is simple and the change sought by the proposed amendment is easy to understand. Under Section 241 of our Constitution, as it exists at this time, in addition to all the other requirements of a qualified elector, it is required that such elector must have paid, on or before the first day of February of the year in which such elector shall offer to vote 'ALL TAXES" which may have been legally required of such elector, and which such elector has had an opportunity of paying according to law, for the two preceding years. A citizen otherwise qualified under this proposed amendment will be a qualified elector if ONLY THE POLL TAXES for the two prescribed years are paid as therein set out, although such citizen may not have paid taxes on any of his property.

It is well to keep in mind the distinction between a mere voter and a qualified elector. The Mississippi Legislature has heretofore provided that citizens of the state otherwise qualified, may vote in Primary Elections, upon payment of poll taxes as above prescribed. However, as the law now stands, under Section 241, unless such a citizen pays, not only his poll taxes, but "ALL TAXES" in the manner prescribed therein, he is not a qualified elector. Therefore, he cannot vote in general and special elections. He cannot vote on these amendments. He is not eligible to hold office. He is not eligible for jury service. The Legislature is powerless to abolish, repeal or minimize any of the qualifications prescribed under said Section 241. The only way in which this can be reached is by change in the Constitution in the manner proposed by this Amendment.

It is not generally thought that this change will materially affect the franchise article in our Constitution. Section 242, requiring strict registrations, is not affected by this proposed amendment. Section 242, which, perhaps, is the most valuable one of them all, in the maintenance of white supremacy at the polls, will not be affected. This section requires that each elector shall be able to read any section of the Constitution of this state, or he shall be able to understand the same, if read to him, or give a reasonable interpretation thereof. It is believed that this section affords ample protection against undesirable voters and it is further believed that in view of the large number of our best people who have become disqualified in this respect because of delinquency in payment of property taxes, that the best interests of the state will now be served by the adoption of this amendment.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 5

A Concurrent Resolution to amend section 115 of the constitution of the State of Mississippi so as to change the beginning of the fiscal year from the first day of October to the first day of July.

Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, two-thirds of the Senate and the House of Representatives agreeing thereto:

That the following amendment to the constitution of the State of Mississippi be submitted to the qualified electors of the state for ratification or rejection at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D., 1934, viz:

Amend section 115 of the constitution of the State of Mississippi, so that it shall read as follows:

Sec. 115. The fiscal year of the State of Mississippi shall commense on the first day of July and end on the thirtieth day of June of each year; and the auditor of public accounts and the treasurer of the state shall compile and have published a full and complete report, showing the transactions of their respective offices on or before the thirty-first day of December of each year for the preceding fiscal year.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 23

A Concurrent Resolution to amend section 64 of the constitution of the State of Mississippi so as to provide that appropriation

Meridianite in Wash. Writes for the "Sun"

The staff of the Morning Sun has received a letter from one of Meridian's popular citizens now in Washington, D. C., requesting that we put him on the mailing list and "do not fail" to send him every issue of his favorite paper.

T. E. Culpepper, the writer, is well known here and took an active part in the last Senatorial campaign, working in the office of U. S. Senator-elect, Theo. G. Bilbo during the first and second primaries. His letter is as follows:

Washington, D. C.
Oct. 20, 1934

The Morning Sun
Meridian, Miss.
Dear Friends:

I have been in Washington for nearly three weeks and I sure miss my old friends back in Meridian. I am writing asking that you be sure to enter me on the mailing list and "do not fail" to send me every copy of your paper. It is my favorite and I do not want to be without it any longer.

I don't find the people here in Washington hating Bilbo like his opponents and their followers tried to make us believe during the campaign. From the speeches they made one would think that the president of the U. S. would resign his office if Bilbo was elected, but I find that he (the President) plans to stay on the job as before. I, for one, am looking forward to the day when the "little man" from Mississippi, with his horseshoe pin and red neck tie shall have crossed the Potomac and reported for duty.

I hope you fellows are continuing to make a big hit with your paper. We have the Star, Times, Post and Herald, but no MORNING SUN, therefore again I say, don't let me miss another issue.

With the best of wishes to you and all my friends in Meridian, I am your friend.

Mr. Culpepper's name has been added to the mailing list and will receive his "SUN" regularly.

Murphree Pardons; Conner Gets Hot

Jackson.—Governor Mike Conner's brief absence from the state for a public address at Memphis a week ago set the stage for the drama featuring himself, Dennis Murphree, Eugene Prince, the Supreme Court, Greek Rice, attorney general and others.

The drama has a wonderful ending—for the negro, Prince, who had an appointment with the hangman November 9. The appointment was postponed for the balance of Prince's life by the Lt. Governor, acting as Governor while the Governor himself was delivering his "stockholder's report" to those residing in the delta and in that section of the south generally.

And thereby hangs a tale.

It made it possible, under Murphree's theory, for him to take over the power of life and death ordinarily held—and jealously guarded—by Governor Conner, who has been singularly deaf to clemency pleas from the beginning of his administration.

Conner Protests

"He had no right to do it," Gov. Mike Conner hotly proclaimed last night, when told that his subordinate had set aside the court's death decree for one of his own—life imprisonment.

Murphree Retorts

"The governor is very silly if he takes this attitude," rejoined Lieut. Governor Murphree. "The supreme court has ruled in a similar case that the lieutenant-governor is acting governor the minute the chief executive steps over the state line—if for no more than one minute's time.

"That decision was handed down 11 years ago when Homer Casteel, then lieutenant-governor, took over the duties of Governor Lee M. Russell when the latter stepped out of the state briefly.

"As for commuting the sentence, there was no secret to my act, so far as I am concerned. I acted upon recommendation of Attorney General Greek L. Rice, in whose home town, Charleston, the negro was tried and convicted. I have in my files the recommendation of Trial Judge Ed Kukendall."

Rice in Rebuttal

Backing up Murphree's representations, Attorney General Greek Rice went several steps further to make out a case for justice and mercy in Murphree's favor.

"The circumstances of the trial clearly show the negro should not have been given the death penalty," Rice declared.

"The record shows that his attorney took the stand and testified under oath that while defending this negro he was dunk and incapable of properly handling his client's case. That is a matter of court record, not in dispute anywhere.

"It further is a matter of record that Prince had been offered a sentence of ten years by the prosecution if he would plead guilty, which offer his counsel declined."

Murphree commuted the sentence while Governor Conner had established a temporary capitol base at Hernando, during the few days a week ago that he was filling engagements in his series of stockholders' reports at Memphis and nearby towns in north Mississippi.

In this program, which is part of the strategy the executive has used before to protect the clemency power of his office, the governor would journey to Memphis, deliver a speech, return to Hernando for the night, make another speech at a north Mississippi point the following day, and after spending the night again at Hernando would journey to Memphis for another speech.

During one day of the governor's sojourn at the state line, Murphree walked to the capitol at the noon hour, spent 15 minutes in signing some land patents on the first floor of the building and returned to his business office in the city without actually sitting in the governor's chair on the third floor.

Murphree has in his private files, however, the data on which he based his clemency act, he said last night.

"Anybody is welcome to examine it at any time, including Governor Conner," he said. He added that the attorney-general will back up his contention that he had a legal right to exercise executive duties at the time.

GENERAL ELECTION—NOVEMBER 6th

Appearing on the front page of this morning's issue will be found the four proposed amendments to the present constitution, together with comments from the Atty. General.

These four amendments should be read carefully and each and every qualified elector should express himself at the polls on that day.

The proposed changes deal with the qualifications of voters in general and special elections; changing of the fiscal year for the state, and the other proposes to change section 112 of the present constitution so as to change the present system of taxation.

Section 112 is to the effect that "all taxes throughout the state shall be equal and uniform." This is our present system of taxation.

The change in the constitution, if adopted, will allow the legislature to classify property for taxation. This means that there will be different classes made by the law-making body and different rates of taxation placed upon each.

It should be kept in mind that no amendment will be adopted unless it receives a majority of all the votes cast in the general election. The Attorney General's comments appear with the proposed changes and his statement on these changes should be carefully ready by all citizens.

These proposed amendments will be submitted to the qualified electors November 6th, and it is our duty to vote on them as we believe will be to the best interest of Mississippi.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS AND ATTY. GENERAL'S COMMENTS

bills shall not continue in force more than two months after the ending of the fiscal year next following the meeting of the regular biennial meeting of the legislature.

Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, two-thirds of the Senate and the House of Representatives agreeing thereto:

That the following amendment to the constitution of the State of Mississippi be submitted to the qualified electors of the state for ratification or rejection at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D., 1934.

Amend section 64 of the constitution of the State of Mississippi, so as to read as follows:

Sec. 64. No bill passed after the adoption of this constitution to make appropriations of money out of the stat etreasury shall continue in force more than two months after the expiration of the fiscal year ending after the meeting of the legislature at its next bill be passed except by the votes of a majority of all the members elected to each house of the legislature.

Attorney General's Comment on Amendments Proposed by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5 and Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 23.

The two foregoing proposed amendments will perhaps be better understood if discussed together. They are companion measures and the full benefits desired can only be secured by adoption of both amendments. By adopting the amendment proposed in Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5, the fiscal year of the state will hereafter commence on the first day of July and end on the 30th day of June instead of beginning on the 1st day of October and ending on the 30th day of September, as now fixed in said Section of the Constitution. This change will make our fiscal year the same as that of the Federal government, and that the two governments should have the same fiscal year is becoming more and more important all the while from a bookkeeping and accounting standpoint. The fiscal year of any government, like that of any business institution, is the period for which its books are kept and at the end of which its accounts are closed and operating statements are prepared.

If these two amendments are adopted, it is the legislative purpose to make appropriations for state departments, institutions and agencies based on the fiscal year instead of the calendar year. Appropriations are now made for two year periods—said funds so appropriated being available for use, beginning with January in the year appropriation is made.

When the Legislature convened in regular session in 1932, and again in 1934, no state department, institution or agency had any funds to operate on until appropriation bills had been passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor. No such bills were approved in 1932 until May 18th of that year. Consequently, the state's business, if it operated at all, had to operate on credit for these five months. Credit prices are usually higher than cash prices. No officer, agent or servant received any compensation during that period. There were no funds available, even for the purchase of postage stamps during that period of time, except for special appropriation measures. If the state's business had been operated then on the basis contemplated and planned by these two amendments, no such condition would have arisen. The appropriations based on the fiscal year as herein proposed would have been available for use until the 30th day of June following the convening of the Legislature.

The amendment proposed by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 23 would have authorized two additional months after ending of fiscal year to pay accrued obligations out of appropriations before said appropriations lapsed. Under this procedure it would give the Legislature opportunity to study carefully all appropriation bills, uninfluenced by pressure and arguments of immediate need by the departments, institutions and agencies. It is clear that these changes would better promote the continuous and uninterrupted and economical operation of the state's business.

If Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5 is defeated, then no purpose would be served in adopting Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 23. In that event, it would be better to defeat both.

In considering these two amendments, it might be well to mention the fact that in substance both these amendments have been recommended for adoption by the last three state auditors, viz: Hon. Geo. D. Riley, Hon. Carl C. White and Hon. Joe S. Price. I am also authorized to say that both these proposals are favored by the present state treasurer, Hon. L. S. May.

3. HOW MUCH MAY I APPLY FOR?

From $100 to $2,000, depending on your income, for developments on and one property.

4. HOW LONG MAY NOTES RUN?

For any number of months from one to five years. However, the term of the notes depends entirely on the discretion of the financial institution which may at its option require loans to be repaid over such lesser periods as justified by the amount you can reasonably afford to pay each month.

5. WHAT SECURITY IS REQUIRED?

That you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community. Other security may be accepted if deemed necessary by the financial institution to facilitate extension of credit; or if required by the law governing certain institutions.

6. WHAT ASSURANCE NEED I GIVE.

(a) That you own the property.

(b) That the regular income of the signers of the note is adequate to meet the payments on the note.

(c That your mortgage, if any, is in good standing, and that there are no other past due encumbrances or liens against your property.

(d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

7. WHAT SIGNATURES ARE REQUIRED ON THE NOTE?

Signature of the property owner and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married also signature of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required, unless necessary to facilitate a loan which could not be made otherwise.

The regular installment payments will be made in person at the place of business of the financial institution, or by mail; or as otherwise arranged. No payment shall be made to any governmental office or organization.

12. MAY I PAY THE NOTE IN FULL BEFORE MATURITY DATE?

Yes, at any time. A reasonable rebate will be allowed for prepayment, if charges have been collected in advance.

13. MAY I MAKE MORE THAN ONE PAYMENT AT A TIME

Yes, as many as you wish, but such payments should be in exact multiples of the agreed payments—that is if monthly payments is $10, larger payments should total $20, $30, etc.—not for example, odd sums such as $18 or $25.

14. WHAT IF I AM LATE IN MAKING MY PAYMENTS?

The maker must not permit his payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution's expense, caused thereby, should be reimbursed in part at the rate of not more than five cents per dollar for each payment in arrears. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the financial institution to take proper steps to effect collection in full.

Poor Kitchens Improved With New Equipment

Up-To-Date, Step-having Devices Make Modern Housewife's Task Easy

Poorly arranged kitchens, lacking in up-to-date facilities, can make for the housewife a veritable ordeal of the task of preparing meals. Kitchens of this type usually are those that were built years ago, before modern improvements were available. Any old kitchen, no matter how great its shortcomings, can be transformed into a place of beauty and charm, made comfortable and convenient by modernizing.

If there is not enough natural light, windows can be enlarged or additional ones installed. Darkness can be further dispelled by placing a drop light over the stove or in other places.

Cupboards, cabinets, shelves and bins can be built to provide for convenient storage of food, cooking utensils and dishes. If there is utilized space beneath the drain board or the sink it can be made into a vegetable bin, and perhaps save many steps to the back porch or the basement. Serving dishes stored in the old-fashioned cupboard in the dining room can just as well be placed in twin cupboards at each side and above the sink.

Economy in Using Better Materials

The necessity of the use of quality materials in the Better Housing Program of the Federal Housing Administration is stressed by William W. Woodbridge, manager of the red cedar shingle industry.

Outwearing other materials, those of indisputable quality are always more economical in the end, according to Mr. Woodbridge. Once applied, good materials often remain in excellent condition for decades. On the other hand repairs and replacements of poor materials are often necessary within a few years.

Especially are highgrade materials needed in those sections of the country where intense weather conditions exist, whether in the form of high winds, extreme heat or cold or disastrous hail or sand storms. Against such menaces, the pitting of poor materials is folly, Mr. Woodbridge indicated.

In commending the work of the Federal Housing Administration, Mr. Woodbridge anticipated a renewed volumn of business for the shingle industry and greater prosperity for the nation as a whole.

"The thousands of men engaged in the manufacture of shingles in the two farthermost states of the Union, Washington and Oregon," able exemptions may be provided. The legislature may impose a per capita tax upon domestic animals which by their nature and habits are destructive to other property. The legislature may provide for a special mode of assessment for railroads, or other public service corporations. or for other corporations or associations not situated wholly in one county. All property shall be assessed at its true value and taxed in proportion thereto.

Sec. 2. That this amendment to the constitution be submitted to the qualified electors of the state for ratification or rejection at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1934, in accordance with Section 273 of the Constitution of Mississippi.

Attorney General's Comment on Amendment Proposed by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 24.

This amendment proposes a change in section 112 of the Constitution. That section, as now written, provides that "Taxation shall be uniform and equal throughout the state." Generally speaking, it requires that all property be assessed at its true value and that the same rate of taxation be levied thereon. If this amendment is adopted, the legislature is thereby given the power to classify property for purposes of taxation and it will have the power to fix a different rate to be paid on the different classes. The last legislature, under section 112, fixed a rate of 8 mills on property of all kinds in the state. If this amendment is adopted, the legislature can, for instance, classify the real estate of Mississippi into farm property, residential property and business property and can levy a tax of four mills on one class, eight mills on another class and twelve mills on the other, etc. Furthermore, it could exempt any one, or more, of the classes from the payment of any taxes at all. The legislature could make a separate class of the railroads, power companies and other corporations and fix a different rate of taxation on the different classes. There would be no constitutional limit to the number of classes, or on the rates of taxation to be fixed on such classes.

If this authority is granted the legislature, it does not necessarily mean that it will be used, or abused, but it will be repository of such authority, which could be drawn upon whenever, in the combined wisdom of the legislatire and executive branches of the government, it would seem wise and proper so to do. The classification of property when once made would not necessarily be rigid or permanent. It could be changed, revised and modified from time to time as often as experience and conditions might render advisable.

This proposed amendment also would make possible a severance tax on natural resources, such as timber, gas, oil and minerals. To make possible such a tax at this late date would seem, superficially, like locking the stable door after the horse had been stolen. But such is not the case in fact. It is practically impossible to reach timber for taxation purposes without a severance tax provision. Estimates which are wholly reliable and conservative place the value of standing timber in this state at the present time at not less than $60,000,000. The total assessment on this class of property for 1932 was $10,630,000. It will probably not exceed $6,000,000 for 1934. All property is assessed for taxation as of January 1st of each year. Standing timber, which is practically not assessed at all, on January 1st, and which is cut, manufactured and sold between the first day of January and the thirty-first day of December, pays no taxes at all, and under our present constitutional restrictions, cannot be made to bear any share of the tax burdens of the state. Timber owners and manufacturers frankly realize the inequity of the existing situation and are more than willing to assist in correcting it. Almost without exception they would welcome a severance tax as being both fair to the state and fair to the industry. The severance tax on timber is the only known system of taxation which will encourage timber growing and will make possible any practical and worthwhile program of reforestation. A severance tax is also the only equitable method of taxation for those engaged in mining gas, oil, clay, stone, gravel or other natural resources. No other form of taxation has been found really workable.

It is obvious that the arguments against the adoption of this amendment are those of distrust of the legislature. It is said that the legislators are not qualified to classify the property for purposes of taxation—that such a task requires the thought, knowledge and experience of the expert and specialist, and that the average legislator is entirely incompetent to undertake so great a task. It is further said that the legislature is political minded and favoritism would perhaps be shown in the classification and rates applied to certain groups representing heavy voting strength. It is also said that powerful corporations and highly financed interests, by unfair methods, might be able to procure from the legislature a classification they were not entitled to and a rate thereon not justified. However, it should be remembered in this connection that any classification made and any rate of taxation applied thereto will have to be approved by the Governor of the state, as other bills are approved by him.

It might be well to observe that this proposed amendment, like the present section 112, provides for a special mode of valuation and assessment for railroads and other corporate property and for particular species of property not situated wholly in one county. As now written, said section 112 provides that: "No county shall be denied the right to levy county and special taxes upon such assessment as in other cases of property situated and assessed in the county." That part of said section 112, just quoted, is omitted from this proposed amendment. No reference is made to the county's right to assess and tax such property. It appears, therefore, that if this amendment is adopted, such property may be marked or classified by the Legislature for state taxes only and the counties may be prohibited from levying any tax thereon.

If this amendment is adopted and the vast authority therein granted the Legislature is intelligently, honestly, and patriotically applied, it will go far toward solving many of our present perplexing tax problems.

proposed amendments, let me remind you that the only way any one or more of them can become a part of your present constitution is by receiving a majority of all the votes cast in the general election on November 6, 1934. Not a majority of those voting on the particular amendment, but a majority of those voting on any issue, or for any candidate whose name appears on the ticket at said election. If 100,000 voters go to the polls and vote on any issue or for any person in said general election on November 6th, then any one or more of these amendments which receives less than a majority vote of this total vote, fails of adoption.

Therefore, if you favor the adoption of any one or more of these amendments and vote in said election, on any issue, but do not vote for such amendment, then your vote as a matter of law is recorded against the adoption of such amendment. In this situation, it is important that you vote.

AUTOPSY PLANNED IN INVESTIGATION OF JASPER DEATH

Laurel, Miss.—Demands for the exhumation of the body of Mester Jackson, 15-year-old farm girl who was buried as a suicide before her parents and two brothers were charged with her murder were received by Jasper county authorities Tuesday.

While the authorities kept their counsel, it was reported today that they leaned to a theory that the girl was killed before being shot in the breast. Members of the family first reported the wound was self-inflicted and authorities accepted their explanation. No inquest was held and no autopsy was performed.

Later, when the girl's father, George Jackson, her mother and her two brothers were arrested and charged with slaying her, the younger brother, Kermie, 13, was said by County Attorney J. Yarry Thompson to have confessed he shot his sister at the command of his father. The father denied the boy's story, and counter charged the slain girl on the day she was killed, attempted to poison him at breakfast by pouring "something" in his coffee. The Jacksons lost their court battle to secure their release from prison on bond Saturday when Judge Roy P. Noble dismissed their petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Their preliminary hearing is scheduled at Bay Springs tomorrow.

The demand for exhumation of the girl's body was contained in notes from anonymous sources received by Sheriff James C. Bassett.

Dr. Moton, who is 68 years old, will retire at the close of the current academic year next May.

Dr. Moton has been called the "elder statesman" of nearly 11,-000,000 American Negroes. He has been the adviser of five Presidents and has served on several government commissions. FLASH

At a late hour Tuesday night reports from Newton and Scott County, in the race for State Senator to succeed the late Senator L. Q. C. Williams, of Union, showed that with approximately two-thirds of the voting precincts reporting gave Judge J. D. Carr, Newton, Miss., a devout opponent to Governor Conner's conventional plan, a lead of over 200 votes over his opponent, Dr. Parks, Conehatta, who advocated a constitutional convention. Only a few hundred votes were out, these being in a few, but scattered precincts.

Clarke County

Dr. Norris, a candidate for the House of Representatives from Clarke County to succeed Hon. Sam Carter, who resigned to accept a Postmastership was unopposed in Tuesday's election.

Dr. Norris stated he favored submitting the question of a constitutional convention to the people for them to decide. Governor Conner's plan does not call for submitting the issue to the voters of the State.

Jackson.—With practically 75 percent of the votes accounted for in Warren, Coahoma and De Soto counties, Anti Constitutional Convention candidates were leading their opponents.

Jackson. — Reports throughout the state at a late hour were to the effect that the first three amendments had been adopted and the fourth showed defeat by a large margin.

This action on the part of the electorate was taken to signify the people's disfavor to a constitutional Convention as the Governor had repeatedly stated in Stockholder reports that a convention would and should make a change in the present constitution so as to change the present system of taxation and give the Legislature the power to classify property for taxation.

Sacramento, Calif.—At an early hour tonight, the plan of Upton Sinclair sems to have been thrown into the discards by the voters of this state. Governor Frank F. Merriam, a republican led Sinclair by a large vote. Thousands upon thousands of votes that would have gone democratic were cast for Gov. Merriam simply because Californians as a whole were not yet ready for a radical socialistic form of government.

BANDIT OR BOY SCOUT?

YOUTHFUL BANDITS ROB HOTEL GUESTS.

YOUTHFUL BANDIT KILLED; OTHER WOUNDED AND CAPTURED.

Newspaper headlines on Thursday.

Boys who lived by the gun—and died by the gun.

One in his 'teens—the other scarcely passed twenty.

Youths from a neighboring city.

Boy Scout training?

NO.

Not more than one in a thousand turn criminal.

Boy Scouts are taught to gain the ascendency—to keep their hold on their better selves.

Instead of Boy Scout training, one or both of these boys admittedly trained in a reformatory—among companions in crime.

Their's was a career in crime, first minor—then robbery with fire arms—then murder.

With proper training—a career of usefulness—to themselves—to their widowed mother—to their country.

Many laws have been written—laws that are "cure-alls" for crime, but, when laws are applied, it is too late—the deed has been done.

What is needed is a "preventative" instead of a so-called "cure."

No better "preventative" is known than membership in a Boy Scout troop.

Boy Scouts are moulded into perfect specimens of American manhood.

Association alone, with other Boy Scouts has its effect—just as crime thrives through contact with others of that stripe.

Boys of Meridian are now carving a career for themselves.

Who are their associates?

How do they spend their idle time?

Think it over seriously—for the sake of OUR boys. Let your response this week to the Scout appeal make possible the continuance of this noble work for OUR MERIDIAN BOYS.

LAUDERDALE COUNTY VOTES LIGHT PREDICTIONS ARE FIRST THREE AMENDMENTS PASS; FOURTH FAILS

A report from the office of Willis Taylor, Circuit Clerk, last night was to the effect that the vote cast in Lauderdale county yesterday would not pass the 1,000 mark and that from the reports received from a few of the voting precincts that had reported the first three amendments had received enough votes to indicates they had been adopted by the Lauderdale county voters while the fourth amendment, which would change section 112 of the present constitution so as to give the Legislature the right to classify property for taxation, had been defeated by an overwhelming margin.

The fourth amendment was the cause of much controversy throughout the entire state. In several of Governor Conner's "Reports to the Stockholders" he had consistantly urged that this section of the constitution should be changed in order to bring about the desired relief to the taxpayer. The Governor, however, stated that the only way this could be done was through the medium of a constitutional convention.

If the voters throughout the entire state vote as the Lauderdale county voters cast their ballot yesterday it will be plainly indicated that the people of Mississippi do not want any changes in their organic law which would change the system of taxation from its present form, whether it be by the course provided in yesterday's election whereby the people themselves express their desire or through the medium of the Governor's convention plan which would have the power to make this change, defeated in yesterday's ballot, altho clearly shown by the people that such a change was not wanted.

Japs Project Secret Ships If Pact Fails

London.—If Japan does not get naval parity with the United States and Great Britain, she plans to construct a number of warships of an entirely new type.

Secret plans call for a new ship so powerful that one of the present categories for world fleets outlined by the Washington and London treaties might be made useless, it was said.

The vessel, understood to resemble an advance model pocket battleship, will be built only if no new treaty, involving Japan's program for parity, is approved by London and Washington.

As conversations continued today the Japanses have emphasized that they will not modify their program and that a compromise proposal must come from the British or the United States.

Millions For New Construtions Soon; FHA Announce Plans

Washington.—After making loans to more than a quarter million home owners and considering applications of twice that number, the FHA is completing its plan for handling the financing of a quarter million new homes in all parts of the United States. Full details of the plans are not yet available, but it is understood officials of the FHA and the President have agreed on the entire setup with one exception, the rate of interest to be charged on the loans. FHA officials claim more than a million men of the building trades will be put to work after the plan is put into operation before spring.

MERIDIAN WILL BENEFIT

Meridian material men and members of the various building crafts claim Meridian will start a building boom as soon as funds are available for construction purposes. Several hundred residents of this city could afford to build their own homes if they were given some financial assistance, especially with the low rate of interest to be provided in the government loans. This interest rate it is understood will be not more than 5½% and possibly as low as 5% with a total of 15 years to pay the principle borrowed. This city has had a shortage of the better class homes for some time, and there are very few houses of any kind available for renting purposes at this time.

Fair Excursion Party Saved As Bus Takes Fire

Shreveport, La.—Quick work on the part of Roger Beckwith, attendant at a filling station here, this morning helped to save a party of 25 persons from Weston, La., near Jonesboro, when the school bus in which they were making an excursion to the State Fair caught on fire at the filling station.

Mrs. Charlie Swanner was slightly burned about the legs and practically all members of the party, which included a number of children, suffered minor cuts and abrasions in breaking the glass in the sides of the bus to escape. Two children, a boy and a girl, whose names were not learned were given first-aid for minor cuts at the emergency room of the hospital near the scene.

What caused the bus fire was not established. Witnesses reported that when C. W. Fitzpatrick, who was reportedly operating an excursion to the State Fair, drove the bus into the filling station, Beckwith saw flames coming upward from the differential. He seized a fire extinguisher and quenched the blaze with the aid of Raymond Lee, captain of a fire station, who was passing at the time.

Would you buy a 3 or 4 pound beef tenderloin and use it for beef stew? You wouldn't, nor would we, but, if you are (un)fortunate enough to draw some of the canned beef put up by the processing or canning plant of the ERA, that is exactly what you may eat, stewed beef made from choice tenderloin of beef. If you like soup, draw a can of their rich soup stock, add a few vegetables, or serve it as any one of the many beef-stock dishes and rest assured that the Waldorf, Lamar, or any other hotel dining room wouldn't have a thing on you.

Nothing Wasted But the Squeel

The old saying "nothing wasted but the squeel" also applies to the local ERA canning plant, except in their case, the term "nothing wasted but the "moo" would be proper. Cattle are slaughtered locally. Hides are sold to tanneries, and the beef carcus goes through a process until is reaches the cans that are sealed and placed in cases for distribution to some point in the state. Every part of the carcus is used except the gristle and the bones. Even that is not wasted. That part of the cow finds its way to some Mississippi farm by the way of fertilizer.

50,000 Cans Packed in a Week

Although in operation but a week, upwards of 50,000 cans of meat have already been packed. One single pile of cans, perhaps 6 feet high and 3 feet square contain meat from 24 or more head of cows. Condensing couldn't do much better than this.

Jackson Man in Charge

T. G. Todd of Jackson is the local superintendent. Not only is Mr. Todd efficient in his line of work, but he also has made a study of sanitation. He is assisted by a corps of assistants who supervise the work in the various departments.

240 Added to Meridian Pay Rolls

By tonight nearly 200 men and women will be employed in the plant. Forty or more additional employees will be added within the next two weeks. Department heads work 8 hour shifts, while all other employees work 6 hour shifts The local set-up helps Meridian two ways. It adds 240 employees to the city's pay rolls, and provides all the meat necessary to care for the city's unemployed.

200 Head of Cattle Canned Daily

Forty to fifty head of cattle are canned each 24 hours at the present time, but it is hoped to increase this number to a maximum of 200 head per day as soon as the crew of workers are properly trained in their work.

There are three other plants in the state that have the same capacity as the Meridian plant, but when you consider the fact that there are more than 72,000 head of cattle in the state that are to be processed, all four plants will be due for a long run.

Spotless Kitchen

This canning plant may be termed a kitchen, spotless from the standpoint of sanitation. No one is allowed inside unless they wear a regulation apron and cap. Employees change clothes every six hours, oftener if necessary. What few visitors have been able to "crash the gate" were made to wear the regulation employees uniform. The plant is even equipped with an emergency hospital room, with a registered nurse on duty at all times. The slightest cut is immediately attended to. Employees are also required to pass through the room before going on duty to disinfect their hands.

WORTHY OF NOTE.

Proof that America is not ready for "Dole" and especially so with citizens of Meridian was exemplified a few days ago.

Members of the Forty-First Avenue Baptist church, led by their pastor, Rev. Nathan R. Stone, being financially embarrassed to the extent that they would be unable to purchase coal for the coming winter months, without working undue hardships upon the membership and not wanting to call upon the relief for fuel, went forth into the woods last Friday and spent the entire day chopping enough firewood to last for many days.

The good ladies of the church prepared the noon day lunch for the willing workers.

This act on the part of those who participated was one worthy of commendation. It shows their unselfish spirit, their willingness to be of service and that they do not choose to be an object of charity as long as they are physically fit to labor.

We'll bet there is an atmosphere about this church that is "akin" to the olden days—Friendliness, helpfulness, cheerfulness, and most of all, a whole-hearted spirit of cooperation and "ole time religion."

We should be able to learn a lesson from Rev. Stone and the members of his congregation.

THE TABLE HAS TURNED.

According to the press, Sylester Harris, Lowndes county negro farmer who called the President over long-distance phone in an effort to save his home and receive the help of the nation's chief executive, has gone north of the Mason-Dixon line

Sylvester's trip is very unique. He is in the north to fight for the Democratic cause against Chicago's negro representative in Congress, De Priest, who is seeking re-election.

It seems the tables have turned. Generally the negro leans to the Republican party. It was the Northerner who delivered him from the chains of slavery. It was the carpet-bagger who tried to throw the South into ruin and lead the negro to believe he was to receive 40 acres of land and a mule.

In reality this is the exact reverse. The negro has no better friend than the white Southerner. It has been proven time and again. When the Democratic party is in office the colored man profits the most.

Sylvester has turned the table. He is in the north telling the members of his race the true story and in appreciation for the kindness and assistance given him by our Democratic President he his fighting for the Democratic party and against the re-election of one of his own race, a Republican, to another term in Congress.

Whether Sylvester wins his fight or not, the moral effect of his effort will have its weight. Sylvester, as the old expression goes, is a "White man's negro."

Go to it Sylvester, we are for you.

DID YOU KNOW—

Under the heading of "Mississippi Highway Facts," T. P. Bond writes an article entitled, "DO YOU KNOW."

It is short and to the point. It answers many questions being asked today and clears many points of misunderstanding brought about by false statements due to political enmity.

And fair-minded citizen loves the truth and welcomes correct information and to those seeking the truth regarding what percentage of State money is being spent on the main highways, what percent of Federal funds must be spent on secondary roads and why all the money cannot be spent in building of hard surfaced roads in one section, we reproduce the article that shows why the state of Mississippi cannot do as they please with Federal money given to us for good roads.

DID YOU KNOW—

That of the total amount of funds being spent on highway construction in Mississippi that approximately 95 per cent is Federal money, while the state is providing about 5 per cent?

That one of the first provisions of the rules and regulations set out by the Federal Highway Act, under which the expenditure of funds is made, is that 50 per cent of the money must be applied to projects on extensions of the Federal aid highway system?

That 25 per cent of the Federal highway funds must be applied to projects on extensions of Federal highway systems into and through municipalities?

That 25 per cent of the Federal highway funds must be spent on secondary or feeder roads?

That another provision is that the work done with Federal funds must be distributed over 75 per cent of all the counties of the state?

That these facts should answer the question: "Why so many short highway construction projects throughout the state?"

If we are going to use government money in building our hard surface roads and if we are to continue to receive government funds for this purpose, WE MUST ABIDE BY "UNCLE SAM'S" WISHES.

Governor Sennett Conner attended a dinner at Vicksburg on Friday, October 26th, given in honor of Secretary of War George Dern, who is making a tour of the South. Secretary of War Dern and the Governor of Mississippi were personal friends when the former was governor of the State of Utah.

The four constitutional amendments, and the Attorney General's interpretations thereof, that were sent out to the newspapers for publication, by Secretary of State Walker Wood, are now being published throughout the state. These amendments will be voted on in the general election on November 6th. The publications are being made that the electors of the State may make themselves familiar with the intent of the amendments.

Statement issued by Hon. Alf Stone, chairman of the State Tax Commission, shows that for the first 24 days of October, in round numbers, there was collected on retail sales tax alone, the sum of $362,000.00 against $236,000.00 for the same period in September, 1934 or more than 50 per cent increase. Amusement tax shows a 25 per cent increase, the tobacco tax a 7 per cent increase, and the beer tax a 30 per cent increase. All increases are over the preceding month of September, this year.

Total collections from all sources by the Tax Commission from January 1, 1934 to date, as compared to last year are: From the nine tax sources there has been collected the sum of $5,033,000.00 as compared to $3,657,900.00 in 1933, or approximately a 50 per cent increase for the year.

The State Highway Commission recently let the following contracts: Highway between Columbia and Foxworth, Marion County—$23,-000.00; between Thomastown and Kosciusko, Leake County—$51,000; Highway 51, between Goodman and Durant, Holmes County—$70,000,-00; Highway 49, between Florance and Braxton, Rankin County—$102,000.00; between Fayette and Harriston, Jefferson County—$46,-000.00;Highway 80, Hinds and Warren Counties, between Jackson and Vicksburg—$39,000.00; between Forest and Morton, in Scott County—$32,000.00; and in the City of Laurel, Jones County, $48,000.

Over 6,000 Miles State Highways Maintained

Part of Gas Tax Used in Keeping Roads in Condition

The maintenance division of the state highway department which is under the supervision of an engineer of maintenance, and which is responsible for the upkeep of 6,215 miles of federal and state roads in Mississippi, operates efficiently as is possible with the limited funds for road maintenance, a news release issued at the state highway department shows.

To effectively maintain the roads of Mississippi, two maintenance divisions in each of the three commissioner's districts have been provided with an engineer for each. These division engineers are assisted by from three to five maintenance superintendents, or with a total number of 22 in the six divisions. Each superintendent is responsible for an average of 280 miles of highways.

Maintenance officers are located in each of the six divisions. They are at Tupelo, Oxford, Yazoo City, Philadelphia, Hattiesburg and McComb.

While each division is provided with road machines and equipment for ordinary work, state crews working out of the Jackson office assist the division forces in cases of peculiar nature. A sign and striping crew also work out of Jackson.

Three magnet machines travel the highways regularly and daily remove hundreds of pounds of metal, eliminating innumerable punctures and probably preventing many accidents.

Nine police patrolmen, or three in each of the commissioner's districts, daily inspect the highways for obstructions to safe traveling. They might be termed "guardians of the highways" as well as police patrolmen for their duty is to protect the roads from unnecessary abuse as well as to guard the motorists against accidents.

Funds for maintenance of the highway system are provided through a portion of the gas tax allotted to the highway department.

The office of the maintenance engineer in Jackson issues weekly detour bulletins and provides free up-to-date road maps for public use. The department does much education work in the promotion of safe driving and is conducting a safety campaign and working in cooperation with various agencies in efforts to minimize highway accidents.

Roosevelt To See Ideas in Blossom On Southern Tour

Memphis.—President Roosevelt will see for the first time this month the flowering, in concrete and steel, of New Deal ideas he dispatched to Congress a year and a half ago.

On a broad swing through the Mid-South that will take him eventually to Warm Springs, Ga., the president is scheduled to visit Tennessee Valley Authority developments at Norris Dam and the TVA's "model" town of Norris, Tenn.

He will find the Tennessee River developments above Muscle Shoals growing rapidly toward completion. Norris Dam, a $34,000,000 project approximately one-third finished, is taking shape in vast piles of convrete reaching out into the Clinch, a Tennessee tributary near Knoxville.

Hundreds at Work

In Alabama 15 miles above Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals, the foundations for Joe Wheeler Dam, to cost $15,000,000 are swarming with hundreds of men at work.

According to tentative plans, Mr. Roosevelt will journey first to Knoxville and Norris. He is expected to go then to Harrodsburg, Ky., from there to Nashville and finally to the Muscle Shoals area before heading for Warm Springs.

He is due in Nashville November 17.

If the president seeks he may find in the undertaking at Norris Dam a symbol of the realization of his aims for the Tennessee valley, covering flood control, soil erosion, reforestation, elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands and distribution and diversification of industry.

If his tour of the East Tennessee countryside is extensive enough the president may see some of this program already being carried out. He may see first steps taken to halt soil erosion on thousands of acres of cut-over hillsides. Other broad areas once barren he will find bristling with young tree plants.

Workers Trained

In the town of Norris he will find evidence of efforts toward "distribution and diversification of industry"—schools in which workers on the dam are instructed in trades and handicrafts in keeping with the idea of Dr. A. E. Morgan, TVA chairman, to foster the growth of home industry.

At Harrodsburg, Ky., it is planned for the president to dedicate a memorial to pioneers. Harrodsburg was the first permanent settlement in the state. It was founded by Captain James Harrod and a band of 31 men in 1774 while the territory that is now Kentucky was still a part of Virginia.

Smuggled Chinese Found; "Sold" For $1,000 A Head

Kenasburg, N. J. — Seventeen frightened, half-starved Chinese got their first square meal in weeks on Ellis Island today while federal agents searched for leaders of a smuggling ring that brough: Orientals off a ship in potato sacks to a damp celler prison here where they were offered "for sale" to relatives or friends at $1,000 a head, cash.

A dozen heavily armed narcotic agents raided the apparently deserted house yesterday expecting to confiscate a large quantity of smuggled drugs.

Instead they found the human contraband, bundled behind the locked door of a nearly pitch dark cellar guarded by a rinidad negro armed with two revolvers.

One of the agents stuck a submachine gun into the negro's ribs and he gave up without a struggle.

The tipoff on the activities of the smuggling gang came several weeks ago from the United States consul at Trinidad Yesterday's capture was the climax of a concentrated effort by a score of agents in New York, Newark and Philadelphia.

A story of death and privation on the voyage to dreamed-of-freedom on a new land was told in disjointed fragments by the Chinese prisoners and the captured guard.

Originally there were 20-odd of the Orientals in human merchandise. Four of them became ill, however, according to stories told the agents, and it was considered wiser to throw them overboard than to bring them in.

Seventeen or eighteen others were paid for by their friends in this country and were given their freedom, accordnig to their agreement with the gang.

The group captured yesterday was being held because no one had shown up to pay for their delivery.

The agents' attack on the house was completely successful. Five police dogs, apparently on the place as reinforcements to the negro, went over to the side of the law and order without even barking when they were offered scraps of meat. The negro didn't even make an effort to draw his guns.

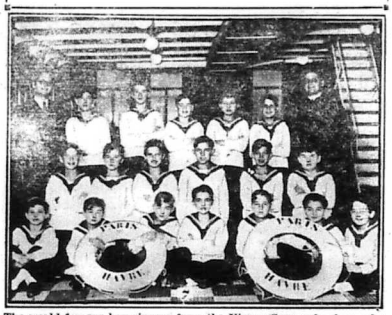
VIENNA CHOIR TO ENTERTAIN HALL OF FAME AUDIENCE



The world famous boy singers from the Vienna Saengerknaben, who will sing for the Hall of Fame Sunday evening, Nov. 11, at 10 P. M. (EST) over the Red NBC-WEAF coast to coast network.

The Vienna Saengerknaben, the Singing Boys of Vienna, who have dedicated their youth to music, have been chosen by the "Hall of Fame", as the guest stars who will broadcast over the NBC-WEAF red network on Sunday evening, November 11, at 10 o'clock, EST.

Famous throughout Europe for 500 years, no representatives of the group of boy singers came to America before last year. At that time their reception was so enthusiastic that a return engagement was made for 1934. Now 22 of them will appear in the first American radio program including operas, church and national choral works, arias and songs.

Five hundred years ago the Emperor Maximilian ordered a group of boy singers to give a daily mass under the auspices of the Court Orchestra of Vienna. Ever since that time, hundreds of boys have applied whenever there has been a vacancy in the choral group of 40. The members of the group are sought by crowned heads, presidents, the vatican, music masters everywhere for the flute-like sweetness of their tones and their remarkable rendition.

The boys live together in the old Imperial Palace in Vienna. Every activity and study has a direct bearing on the perfection of their music. When they are heard in their broadcast they will be giving a program of music, the preparation of which has taken their playtime, boyhood days.

The average age of the songsters is twelve years. When a boy's voice changes, another boy replaces him in the chorus.

Jackson Banker Is Denied New Motion

Jackson.—That trial of General J. B. Stirling, president of the defunce First National Bank of Jackson, will start Wednesday morning in Federal court was assured today as Federal Judge Edwin R. Holmes, presiding, overruled a motion of counsel for General Stirling, by which they sought to withdraw the "not guilty" plea of the banker, and file demurrers to the six counts of the indictment charging General Stirling with violation of the National Banking Act.

When the motion was presented by Will Watkins, chief of defense counsel, U. S. District Attorney R. M. Bordeaux objected.

Judge Holmes called on Mr. Watkins to outline the demurrers he would file if the motion should be accepted.

Mr. Watkins then launched into an involved discussion of the separate charges, centering on count five, which charged General Stirling with misapplication of funds of the bank, by cancelling an overdraft of Mrs. Stirling, by applying to her account a note which he knew to be worthless, Mr. Watkins contended that the general was without authority to make this transfer of credits, since the act was not approved by the board of directors, and that therefore, Mrs. Stirling is still liable for the overdraft, and the bank has not been harmed.

When Mr. Watkins contended that "all the receiver of the bank had to do was to sue her on that note to collect it," Judge Holmes remarked that by the same line of reasoning "he could have hid some of the bank's cash under a rug and then said that if the receiver looked for it long enough, he would have found it."

Mr. Watkins presented many authorities to uphold his contention that the bank had not been injured by the transaction, but admitted that his citations were all from civil, and no criminal cases. When he failed to submit criminal authorities on the issue, Judge Holmes overruled the motion, with the comment that the case would go to trial Wednesday.

YOUNG MERIDIAN HUSBAND COMMITS SUICIDE

Attempts Murder of Young Wife, But Shells Fail to Explode

Domestic trouble terminated in the attempted murder of a young wife and the suicide of a young husband late Tuesday evening.

Joseph Sidney Jones, age 22, a resident of Echo Park Road was the victim and his young wife barely escaped the same fate. According to the reports of local police officers and deputy sheriffs who made an immediate investigation, the couple had been separated for a short time. Jones' wife residing with her mother on 49th Avenue at the N. O. & N. E. R. R. crossing.

Late Tuesday, Jones went to the 49th Avenue home and attempted to get his wife to return to their home on Echo Park Drive. Failing, he drew a 32 caliber pistol from his pocket and began firing at his wife, who ran around the house with Jones in pursuit. Jones snapped his pistol a number of times, but only one shell actually fired, this shot going wild. He then entered his automobile that he parked in front of the house. Again drawing the pistol, he held it to his temple and snapped the trigger. One shot was all that was necessary according to eye witnesses. Death was instantaneous.

Baptist Holding Convention In Laurel

Laurel, Miss.—Pastors and laymen of the Baptist Church met here tonight as a preliminary to the Baptist state convention which officially opens Wednesday.

The convention will last through Thursday.

Leaders of the denomination from the South as well as those from Mississippi began arriving today. More than 500 delegates were expected.

Private residences in and around Laurel will house the visitors and the entertainment will be furnished by local committees.

A successful convention is the prediction of the Rev. J. W. Fagan, general chairman of the convention committees and pastor of the Second Avenue Baptist church. He reported that all the groups had functioned without a flaw.

Bargain Seekers Crowd 2nd Floor

Bargain seekers of Meridian and surrounding territory are crowding the second floor of the new Sears Roebuck Store. The management stated that it has always been a policy of all Sears stores to feature throughout the entire store, instead of only on the main floor, values that are of a worthwhile nature for the entire family.

On their second floor, the Sears store this week is featuring a Studio couch, a beautiful as well as useful piece of furniture which can be diverted into twin beds. The price is unusually low, and many thrifty buyers are taking advantage of this opportunity to "dress-up" their home.

Bishop Backs First Lady's Wine Plans

New York.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's plan to serve wine at the White House table today had the full endorsement of the Rev. Arthur W. Brooks, an Episcopal bishop, who said in a letter to the first lady, "It's no sin" to serve wine.

Citing the moderate use of wine in Christ's time, the Rev. Brooks said:

"I certainly cannot agree with those who criticize you. It certainly is no sin to serve wine. Our Blessed Lord not only dined at tables where wine was served, but He turned water into wine at the wedding feast, as the Scriptures said, 'when they wanted wine.'

"While you do not use wine or any other liquor, I think you have the true Christian temperance attitude. Christian temperance is not compulsory total abstinence."

REDUCING HAZARDS ON NEW HIGHWAYS

Grade Crossings, Curves, Inadequate Bridges Reduced to Minimum

Mississippi highways recently completed and hundreds of miles of new roads under construction and to be built in the immediate future are constructed with an eye to public safety and economy, it is shown by statistical data compiled by the State highway department and released this week.

Elimination of grade crossings, dangerous curves and inadequate bridges in large numbers is being increased with the completion of each new highway construction project.

In one instance where two projects on the same route totaled 26 miles and reduced the distance by seven miles, all grade crossings were eliminated and 120 curves were reduced to 4 in number.

Between Bay Springs and Rose Hill, Jasper County, a new 21-mile highway replaces the old route which covered a distance of 35 miles, a saving of 14 miles. There were approximately 400 curves on the old road while there are only 14 on the new, an elimination of 386 curves. The new road, which will be opened to traffic after December 1, opens up a territory that was almost inaccessible during the winter months.

A new ten-mile grading and drainage project begins at Perkinston, Stone County, and continues to Saucier, Harrison County, and which is a new route for Highway 49, will be without a single grade crossing while four exist on the old road. In addition to reducing the distance between the two points, 38 curves are reduced to one.

Only seven curves exist where previously there were 32 on Highway 16 between Philadelphia and Edingburg, Neshoba and Leake Counties, while the distance between the two towns has been reduced by more than four and one half miles. On the new road a six mile stretch is without a single curve.

Over a distance of approximately three and one half miles on a new road replacing the old route on Highway 61, five and one half miles east of Natchez, Adams county, 16 curves are being eliminated, two of which were said to be the most dangerous in the entire length of Highway 61, while three narrow and inadequate bridges were discarded. The new road will be opened by the first of the year.

Hugh Crowd At Phillips-Jones Factory Opening

Speakers of the evening included Mayor Clint Vinson, Jas. H. Skewes, A. S. Phillips, J. B. Moore of the Phillips-Jones Corp., Hon. Hugh White, former candidate for Governor, and United States Senator Pat Harrison.

Gene McMullen Passes On

T. E. McMullen, more familiarly known to his many friends in Meridian and this section of the state at "Gene" died in Hickory late Monday night. He was ill but a few hours according to members of his family. Gene spent about five years in Meridian, representing a line of electric refrigerators, but for the past three years has made his home in Hickory. During this time he acted as County Traffic Officer.

NEGRO DEMOCRAT NAMED TO CONGRESS IS VISITOR TO NATIVE ALABAMA

Arthur W. Mitchell Returns To Alabama To See Mother; Rise From Farm Described By Illinois Representative

Birmingham.—Thirty-four years ago Arthur W. Mitchell, a 14-year old negro farm youth, left his humble Randolph County home and walked the 66 miles to Tuskegee Institute.

Monday he came back home for a visit with his folks in Birmingham, bringing with him the distinction of being the first negro elected to Congress by the Democratic party, and of being the representative-elect of the richest congressional district in the United States—the first Illinois District of Chicago.

To win this distinction he defeated the Republican negro incumbent, Oscar De Priest, also a native Alabamian, in a bitter campaign in which De Priest charged him with being a tool of Congressman McDuffie and other "white bosses."

"My Chicago enemies will say that immediately after election, I rushed south to get orders from by white bosses," Congressman-elect Mitchell said in an interview here Monday, "but I came to Birmingham to see my mother who is so seriously ill she will not reocver. I also have some brothers and sisters here."

First Political Lie Heard

And then he told his story:

"It was in Birmingham that I heard the first political lie. A Republican campaign worker for McKinley was telling us that if McKinley was elected we would all get 40 acres and a gray mule. I was just a kid then, standing there listening with my daddy. My daddy grew old, always believing in that promise and looking for its fulfillment. Today a Democratic president is fulfilling that Republican promise."

To emphasize what he meant, Mitchell recounted the experience of Sylvester Harris, the negro farmer of near Columbus, Miss., who later went to Chicago and materially assisted Mitchell in his campaign.

"There was a negro farmer, in overalls, unable to speak a correct sentence, who was able to get the personal attention of the president. He drove his cow into town, sold it and used the money to call the president by telephone. He got the president, after four attempts, and told him he was about to lose his farm and that the newspaper said call the president.

"Sylvester refused to talk to anyone but the president, and four days later an agent of the Federal Land Bank came from New Orleans to see him. He got $1,200 and saved his farm."

Salvation Seen

It is in such consideration as this that the Southern negro will find his economic salvation, Mitchell believes.

Mitchell prides himself upon his knowledge of Southern conditions, of the facial relations here and it is in this work that he hopes to be of the greatest service.

When he went to Tuskegee he worked on the school farm during the day and attended classes at night. After two years there he continued his education for two years at Talladega College, and later went to Harvard and Columbia, also studying law in New York.

After finishing his education, his first work was to establish the Armstrong Agricultural College in the Black Belt of Alabama. He served as its president for 10 years most of the time without pay.

He taught school in Choctaw, Sumter and Hale counties and in Georgia, and in 1906-07 was in the real estate business in Birmingham.

After having lived in Washington, he went to Chicago in 1928 and began practicing law. He brought with him t oBirmingham a letter from the dean of Chicago jurists, Harry M. Fisher, which said in part:

"Being the first Democrat to represent your people in the Congress, a new world is open to you in which your responsibilities are great. Take advantage of it so that you may turn out to be a real blessing to the minority group in our nation that, more than any other, is in need of loyal sons and worthy leaders."

Loop Included

Mitchell's congressional district includes all of the Chicago Loop with its banks and hotels, making it the wealthiest in the nation. Its constituency is 40 per cent white.

"I knew I could pull the white votes, but I had to get half of the negro vote, which I did. It surprised even my supporters," he said.

He points out that for six years with De Priest, no white boy has had an opportunity to enter Annapolis or West Point from that district.

"That is altered now. There will be no discrimination, and I told them so in my campaign. It is one of De Priest's inconsistencies that he talked about elimination of discriminations against the negro while he practiced them against the whites."

Mitchell, who was principal of negro schools at Greenboro four years, knows Judge Thomas E. Knight. He says he was present when Gov. B. M. Miller first mounted the bench as cirsuit judge. He plans to call on them in Montgomery and to visit Tuskegee Tuesday.

In congress Mitchell hopes to work for the end of racial discrimination which "breed hatred, preference for American born labor over immigrants and seek to

Harrison Hints New Legislation on Vets' Aid

Newton, Miss.—United States Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, told a gathering of Mississippi World war veterans gathered here today to dedicate Newton's new airport that their affairs "should never become political," and declared that "from the president down, every person in the American Congress desires to cooperate" in the settlement of disputes between ex-service organizations and governmental authorities.

The senior Mississippi senator, who voted against payment of the soldier bonus and against overriding President Roosevent's veto at the last session, indicated that the next Congress will eliminate these disputes either "through the passing of legislation or the making of appropriations.'"

"From the president down," he said, "every person in the American Congress desires to cooperate and, through the passing of legislation on the making of appropriations eliminate every problem of dispute which has heretofore or may exist between the ex-service organizations and governmental authorities upon a just and reasonable basis.

"At all hazards, our credit must be preserved," he added. "We have piled taxes upon the people in almost every imaginable form and the higher taxes will not hasten the nation's economic recovery.

"We have many problems yet to solve. This administration has done a great job. The mistakes it has made in the administration of some of the laws will be corrected. But what is most desired at this time is an elimination of selfishness upon the part of everyone and such a broad and high spirit of cooperation manifested as will assure the nation's solidarity as well as success and prosperity."

Several thousand Central Mississippians attended the dedication ceremony, which formally opened the $12,000 airport.

SPECIAL SESSION CALL NOT LIKELY SAYS MURPHREE

Bases Prediction on Statement That Conner Has Lost Strength

Jackson, Miss.—Lieutenant-Governor Dennis Murphree, predicted tonight that there will be no extraordinary session of the Mississippi Legislature seeking call of a constitutional convention.

The lieutenant-governor declared that since the last regular session Governor Conner has lost seven votes in the House of Representatives and five votes in the Senate.

Move for a constitutional convention at that time lost in the House and the Senate by one vote, with Murphree casting the negative vote in the Senate to break a tie.

There have been persistent rumors in recent weeks of an extra session to take up the matter of a convention and also to vote state funds to supplement federal aid going to the state's needy.

Proposal Defeated

The major reform stressed in a convention was put before the voters on November 6, that providing for reformation the revenue system, and it was defeated by a four-to-one vote. The amendment would have opened the way for classification of property taxes and also imposition of a severance tax.

This rejected amendment to Section 112, was openly opposed by Senator-elect Theodore G. Bilbo, W. F. Bond, Dr. Joe E. Frazer of Canton, president of the Mississippi Association of County Supervisors, and other public officials.

It is known that Governor Conner several days ago informed Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, who had asked the Mississippi governor if this state could not supplement federal relief, that the next regular session of the Legislature was not scheduled to convene until January, 1936.

Doubt Expressed

With the sudden exposition of sentiment of the people concerning a constitutional convention and in the absence of any direct demand on the part of the federal government that Mississippi supplement relief funds, there are many political leaders who now express doubt that there will be an extraordinary session, in the immediate future at least.

Governor Conner could not be reached for questioning about the reported loss in his legislative strength of those favorable to the calling of a convention.

The people on November 7 voted three amendments to the convention, one removing the tax delinquency disqualification of non-paying voters—all they will have to do is to pay a $2 poll tax—and the other changing the fiscal year of the state to conform to the federal government.

When the fiscal changes are written into the constitution, no longer will there be hundreds of salaries due when there are funds in the treasury to pay them. Nor will merchants and others supplying state institutions suffer for months because of unpaid bills for lack of appropriations.

Made by Calendar Year

At present, appropriations are made by the calendar year.

The Legislature meets biennially in January, and it is months every second year before the appropriations are reached. Under the change the Legislature would vote the appropriations for fiscal years starting six months after the session came into being.

The Murphree statement predicting that Governor Conner had been blocked again in the undertaking of one of the major reforms desired in his administration, concerning a constitution convention, follows:

"We have been hearing in legislative messages, over the radio and from the platform for more than a year the statement 'We must have a constitutional convention because we cannot change the constitution any other way. People will not vote for constitutional

OLD AGE AND THE SALES TAX

A multitude of taxes adds shadows to the grey evening of an aging merchant. Let's review the life of an old man—a life spent in the state of Mississippi.

Born in Alabama in 1866.

Parents moved to this state in 1876.

For 47 consecutive years he has been a tax payer to the state of Mississippi. He has been in various lines of business almost continuously and has paid privilege taxes to the state and city of Meridian since 1894.

He has raised a family of several children. Today he is a great, great grandfather.

Like all men, he had a duty to perform in life—to himself, to his family, to his community and to his state.

He has performed that duty to the best of his ability.

He had accumulated some money—invested it unwisely. Like millions of others he was caught in the depression. His investments were in property. Values fell off—rents barely covering taxes and insurance. In his old age he was forced to do something to provide for himself and his life's mate. He had never been dependent on any one else. He would not be dependent upon any one now.

Again he went into business—selling sandwiches, soft drinks, tobacco, etc. After paying privilege taxes on Coca-Cola, soda water, merchandise and cigarettes, and rent on his store building, lights, water and other overhead expenses, he managed to make enough for he and his wife to exist—not live, so to speak—just merely to exist.

But—after existing during the months of July, August and September, he found he didn't have enough money left with which to pay the State of Mississippi their "sales tax"—a tax he was unable to collect on his nickel and dime sales.

A few days ago this elderly citizen received a letter from the State Tax Commission informing him that "unless he paid this sales tax immediately, legal steps would be taken against him."

In Mississippi today, we are exacting the "last pound of flesh"—we are taking the last crumb of bread from the mouths of thousands of men and women who are fast approaching life's setting sun.

Why not do as they did in China in days gone by? Chop their heads off and end their misery?

Some day let us hope a legislature in this state will pass a law exempting all men past the age of sixty from all forms of privilege taxes. In fact, men past this age should be paid a pension—instead of worrying over paying the state of Mississippi a sales tax they did not collect.

"THAT FOURTH AMENDMENT"

Much discussion is going on over the state about the defeat of the fourth amendment in the November 6th election.

The amendment would have changed the present constitution in such a manner so as to allow the legislature to classify property for taxation.

The Governor claims the opponents to his convention plan have made statements that the failure of the voters to adopt this amendment spelled the defeat of the constitutional convention. The Governor denies that this action on the part of the electorate will have anything to do with convention and says that those making such statements are making themselves ridiculous.

Whether this be true—we do not know and care less. However, we do know this:

1. The Governor has repeatedly told the people of Mississippi that the only way we were to receive tax relief was through the medium of a constitutional convention.

2. This relief would come through allowing the legislature to classify property for taxation and the way to give the legislature this right was to have a constitutional convention.

3. The voters from all sections of the state have been "preached to" by the Governor and this story has been told and re-told to them time and again.

4. The voters had an opportunity to change their present constitution the 6th of this month, and do just the thing the Governor stated he wanted done, give the legislature this right to classify property for the purpose of taxation.

5. The voters of Mississippi said "NO" in unmistakable terms.

6. This means the people of Mississippi DO NOT WANT TO CHANGE OUR PRESENT SYSTEM OF TAXATION, ESPECIALLY SO AS TO ALLOW THE LEGISLATURE TO GROUP PROPERTY INTO SEPARATE CLASSES AND TAX EACH ONE SEPARATELY.

7. The Governor says: "We need this done and should have a constitutional convention to do it."

We can only draw the following conclusion—The People of Mississippi do not want Governor Conner's plan of relief.

The Governor says he is going to get it through a constitutional convention.

The question is—WILL THE WISHES OF THE MAJORITY OF THE PEOPLE STILL PREDOMINATE OR SHALL ONE MAN'S IDEA STAND SUPREME AND DICTATORSHIP REIGN IN OUR STATE?

The legislature will decide this if and when it meets in special session.

"ADJUSTED PAY"

The Adjusted Compensation Certificate or so-called "Bonus" is out in front again. Johnny Doe, an easy going veteran of A. E. F. fame concerned primarily during the past fifteen years with keeping the wolf from the door has been doing some private figuring on his own hook. Johnny read that Congress voted on adjustment in pay of $1.00 per day home service and $1.25 per day overseas service. Johnny being just an ordinary ex-"Buck" and an exponent of simple justice sharpens his pencil, and, according to Johnny's way of thinking, one dollar or one dollar and a quarter per day is exactly that and nothing else regardless of whether it is one day or a thousand days.

Johnny Doe served two years—730 days at $1.25 per day, equals $912.50—due him July 15th, 1919, the date of his discharge. Six percent interest from July 15, 1919 to July 15, 1935—$54.75 per year for sixteen years, totals $876.00 plus the principal $912.50, equals $1,788.50. (Not compounded.)

Now, Johnny Doe's certificate is for $1,575.00 and is a life insurance policy. Johnny didn't get this $1,575.00 insurance protection from July, 1919. It is dated January 1, 1925, beginning at age 28. An ordinary life policy at age 28 costs for $1,500.00 about $24.63 per year or $246.30 for the ten year period—January 1, 1925, to January 1, 1935. The cash value of this ordinary life policy on January 1, 1925 is $101.31. Subtracting the $101.31 from the $246.30 cost, we have $144.99, or the net cost of the $1,500.00 protection during the ten year period.

Johnny Doe has had ten years' protection for $1,575.00, therefore, he subtracts the cost—$144.99 from the $1,788.50, leaving a balance due of $1,643.51, which is $68.51 more than the face value of the adjusted compensation certificate—Johnny says he'll call it square though if Uncle Sam'll pay Bonus paid him at discharge, which leaves a total of $1,583.51, due him or $8.51 more than the face value of this adjusted compensation certificate or so-called "Bonus." Johnny says he'll call it square though is Uncle Sam'll pay him the $1,575.00 back pay now.

NEGRO DEMOCRAT TO CONGRESS IS VISITOR TO NATIVE ALABAMA

end idleness and reenfranchise the negroes of the South.

Many Congratulate Him

His congratulatory telegrams and letters were from all parts of the nation from Postmaster General Farley, governors, congressmen and others. One from Congressman Mitchell of Tennessee, welcomed "another member of the Mitchel! family" into Congress.

One letter that he most prides is from Congressman McDuffie.

McDuffie has been his staunch friend, he says, ever since he sidestepped a dispute with some white men in Choctaw County following a law suit over the building of a negro school.

McDuffie was present when a white man told Mitchell he had been informed that "you negroes told all sorts of lies" during the trial.

"They thought I would return the lie, but I merely replied that the plaintiffs' memory had been bad," Mitchell said.

Pointing out how little the north knows about the negro in the south, Mitchell said some of his friends expressed surprise at his visit to Birmingham asking him if he wasn't afraid to come here.

"On the other hand they have criticized me for my white friends of the South. I told them I had no apologies to offer for those friends and only wished I had more of them."

Town Costs $3,500,000

Norris, Tenn.—Dr. A. E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, has revealed that the authority's "model" town of Norris represents an expenditure of approximately $3,500,000.

The town was built to house workers engaged in construction of the nearby Norris Dam. There are accommodations for around 400 families.

After the dam is built, TVA officials expect small industries to locate near the dam because of cheap power. Norris then will house workers in those industries.

amendments. They do not understand them.'

"The vote is apparent that: The constitution can be changed by amendments if they think they are deserved. Finally, the people can and do understand.

Refers to Amendment Vote

"The most striking result of the recent election, however, it that beyond any doubt in the world, it proved that the people of Mississippi are against the thing which Governor Conner has been preaching all over the state and that is the changing of Section 112 of the present constitution. In other words, the classified property tax.

"The governor has in all of his messages, speeches, etc., continually reinterated that in order to have 'relief,' Section 112 must be changed, and that we must have the 'classified property tax.'

"This amendment was Amendment No. 4 on the ballot recently. It was thoroughly discussed by the attorney general, Every newspaper in the state commented upon it. It was beaten in the recent election by a majority of four to one.

"Are we now to have a constitutional convention to do the very thing which the people by a four-to-one vote have said they do not want?

"Only one vote in the Legislature was gained by the convention-ites in the recent election, and this was in a county where nobody ran on an anticonvention ticket.

"Since the last session, the conventionites have, in my opinion, lost seven votes in the House and five in the Senate.

"There will be no special session of the Legislature if we are to have a poll of the Legislature and the legislative call is to be contingent upon a majority of each house agreeing in advance to vote for a constitutional convention."

Vet Carries 34 Pieces of Shrapnel in Body

Washington.—Although he carried 34 pieces of shrapnel in his body, Dean Stanley Reynolds lost a suit to force payment of $10,000 war risk insurance because the government charged he was able to make a living.

Reynolds waged a three day fight in District Supreme court to recover the money lost after his policy lapsed in 1919. He claimed total and permanent disability.

Wounded at the battle of Solssons, Reynolds introduced in evidence X-ray pictures which showed 34 pieces of shrapnel lodged in his body. He told the court he had undergone three operations for removal of shrapnel since his return from France.

However, Assistant District Attorney Walter M. Shea, government counsel, charged that Reynolds was capable of earning a living despite his injuries. Besides receiving $70 a month from the government, Shea testified, the veteran, as a shoe cutter, earned $16,000 in eight years.

The jury returned the dismissal verdict in 40 minutes.

Telephone Users Consider Quality and Dependability of Service as Paramount

Telephone service is such an intimate, personal service that anything adversely affecting it at once becomes a subject of individual interest to the millions of users. Because this service has such an important part in your every day social and business life, its quality and dependability are matters of serious concern to you. Service inferior to the high standard to which you are accustomed would not be acceptable, even at a lower price.

Recognizing this fact, the Bell System has always so shaped its policy as to insure the best and most dependable service that science and careful, farsighted management could produce, at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety.

Due to this constructive policy, the telephone business has never earned speculative profits.

In the best years of the Southern Bell Telephone Company's history, and during a time when other businesses were earning large profits on soaring prices, the cost of the telephone service was kept at a level where the return on the investment was never more than 7%. In 1930, when the depression was first felt, these earnings declined rapidly, and in 1933 they shrank to about 4% on the investment.

It is obvious that further reductions of such already inadequate earnings would seriously endanger the financial soundness of the business, and be reflected in the quality and dependability of the service.

Convention Plan Wins 'Converts,' Conner Reports

Mississippi Governor Checking Legislators' Answers on Poll

Jackson, Miss.—Two "concerts" to the idea of a constitution convention since the last session of the Mississippi Legislature were reported today by Governor Sennett Conner after he had scanned the first 20 "votes" received in his "yes or no" poll of the lawmakers to ascertain whether a majority now favor the convening of an extraordinary session for the purpose of calling a constitution convention.

A convention bill went down in defeat in the regular session by one majority in the Senate and by a two majority in the House of Representatives, with Lieutenant-Governor Dennis Murphree casting the deciding vote in the Senate to break a tie.

Governor Conner did not disclose whether the "converts" were in the Senate or House, or split between the two, but voiced confidence that a majority would declare in favor of the calling of a constitution concention. Only a bare majority is needed in both houses.

Will Give Names Later

The governor said he was not yet ready to reveal the names of the legislators replying to his "yes or no" poll, but promises to give a full list of voters showing how each voted before the poll closes. Nor would he indicate when the poll will be considered closed.

"There is no use in showing my hand to the enemy," he said. "Besides, it might be that a member would vote against the proposal now and later see the light and want to vote for a convention bill. To change after being put on public record might be embarrassing to the member."

Governor Conner admitted that the vote would be close. "Everybody recognizes that there will be only a few votes deciding the issure, one way or the other," he said.

A call for the extraordinary session probably will go out immediately after receipt of a sufficient number of promises, causing the session to start early in December.

Expect Quick Action

Only a week or so is thought necessary to work out a convention bill, in which the chief obstacle will be determination of the apportionment of delegates to the convention.

One of these extraneous matters probably will be the question of financing a railroad commission fight for lower intrastate telephone rates, which movement has been initiated.

Attorney General Greek L. Rice today said that if an extraordinary session is called, he will urge Governor Conner to ask for the appropriation of $25,000 for the purpose of fighting for lower telephone rates.

"We need $25,000 to make an engineering survey of the rates," said the attorney general.

Fund Unspent

The attorney general pointed out that at the last session the Legislature appropriated $35,000 with which to fight in the United States supreme court the proposed suit for recovery on the ante-bellum defaulted bonds which keep bobbing up now and then to embarrass Mississippians, but that not a cent of this money was spent by the state's department of justice.

"The United States supreme court refused to take jurisdiction in the suit of the principality of Monaco and we did not need the money," he said. "Appropriation of a part of this unexpended sum, which lies in the state treasury, would not increase the biennial budget a single penny."

The state back in the days long before the War between the States defaulted on $7,000,000 in two state bond issues intended to organize banks, and the principality of Monaco several months ago asked permission of the United States supreme court to bring suit for

Mystery Still Cloaks 2 Bodies Found on Island

Los Angeles—A mystery of the sea was slowly unfolding today as meagre radio reports trickled in from the Pacific.

The bodies of two persons were found on lonely Marchena Island in the Galapagos group by the San Diego, Cal., tuna fishing boat Santo Armao. Whether they were those of an "Adam and Eve" couple remained in doubt.

First reports from the vessel stated the bodies were those of a man and a woman and indicated their identity to be Alfred Rudolph Lorenz and Mrs. Margaret Wittmer.

Later radio advices from Captain Manuel Rodrigues, master of the Santo Amaro, stated, in their belief, the bodies were those of two men—probably Lorenz and Frank Wittmer, husband of Mrs. Margaret Wittmer.

Await Yacht Trip

Definite information as to the identity of the two may not be forthcoming until the yacht of Captain Allan Hancock of Los Angeles visits the lonely islands within the next few weeks.

Radio reports indicated the two persons had been cast upon barren Marchena Island in a small skiff, had put up a futile fight against thirst and starvation and lost their fight for life as they waited in vain for some passing ship to sight their distress signal flying from an improvised flag pole.

They apparently had come from Santa Maria or Charles Island in the Galapagos group. When Captain Hancock last visited Santa Maria Island, several months ago, there were nine persons there leading a primitive existance.

Jackson Dokeys Charter Special Car

The Dokeys of Jackson have informed El Hama Temple D. O. K. K. that they have chartered a special coach and at least 50 votaries will attend the Thanksgiving ceremonial to be held in this city on that day.

All arrangements have been made to entertain the Jackson delegation and the Montgomery Drum and Bugle Corps on their arrival in the city Thursday morning, November 29th.

Reports from the Dokey temple in Meridian were to the effect that some 25 candidates have signed the dotted line and that the Turkey Day ceremonial was to be the biggest and best held in years.

Wild Bill And His Band Here Sunday

Wild Bill and his band will appear at the court house Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and the general public is extended an invitation to attend the services. Rev. Eddins, known as Will Bill, is a returned missionary and his text will be "Love." Each week day evening he will speak at 7:00 P. M. at 2nd street and 35th avenue.

Both white and colored are invited to hear the converted "Cow Boy."

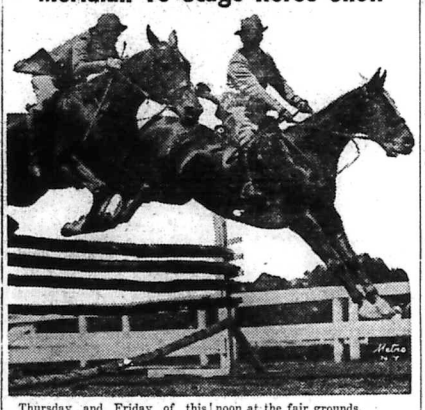
Slower Driving For Winter Is Advised

Mississippi motorists are warned by Sam J. Dalton, maintenance engineer of the State Highway Department and head of the state police patrol, to begin adjusting their driving habits to the changing weather conditions which come with the approach of rainy months.

"Every year when the rainy season hits the state there is a toll of injuries among motorists who try to maintain the same speeds as during dry weather," Engineer Dalton said.

"It would seem that many drivers do not remember from one winter to the next in-so-far as road dangers are concerned. Just make up your mind not to be in a hurry and you'll get to your destination a lot quicker than if you take a speed detour to a hospital."

Meridian To Stage Horse Show



Thursday and Friday of this week Meridian will have an opportunity to enjoy one of the best Horse Shows ever held in this section of the state.

A parade will be held in the downtown section of the city at 12 noon Thursday followed by the first show at 1:30 in the afternoon at the fair grounds.

The affair is being sponsored by the Spinster Club of the city and under the direction of Al Fine. Judge J. Harold Hall of Montgomery will act as judge.

Features generally seen at all Western Rodeos will be staged which will include bronco riding of the western cow boy style.

RFC Sues Dawes To Recover Loan

Chicago.—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, of which he formerly was chairman, late today filed suit against General Charles G. Dawes and the other 4,000 stockholders of the Central Republic Trust Company (formerly known as the Central Republic Bank & Trust Company) for the $60,000,000 which is still unpaid on the famous "Dawes loan."

This is a civil suit. Shortly after the bill was filed Federal Judge John P. Barnes issued a temporary order enjoining any other creditor from filing a similar bill in court to collect from stockholders pending further action of the federal court in the bill filed by the RFC.

John L. Hopkins, O. J. Rogge and James A. Sprowl, attorneys for RFC, filed the bill. Specifically, it is a suit for the collection from the stockholders under the law providing for double indemnity for bank stockholders.

Although the bill says nothing about receivership for the bank, Attorney Hopkins said after filing it that he understood the state auditor of public accounts, E. J. Barrett, would probably be asked to take over the Central Republic Trust Company for purposes of liquidation.

'All or Nothing'

The famous Dawes loan was made in October, 1932, shortly after General Dawes had retired as chairman of the RFC. Coming to Chicago, he found that the Central Republic, because of the prolonged bank runs, needed cash. Declining to take only a small loan to meet the emergency, he insisted that it be "all or nothing". He was prepared to close the bank if the RFC was unwilling to lend enough to pay off the depositors in full. Other banks, fearful of what might happen to them, interceded for him and the loan of the full $90,000,000 was arranged for.

Battles Bald Cop

Providence, R. I.—Emery Brice, a policeman of this city was called to a house on the edge of town. Someone was stealing their chicken the voice on the phone stated. Brice approached the address, he heard the chickens making so much noise he thought the whole flock had been caught. Running around the house, his cap fell off revealing his bald head. A chicken that had been caught was released and the object that had it landed on top of Brice's bald head. It was a large bald eagle. Brice was taken to a hospital. The eagle was taken to a taxidermist.

Roosevelt Sleeps, Loafs And Bathes

Warm Springs, Ga.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, country squire, hobnobbed today with his friends and neighbors.

Free for the next two weeks to do as he pleases, he dropped the cares of office, put on old clothes and loafed under a hot sun.

Marvin H. MacIntyre, his secretary, was threatened laughingly with dismissal if he tries to bring up business during the next day or two. "Mac" took the hint and went golfing.

The president likes Warm Springs, his "other home," probably better than any other vacation spot. Nobody bothers him, no crowds dog his footsteps. He moves about without a troop of secret service operatives trailing him. He can enjoy to the fullest the role he enjoys so much—that of a neighbor.

Sleeps Late

In his little cottage hidden among the pine trees, the president slept fairly late, tired after his strenuous inspection trip through the teeming Tennessee Valley, one of the New Deal's proudest projects.

About noon the president got into his manual-operated touring car and drove to the swimming pool in a deep valley where, with several patients of the Warm Springs foundation, he paddled in the water and tossed around a large rubber ball. His booming laughing voice resounded.

Work comes later. Several important decisions are to be made. Cheered by the reactions to his public power development proposals Saturday and Sunday, the president made arrangements to call in Washington officials to map out future plans.

Allow 350 Workers To Purchase Autos

Moscow.—The official Soviet newspapers have just announced with big headlines a decision of the authorities to permit the 350 best "shock" laborers in the Chelyabinsk tractor plant to purchase automobiles on the installment plan for their private use. The announcement said 50 cars will be distributed before the end of the present year, 100 next year, another 100 in 1936, and the remaining 100 in 1937.

The announcement is said to have caused a sensation because, aside from a limited number of high officials, practically no one in Russia is permitted to own an automobile.

The victim was rushed to a hospital as a baby was expected. Surgeons saved the lives of his wife as well as the child. The baby has been shot through one of its arms.

Byrd 'Grounded' By Ill Health In Little America

New York—Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, one of the greatest flying pioneers of modern history, conqueror of the North Atlantic and the North and South Poles by air, may never fly again as an explorer. He is the victim of ill health caused by exposure.

The "grounding" of Admiral Byrd, reported from Little America. Antarctica, simultaneously with word of Byrd's crowning achievement—discovery of a passageway dividing Antarctica into two continents—confounded explorers and airmen here today.

But, the staunch crew of Byrd's second Antarctic expedition, faced with the necessity of carrying on for another year before returning to civlization, have been ordered by their commander to make preparations for future flights, which may make history, while Byrd remains at Little America to see others carry out his plans.

State Plans Road Work Program

Paving and grading projects, bridge work and graveling will be carried on this winter by the state highway department in continuing its extensive highway building program and to provide as much cold weather employment as possible, according to information from members of the State Highway Commission.

During past months more than 10,000 people have been employed on highway construction projects and maintenance of Mississippi's 6,125-mile highway system, the major portion of those employed being placed through countyrelief employment offices.

Highway commissioners are hopeful of being able to maintain the present construction forces, it was said, in order to prevent increased unemployment.

Huey Long Plans To Run For President

Questioned about the third-party angle and the failures of Theodore Roosevelt and "Fighting Bob" La Follette, Huey, the "Kingfish," said:

'Times Have Changed'

"Ah, that's nothing. Times have changed. This new and young crop of voters want a government for the plain people. Why, the Republican party was organized the Whig and Democratic parties were the main parties."

His immediate plans are to mould the state of Louisiana into a "model of government," which he could show the people as an example of what he could do to the United States. His last amazing session of the Legislature, where he had 44 bills passed in less time than it would take to read the texts, was just another move toward his presidential aspirations.

Long's political play is to the young voter.

"I don't care nothing about the old fogies and mossbacks. I am for the plain, honest, thinking man and the generations that are coming on."

And he has succeeded in building up popularity with the youngsters. The student body of Louisiana State university, his particular pride and joy, are for him almost to a man. He believes that other college boys over the land feel the same way and they will be voters in 1936.

Senator Changes

Since he has had the presidential bug, "Huey the Kingfish" has been slowly trying to turn into "Senator Long of Louisiana." At times his old friends hardly recognize their old blustering "Kingfish" when they look upon this dignified creature, who no longer drinks or smokes and talks about world and national affairs.

"Where is their hearty swashbuckler who at one time showed them how to practice practical

South Is Losing Cotton Market, Warns Educator

Washington—Warning that the South is rapidly losing its foreign market for cotton was sounded today by T. M. Walton, president of the Texas A. & M. college and head of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges, in an address here today.

Foreign nations are increasing their own cotton production on favorable localities in direct ratio as the South's crops are cut, Walton said. He urged that "we should give careful consideration to the question of our declining export trade, not only in cotton but in other agricultural commodities."

He warned that "the South cannot realize full recovery unless cotton farmers produce an approximately normal crop."

recovery from Mississippi.

General Rice and C. M. (Red Morgan, president of the state railroad commission, returned over the week-end from a trip to Washington where they were unsuccessful in getting immediate help from the federal communications commission in the Mississippi battle for lower telephone rates.

Rate Investigation

The federal communications commission has launched a sweeping investigation into the financial structure of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its subsidiaries and interlocking companies, but will not reach the question of rates until after this investigation is out of the way, the attorney general was informed.

"We had in mind that perhaps the federal communications commission would send some engineers into Mississippi to start its investigation of rates, and let us save the expense," explained Gen. Rice.

The city of Jackson tomorrow starts its own inquiry into electric power and light charges being levied in Jackson by the Mississippi Power and Light Company, when the city commission will begin hearings.

The power company offered a reduction ranging from 10 to 12 per cent, but the city declined the reduction and cited the company to show cause why a considerably lower rate should not be put into force.

A threat of a municipal plant to replace the private corporation unless the rates are lowered is being dangled over the power company.

Winner of National Beauty Title

Helen Mack of Richmond Hill, L. I., was judged the outstanding beauty of the National American Beauty Pageant contest held in Madison Square Garden, New York city.

Heart Attack Kills W. Mack, Actor

Hollywood.—A sudden heart attack late Monday wrote finis to the notable stage and screen career of Willard Mack.

Death came to the famous writer playwright, actor and motion picture director as he lay in bed at his home in Hollywood. He had not been feeling well and had lain down. He called a maid "to open the door," gasped and died in a few minutes.

Mack was a celebrated on Broadway as he was in Hollywood. He acted in many of his famous stage successes and acted in and directed many of the screen successes he had produced in the past 21 years.

Born in Canada

Born in Morrisburg, Canada, 57 years ago, Mack was educated at Georgetown university, Washington, D. C., and later became a naturalized citizen of the United States.

He scored his first stage success in Salt Lake City and for 9 years was a famous stock player in that city. Only a few days ago he expressed a wish to his close friend, Bryan Foy, that should he pass away he would be buried at Salt Lake City, scene of his early success.

Mack authored 34 stage plays, of which 26 were produced on Broadway. His big hits were "Tiger Rose," The Dove, and Kick In.

He was under contract to David Belasco for 12 years and very close to the famous producer for many years.

Picked Successes

At one time he had four Broadway plays going at one time.

He was noted for his ability to pick successful actresses. Mae Clark, Barbara Stanwyck, Lenore Ulrich and Marjorie Rambeau were among those he was credited with having started or aided on the way to stardom.

He had just completed a picture at the Bryan Foy studios for Columbia entitled "Call to Arms," which he wrote, directed and played the leading role. The picture was an antiradical story with a strong plea for American ideals. One of the players in the picture was Lou Tellegen, the famous stage and screen star, who recently suicided.

Mack was to have started work on another new picture he had just written, "Impie," at the same studio Wednesday.

His first picture was "Aloha," written and produced for Tom Ince and released by Triangle in 1915.

Was Honorary 'Mountie'

In 1918 he was engaged to produce five pictures starring Geraldine Farrar, and in 1922 wrote and directed several pictures for Joseph Schenck in which Norma Talmadge was starred. The following year he wrote and directed several pictures in which Jackie Coogan starred and in 1928 he joined M-G-M to write and direct and had many successes there to his credit. He made there the first all-talkie melodrama, "Voice of the City."

In 1932 he returned to Broadway to stage a play with Arthur Hopkins and then returned to Hollywood.

He had written much of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police and was an honorary member of that organization.

THREE-TIME CHAMPION

For the third successive time Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago won the women's national golf champion ship at Chestnut Hill, Pa. She is shown receiving the cup from Herbert Jacques, president of the United States Golf association.

Daniel Bell is the acting director of the budget since the retirement of Lewis Douglas.

PTOMAINE POISONING ATTACKS CCC CAMP

Lewes, Del.—Thirty-three members of the civilian conservation camp here were ill today from ptomaine poisoning believed to have been caused by eating tainted canned meat or potato salad.

Included in the list of sufferers were the wife of Captain Earl Ewing, company commander, of Wilmington, Del., and their 5-year-old daughter, Betty. They worst attack was suffered by a Camp Dix officer whose name was not revealed, camp authorities reported.

RELIEF CHARGES GIVEN BORAH

Washington.—A delegation of the national capital's unemployed today presented to Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, charges of graft and corruption in the operation of the emergency relief administration in Washington.

Louis B. Smith, New York city, spokesman for the unemployed, presented Borah with a long list of alleged abuses and instances of graft and corruption in emergency relief operations.

A similar set of charges was presented to Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, Saturday.

Borah promised to help the unemployed but asked them to wait until Hopkins had a chance to investigate their charges.

CHICAGO WOMAN, 65, DIES IN 18-STORY DROP

Chicago.—In the third such case in Chicago in the past few days, Mrs. Theresa Naughton Ryan, 65 years old, wife of Sergeant Thomas Ryan, retired policeman, today leaped or fell to her death from a window in the 18th floor of the Hotel Stevens.

Mrs. Ryan was fully attired, wearing a black silk dress of expensive make. Her black shoes flew off her feet during the plunge and were several feet from the body.

AROMA OF LIMBURGER LOST; $15,000 SOUGHT

East Lyne, Conn.—Frank Brazeal can't sniff limburger, nor can he smell roses. Which makes him think his sense of smell was worth $15,000—when he had it.

Brazeal claims his sense of smell was lost as result of an automoblie collision. He will attempt to recover $15,000 from the University Overland Express Company of Cambridge, Mass.

Callander, Ont.—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of Canada's famous quintuplets, got the thrill of a life time when King George of Great Britain took official notice of her feat in bringing the babies into the world and keeping them alive for almost six months.

She received a letter from Ottawa containing a cheque for five pounds sterling, this amount representing the "king's bounty for multiple birth."

$25,000 SUIT FACED BY ROOSEVELT'S SON

Boston.—James Allen, clerk of the United States district court, today issued a writ of attachment for $25,000 against Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the president.

Arthur P. Digan, counsel for the plaintiff, Mrs. Daniel P. O'Leary, 60, years old, East Boston, said the writ was obtained in connection with an automobile accident March 24 in which Mrs. O'Leary was struck by a car operated by young Roosevelt. He explained the writ was a preliminary step prior to a declaration asking $25,000.

Huey Long Plans To Run For President

politics like it had never been practiced before?" they will ask him. They struggle to fit into the new picture, but it is hard going for some of them.

But occasionally Long forgets this new role himself, particularly when his Tiger band plays "Alexander's Rag Time Band" when he is on the march. To this tune, he naturally slips back into "kingfishery" and gives the public a glimpse of the oldtime Huey.

'Wouldn't Take a Drink'

Huey is on the water wagon. He says he has been for nearly a year.

"A man is a fool to drink," he said. "I wouldn't take a drink for a million dollars. But I am not telling other people what they should do. I believe in state option but not national prohibition. I don't smoke because cigars give me hay fever."

He has also left his potlikker and greens diet for long life and turned to apple pie.

"Watch a man if he doesn't like apple pie. And he had better watch himself if he loses his taste for apple pie."

'Take the Money' Is Long's Advice

Baton Rouge, La.—A policy for the people to "take the money and vote as they please" was advocated last night by Senator Huey P. Long as the best way to insure honest elections for the future.

"It's a question of fighting the devil with fire," declared Long.

"What the organizations in this country who are fighting for the people need to do is take the money being thrown out to bribe them and vote like they please," he asserted.

Louisiana's political dictator was resting in his hotel suite here after his tour through his "province" of Mississippi Saturday, where he accompanied his Louisiana State university football team and a 125-piece band.

He declared that his greatest strength and that of his organization in Louisiana elections "lies in the secrecy of the ballot which we maintain here."

"When the voters get inside that polling booth, only the Lord can see them vote. In the sight of no one but the Lord Himself there people in Louisiana are Long people and there isn't gold enough in the United States treasury to beat us.'

Senator Long said that the people are justified in following his suggestion to "take the money and vote as they please."

"In many instances there isn't anything but money the people own or have to pay back in taxes that they are getting back anyway. In many cases that money represents corporation spoils that have been unjustly wrung from the people.

"While I'm the last man in the world to advocate bribery and vote buying, yet I'm the first to devise a means of breaking it up," he declared.

WESTERN TRIP PLANNED BY LONG

Baton Rouge, La.—Senator Huey P. Long announced today he is leaving Louisiana tomorrow for an unstated time and an unrevealed destination in the West.

"Mrs. Long and I have never had a honeymoon and we're going to have one now," Long said.

Federal Relief To Continue; D.O.K.K. Ceremonial Thursday

Those in Need Won't Starve --Harrison

Washington, D. C.—There will be no increase in taxation during the coming sessions, but Federal relief will go. No one will starve as long as the present administration is power. Indications point to payment of the bonus, to unemployment insurance and old-age pension. Where the money is coming from I do not know. That is the statement of Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the finance committee.

"I am hopefull," he stated, "that the present source of revenue will be adequate for the normal budget and that substantial change will not be made in existing levies." "As for relief," Senator Harrison stated, "we all realize that we can't quit relief now. People cannot be permitted to starve and you may rest assured they won't as long as this democratic administaration is in power."

Continued U. S. Relief is Urged By La Follette

New Orleans.—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, here to address the Lyceum Association at Newcomb college on "What Progressives Are Fighting For," asserted upon his arrival his belief in continued relief appropriations by the federal government.

"All of the 'cushioning' policies should be prolonged," he said. "I am in favor of immediate new appropriations for the HOLC and the FERA. These projects are still too young to be cut off at this time. Relief appropriations should be continued until economic conditions are stabilized."

Backs Social Project

Senator La Gollette expressed his opinion that the Congress, which meets in January, should take action on unemployment insurance, old-age pensions and other "permanent policies" to make relief funds finally unnecessary.

"I think that Congress should appropriate at least $8,000,000 more for relief measures at the next session, however," he asserted.

Sees Realignment

Concerning the possibility of a strong third party, Senator La Follette, who was elected to another six-year term this month in Wisconsin on the Progressive ticket, told questioners, "I again say that I have said before, that there will be a party realignment in America. When and how it will come about is beyond me."

Senator La Follette, who has generally supported the policies of President Roosevelt, refused to comment on Senator Huey Long or his "share the wealth" campaign. After his lecture he is scheduled to leave for Atlanta.

Special Train Brings 1,500 Fans From Jackson Tomorrow

With a crowd of 1,500 football fans scheduled to arrive in Meridian Thursday morning at 11:00 o'clock, more than 5,000 are expected to attend the game in the afternoon. Included in the Jackson crowd is the Boys' Band of that city.

Jackson Out For Revenge

The Jackson football team has been unable to score a win against the Meridian Wildcats since 1917. That year they won their game by a score of 6 to 0. During the past two years they have played a better brand of ball, however, holding the locals to a 7-7 tie in 1932 and again getting a tie last year, 0-0.

Bandits Abduct Texas Policemen in Own Squad Car

Paris, Tex.—Two Paris policemen were abducted here today when they sought to question two men.

Officers said that from a description of one of the abductors he could "easily be Raymond Hamilton."

The kidnap victims, Newt Baker, 42, and H. R. Martin, 34, were seized as they approached the two men. The abductors seized the officers squad car and raced northward abandoning their own machine, a new sedan bearing Arkansas license plates and loaded with ammunition. Officers also found a quantity of narcotics in the abandoned car.

Every available officer in this section was pressed into service for the hunt for the kidnapers. The search was directed by Gus Cothran, Paris chief of police.

Echo Park Residents Slashed With Knife

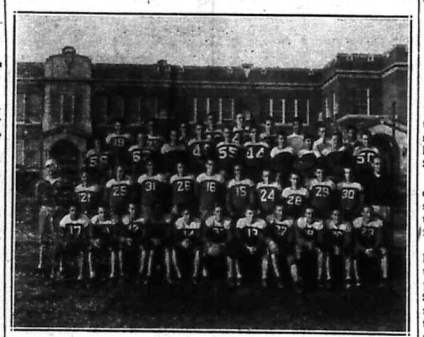
Late Tuesday night Louis Therrell of Echo Park Drive was carried to Rush's Infirmary with a deep gash across his chest, just over his heart, cut inflicted, it is a'leged by the police, by Harper Goree. According to the reports, Goree entered the Therrell home, using abusive language after entering. Ordered from the house, he drew a knife and cut young Therrell. His father, attempted intercede in behalf of his son, whereupon Goree turned on the elder Therrell who received a agsh across the face. An ambulance from the Webb Funeral Home rushed young Therrell to Rush's, where his condition was reported to be serious. Goree was arrested several hours later by Officers Shealy, Corn and Gunn.

Wanted-Votes Favoring Convention---Conner

Jackson—Still short 15 votes of having a majority for his constitutional convention, Governor Conner has decided on a "follow up" system in his attempt to get an expression from those members who failed to answer his first letter. Many senators and members of the House have stated they would refuse to answer "yes" or "no" poll, as it failed to provide any middle ground for those who favor submitting the question to the people of the state.

MERIDIAN HIGH SCHOOL WILDCATS



Meridian's High School football team slated to take Jackson's measure at Greer Field Thanksgiving day. Jackson has not beaten Meridian's team since 1917. Late reports Tuesday night from Jackson stated Jackson would have more than 1,200 fans on the football special scheduled to arrive in Meridian at 10:30 a. m. More than 300 more are expected to to come over in automobiles. Fifteen hundred seats have been reserved for the Jackson fans. It will be the greatest high school game of the whole state.

U. S. Prosecutors to Decide Future of Insull's Case

Washington.—Attorney-General Cummings announced today that United States Attorney Dwight Green of Chicago has been ordered to come to Washington for a conference that will determine the government's future plans in connection with the Samuel Insull case.

"Mr. Green will be here Wednesday and I shall discuss the entire matter with him. At this conference we shall decide what future action shall be taken by the department," said Cummings.

Chicago.—Samuel Insull, fallen utilities star, acquitted of mail fraud by a federal jury Saturday, is eager and anxious to face a second federal indictment and pending state charges "to complete his vindication."

Insull, in high good spirits, declared today:

"I am ready to face these other trials that are pending. I have been vindicated in this case and I am confident I will be vindicated in the others."

Congratulatory telegrams and letters were still pouring in on the Insulls, father and son, today. They had planned to spend a quiet day in their modest apartment hotel suite yesterday, but were besieged by hosts of friends, by most of the 16 co-defendants, by reporters, photographers and news-reel men. Their telephone was constantly clamoring for attention. One of the calls was from a London, England newspaper—at $38 a minute—seeking an exclusive interview.

The mail-fraud trial, in which the government sought to prove Insull, his son and 16 associates used the mails to defraud investors in connection with the sale of securities in the now-defunct $120,000,000 Corporation Securities Company, lasted eight weeks and is estimated to have cost the government a quarter of a million dollars.

Thief Gets Chicken Misses Large Turkey

Late Tuesday a thief stole a fat hen from a coop at the home of Battle Crook, 2011 26th Ave., but failed to get two large turkeys in the same coop. Police were on the scene a few minutes later, but found no trace of the robber.

London, Nov. 26.—George Bernard Shaw, caustic-panned playwright, who is confined to his bed with a cold "is going on nicely," his secretary said today. He had suffered a heart attack, as at first reported, the secretary said.

Aubert Dunn Resigns District Att'y Office

Aubert Dunn, United States Congressman-elect from the fifth congressional district, resigned his office of district attorney effective November 26th, according to a telegram sent Governor Conner and dated the 25th. Mr. Dunn's telegram to the Governor follows: "Please accept my resignation as District Attorney, Tenth Judicial District, effective twelve noon, November twenty-sixth, nineteen hundred thirty-four."

Preparing to go to Washington

"I feel it my duty," stated Mr. Dunn, "to acquaint myself as fully as possible with the duties of my new office and its responsibilities prior to the convening of Congress in January. On a recent trip to Capitol, I realized it was there I could serve my people back home and so I am entering my resignation as District Attorney."

Special Election Necessary

Section 6283 of the code of 1930, provides that; where a vacancy occurs more than nine months prior to a regular election for judge or Chancellor or District Attorney, as the case may be, the Governor shall within ten days after happening of such vacancy issue his proclamation calling a special election to be held in sixty days from the date of such proclamation..

Judge J. A. Riddell Candidate

When asked what his intensions were about entering the race for the un-expired term of District Attorney, Judge J. A. Riddell stated, "It has been my intention to be a candidate, as I repeatedly stated to my friends through the entire district, that if a special election was held to fill the vacancy I would be in the race."

Walker Broach, another Meridian attorney, who has heretofore stated that it was his intentions to also be a candidate was reported to be out of the city. No statement could be secured from his office.

Santa Claus to Broadcast WCOC

The kiddies of Meridian and vicinity will be delighted to know that Santa Claus himself will be heard over Station WCOC every evening beginning at 7:00 o'clock.

For several years it has been the practice of this station to have Old Santa Claus on the air and each year the volume of mail received is extremely large.

Kiddies are urged to write letters to Santa Claus in care of WCOC and Old Santa will read them over the air. Be sure to let Santa know what you want him to bring you.

Semi Privately Financed Plan Will Spend Eight Billion a Year

Washington.—Victor in his clash with PWA Administrator Ickes, Housing Administrator Moffett today was completing plans for a semi-privately financed low-cost housing program expected to reach $8,000,000,00 a year.

The construction will be financed by private lending institutions, states and cities, and is designed to pro vide full-time employment for 7,000,000 people, it was learned.

When details are made public late this week it will definitely throw into the discard the Ickes program, which contemplated a $23,000,000 expenditure for government construction of small homes to be sold without down payments and at interest of only 3 per cent.

The homes to be erected under the Moffett plan will cost between $2,000 and $3,500, and, with the land they occupy, will be made available to prospective home owners for between $4,000 and $5,000. All mortgages on these properties would be insured by the government.

The new plan is not being developed as an alternative to the Ickes proposal, it was learned, but has been in preparation for at least two months. Formal announcement of its provisions and scope is expected to be made Friday or Saturday.

Survey of home facilities throughout the nation has revealed a shortage of slightly more than one million one-family housing units. This is exclusive of replacement needs for homes which have fallen into disrepair or which are outmoded.

From this study of conditions as they are found today, housing administration officials are convinced the demand for new, low-priced homes will far exceed the nation's building capacity for many years.

Of the 7,000,000 persons directly dependent upon the construction industry, 4,000,000 are classified as builders and the balance as engaged in the manufacture and transportation of building supplies. If the projected plan is accepted, it is expected to provide full time, all-year-round employment for these people.

To Speak at Atlanta

Moffett left here today for Atlanta, Ga., where he will speak Wednesday night at a meeting arranged by the regional committee of the FHA. Thursday he will confer with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs.

Despite assertion at his offices here that Moffett was going to Warm Springs to attend a trustees' meeting of the foundation, it is generally accepted that he will spend considerable time in an effort to obtain a clear-cut expression from the president on the government's housing policies.

Scores of telegrams continued to pour into Moffett's office today from industrial organizations, manufacturers and banking groups supporting his stand for private capital in the housing field. All declared government financing of construction, on the scale proposed by Ickes, would wreck the mortgage structure of the nation.

NEWS FLASHES

Sumter, S. C.—One unidentified bandit was killed and his companion, severely wounded, escaped following an attempted hold-up of a hotel here today. The pair had obtained about $300 and were making their escape through the lobby when Patrolman W. C. Kirven opened fire, bringing both men down. One returned fire as he crawled to a car and drove away.

Kokura, Japan, Nov. 27.—Babe Ruth obliged a packed stadium of delighted fans with another home run today as the American barnstormers beat a Japanese team 8 to 1. Averill hit a homer.

The Americans left late today for Tokio, and will play two games in near by towns before leaving for Shanghai December 2.

Power Rate Cut Order Forecast As Hearing Ends

Jackson, Miss.—An "ordered" rate reduction in electric energy supplied consumers in the city of Jackson by the Mississippi Power and Light Company ranging from 25 to 50 per cent from existing rates was forecast this afternoon when the city commission closed its rate hearings.

Although the city commission did state its position, a report submitted by its consulting engineers declared that a reduction of 24.7 per cent could be made it the rates, and still permit the company to earn 6 per cent on its property in Jackson plus allocation of values of its state-wide system serving this city.

This city is known to have in mind several alternatives in the rate controversy which started 11 months ago, including promulgation of a "fair and just" rate for the Mississippi Power and Light Company, installation of its own distributing system by utilization of natural gas from the local field, or condemnation proceedings against the power company for its distributing system to be served with locally generated electric energy.

In the background is the known desire of city officials of Jackson, Meridian, Vicksburg, Memphis and other key cities in this territory for extension of Tennessee Valley Authority electric energy for a Mississippi-Western Tennessee tie up. Such extension, however, necessarily would be deferred until completion of the Norris dam, some 15 months from now.

Busses To Replace Street Cars

The question of substitution of busses for street cars entered the rate hearings following presentation of a petition signed by a number of local citizens asking such a change be made.

Mayor Scott developed at today's hearings that the petition is addressed to the power company, and not the city government, declaring further that under the power company's franchise, the city could not order replacement of street cars with busses.

"The proposal of the power company to inaugurate a 5-cent fare in Jackson is interesting," he added. "It may be that the city commission, in light of such an order, will enter an order that the rates be reduced to the level suggested by the power company."

The Mississippi Power and Light Company has fixed a fare of 5 cents in Vicksburg, when tickets of 20 are purchased for $1, according to Rex I. Brown, vice-president and general manager of the power company.

"But we obtained certain considerations in Vicksburg for the 5-cent fare, such as being relieved of paving costs in taking up our street car tracks."

Revenue Agents Ousted for Parts in Tax Swindle

Washington.—Evidence that a number of large federal taxpayers have been defrauded through the action of two or more federal revenue agents has been uncovered by the treasury department, it was stated today.

Two agents were dismissed. The matter will be presented to a federal grand jury in the District of Columbia. A firm of so-called tax consultants in New York is involved and evidence may be presented to a grand jury in that judicial district.

It was stated that the two revenue bureau men acted in collusion with the New York firm. On obtaining information that a tax case was about to be settled, agents, according to the claim would go to the taxpayer or his attorney with the information that, for a certain fee, a compromise might be made. The case would then shortly be settled by the bureau and these officials would collect their fee.

The President Makes Another Promise

Speaking to one of the largest crowds ever to assemble in North Mississippi, the President made one of the most important speeches that he has ever made since taking the oath as President of the United States.

Roosevelt promises the people cheap power. And generally the people and the large corporations throughout the entire nation have learned to respect the President and his pledges.

Of all the plans to drive away the depression that has been inaugurated and put into force, the one to give the people of the United States cheaper power and light rates, is one of the most important.

If the President's plans succeed, and they will, it will mean cheap power for the farms, for the factories and the homes and will free men from the bonds of slavery.

Wall Street and the Power Trusts have watered their stocks and raised their power and light rates until the users of this commodity are at the rebellion point.

The people are demanding a reduction in the rates they are paying for electric current.

President Roosevelt has heard the cry and is going to do something about it. Roosevelt has proven himself one of the greatest presidents we have ever had and a true friend of the people.

If the people of this nation will re-elect President Roosevelt to succeed himself as our chief executive, there is no doubt that "the forgotten man" will come into his own and we, as a nation, will return to prosperity.

Long live our president, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

THANKSGIVING

Tomorrow—Thanksgiving Day.

A day that we, as a nation, set aside for the purpose of offering our thanks and appreciation for all the goodness and kindness we have received.

Thankful to our forefathers for the discovery of America.

Thankful to them for their undying efforts and their relentless fight to make this a land where each may worship his God in the manner he himself prescribes together with freedom of speech and freedom of press.

Thankful for America as a Nation.

Thankful for the opportunity that is ours to make each day a day of opportunities.

Thankful for our disadvantages as well as our advantages for it is through our troubles and tribulations that we learn to fight and conquer. The struggle for physical existence adds to the character of a deserving man.

Thankful for our churches, organized society and the handclasp of a true friend.

Thankful for the leadership that this nation is blessed with today, our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Thankful for our God, the supreme ruler of the universe, for His kindness and His everlasting love.

Thankful for our yesterdays, for we have seen our mistakes and can profit by them.

Thankful for today, for wherever we are, the opportunity is ours to lend a freindly hand, to assist and comfort our fellowman and to do something that is worthy and worthwhile.

Thankful for the tomorrow, for whether the clouds hang low or the sun shines bright, whether we are rich or poor, high or low, learned or unlearned, opportunity again knocks at our door with the break of each new-born day, beckoning each of us to arise and from the ashes of the past, put aside all of our fears and shortcomings, our doubts and suspicions and go forth to conquest and to win.

Tomorrow—Thanksgiving Day—millions of God-fearing, appreciative and patriotic American citizens will join in with one accord—that of expressing their gratitude and thankfulness.

Let each of us be one of the multitude.

Quite a number of municipalities have held their general elections, November 13 in compliance with section 2597, Code of 1930. This section, however, was amended by Chapter 226, Laws of 1932, changing the date of general elections of municipalities not operating under special charter, to the second Tuesday in December. The Attorney General holds that such municipalities must hold their elections on that date—second Tuesday in December, 1934, in order to be legal, in compliance with Chapter 226, Laws of 1932.

In addition to regular routine business the Secretary of State's department has been busy this week mailing out commissions to Senator-elect and Congressman-elect selected at the recent general election held on November the 6th.

Sheriff's Office Sells 202 Auto Tags To Date

Report from the Sheriff's office late yesterday afternoon were to the effect that 202 Auto tags had been sold for the new year. This is about in keeping with the sales up to the same date last year.

In accord with the new law passed by the Legislature in the 1934 session, the tags are one-third less expensive for the coming year than the charges made for this years privilege.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Kennedy has called the auto public's attention to the fact that there remains the month of December to purchase tags as after December 31st, there will be a penalty attached.

Drys to Battle On Wide Front

WASHINGTON.—Battle tactics of organized drys were outlined Monday by Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, as preparations were made to appear before Congress and state legislatures.

The battle will be waged over a wide front, despite the victories of anti-prohibition forces in state elections Nov. 6.

"The chief legislative battles will be in the states for the largest practicable, possible unit of prohibition," said McBride.

"In states dry enough to make a test on state-wide prohibition, we will seek legislation providing for the test. In wet states we will seek the largest, practicable dry area, either through county or local option.

"The issue thus swings back to the states and the fight is just as keen as it was 20 years ago."

McBride said the national fight will be for the proposed prohibition amendment of Senator Sheppard (D. of Texas, giving Congress control of the liquor traffic, and a federal ban on advertising. He expressed the belief that it would be legally possible to obtain federal legislation prohibiting advertising of liquor.

Building Big Dam Two Years Ahead

DENVER.—The Hoover Dam, greatest of all reclamation undertakings, will be completed by April 1, 1935, Reclamation Bureau officials here announced.

On that date Raymond F. Walter, chief engineer for the bureau, said, storage water would start. He has just completed an inspection of the dam.

He found that construction work was nearly two years ahead of schedule. Until recently officials believed that storage of water could not be started before the spring of 1936. He said:

"The dam is already the highest in the world, with 150 feet yet to go. It is now 585 feet high.

New Body Talked

WASHINGTON.—The idea of setting up a new government department to handle social work is being studied by some advisers of President Roosevelt. The president's attitude is not known.

Such department, if it came into being, might handle such matters as unemployment insurance, old age pensions, relief and kindred duties.

Perfect Voters

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—Before Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Slack of Wentworth Falls, sailed for England, their member of Parliament asked them, "You'll be back in time to record your votes, won't you?"

"I'll take good care of that," replied Mr. Slack. When they had been in London only a few days they read that the Australian elections were to be held at an earlier date than had been originally expected.

So they hurriedly curtailed their trip and returned to Australia in time to vote. "I made a promise to Mr. Lawson, and I will keep it," said Mr. Slack.

Jackson.—Silence on the part of the Governor on his "mail order campaign" polling the members of the legislature on the constitutional convention extra session has caused speculation on the street as to the Governor giving up the idea.

Reprieve Assured

LONDON.—The home secretary's office informed George Lansbury, labor leader, Monday that Mrs. May Brownhill, the 62-year-old mother condemned to die for the "mercy slaying" of her imbecile son, will be reprieved.

Lansbury had been one of the prime motive in the fight for clemency for the mother.

The home office moved swiftly Monday and the reported action was taken only a few hours after an application for reprieve had been filed with it.

Vicksburg May Enter East Dixie

GREENVILLE, Miss. — Vicksburg as a member of the East Dixie Baseball League for the 1935 season is being considered by fans of the Hill City following a visit there by J. Walter Morris, Dallas, promotional director of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Morris submitted a proposal to Ben Seay, former president of the Vicksburg "Billies" of the old Cotton States League, which if it is accepted will place Vicksburg as one of the members of the proposed eight-team circuit of the eastern diisvion of the Dixie League.

Columbus is ready to go under the management of H. G. "Slim" Brewer, Morris told the Vicksburg meeting.

If Vicksburg should enter the league there is a possibility that the directors of the East Dixie League would hold their meeting in the Hill City, Dec. 14.

Shoe Rebuilding

Tice's Shoe Shop on Front Street introduced a new method of repairing shoes during the past week. Heretofore soles were sewed or nailed. This method did not prove satisfactory altogether on finer ladies shoes, but now a method requiring neither sewing or nailing is used. The shoes are turned out just as they reach a customer from the factory. No increase in price is asked for a short time in order to introduce the new method to the public.

RALEIGH, N. C.—"The darn thing didn't go fast enough."

The centenarian, who took a long ride in a tri-motored plane is believed to be the oldest air passenger in the state.

San Francisco Killer Faces Only 6-Month Term If Caught

SAN FRANCISCO.—A vicious killer is at large in San Francisco.

He has left death and tragic grief in his wake.

Yet, if he is caught, he will face only six months in the county jail and a fine of $500.

His latest act has filled the heart of a strong man with such bitterness that he wants to turn his back on civilization and return to the solitudes of Africa.

Ape Valued at $5,000

Last Wednesday the killer fed a stick of posioned candy to Ginger the giant Sumatran orangoutang of Fleishhacker Zoo. The ape, valued at $5,000, died in the arms of its keeper.

Thursday the keeper, John Van Bergen, died of grief and shock.

George Bistany, big game hunter and director of the zoo, tried futilely to trace the poisoner. Then, shaken with rage and grief, he collapsed at his desk. He was rushed to a hospital on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Today, lying pale and exhausted in his hospital cot, the man who has laughed at death in the jungles of Africa and Asia revealed an amazing story of animal devotion and of distorted and vicious human nature.

"The killer of Ginger is a murderer, just as if he had killed a human being," Bistany said. "If I could get my hands on him, I'd throw him in the cage with the lions.

Saved His Life

"Ginger was my friend. He saved my life. We respected each other as two men do. He was more of a man than many men I've known. He was uncannily human and intelligent. I talked to him, and he talked to me. I know the language of the anthropoid apes.

"The man who poisoned him is a murderer!"

The death of the great ape climaxed a series of wanton killings of the animals at Fleishhacker Zoo, which is visited daily by thousands of people.

A giant 150-year-old tortise was killed when it swallowed a carpet tack hidden in a piece of rubber, Bistany revealed.

An ostrich died in agony after swallowing a needle concealed in an apple.

An attempt a few months ago to kill Jim, Ginger's companion orangoutang, by means of a needle sunk in a bar of chocolate, failed when the ape sensed something wrong, "called" Bistany and handed him the deadly tidbit!

On scores of occasions keepers have snatched poisoned candy from the mouths of animals.

One man was arrested as he fled from the grounds after setting fire to a lion's mane with a lighted cigaret. The lion was painfully burned.

VILLAGE NO MORE

JACKSON, Miss.—The village of DeSoto in Clarke County is no more. It was dissolved today by order of Governor Conner, whose action was in accordance with a special election.

Clegg; Miss. Boy Ass't To Purvis

WEST POINT, Miss.—H. H. Clegg, forensic champion in his school days over at Mathiston, Webster County, sealed his lips to become Uncle Sam's Ace No. 2 investigator, second only to Melvin Purvis.

Placed last week in charge o the hunt for "Baby Face" Nelson's wife, who was with the gangster when he was killed, Clegg has drawn admiration and attention of hundreds of his friends and former school masters in Eastern Mississippi, who daily read the accounts of the war on gangsters with the greatest avidity.

Back in those days of school, Clegg's oratorical ability and his leaning to thing legal apparently had cut him out to be a lawyer. Indeed, he did finish his law course, but instead of hanging out his shingle he soon became connected with the Department of Justice.

Now at 35 he has become famous as one of Uncle Sam's best sleuths. Since he has been with the division of investigation, he has played prominent roles in solving many crimes.

Drop 501 Families From Relief Rolls

GULFPORT, Miss.—Removal of 501 families from Harrison County relief rolls was announced yesterday by Miss Geraldine McCall, county welfare worker.

The families, 213 of which are in the Gulfport district, are classified as unemployables and under recently promulgated regulations of the FERA are to be cared for by local charities. Two hundred twelve of the families are in the Biloxi district; 57 are in the Pass Christian district, and the remaining 19 in the Saucier district.

There are 3,900 families on relief rolls in this county, and the 501 removed is a reduction of approximately 12 per cent. The average family on relief is five persons, but those dropped under the unemployable regulations are considerably less, it was said, as most of these consist of only one or two persons who have been objects of charity before the depression.

$150,000 Robbery Plot of Nelson Is Revealed

CHICAGO—George "Baby Face" Nelson and a gang of his desperate associates had planned to swoop down upon a Chicago department store with guns blazing in Wild West fashion for a $150,000 robbery last Saturday.

Instead, the briefly notorious killer, successor to John Dillinger, was buried in St. Joseph's cemetery, River Grove, after rites so drab they seemed hardly to fit his recent spectacular career which was ended in the furious gun battle with Federal Agents Samuel P. Cowley, and Herman E. Hollis.

Cowley and Hollis both were killed, but as they were dying they continued firing to make sure that "Baby Face" would go along with them.

Nelson's plans for the foray upon the department store were disclosed by Detective Chief John L. Sullivan, who said he obtained his information from a private source which he could not reveal.

The gang was to be composed entirely of "losers"—men who who were wanted for murder or other crimes that they would have little to lose if they were killed in the attempt.

Sullivan said he learned a week ago that Nelson was in the county plotting the robbery, which was to be a bold dash with the desperadoes shooting down everybody who stood in their way and escaping with the loot.

The store, the plotters had learned, moved about $150,000 in cash to a downtown bank every noon. This was the prize which Nelson hoped to get for himself and his criminal colleagues.

Search continued today for Helen Gillis, Nelson's widow, and for a man, believed to be Alvin Karpis, ex-convict and kidnaper, who were with Nelson when he engaged in the machine-gun and shotgun battle with the two federal agents at Barrington, Ill.

The widow was not at the funeral but a wreath found its way to the casket which bore the message:

"To our loving husband and father."

The "father" was because of the Nelson's two children, Arelene, 4, and Ronald, 5.

Government men were trying to trace the florist from whom the wreath was purchased as a possible lead to the hideout of the Gillis woman, America's first woman Public Enemy No. 1. Federal agents also were posted at the funeral on the bare chance that the widow might appear there.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Many of Hollywood's luminaries today didn't know if they were married and if so, to whom.

Richard Dix and Winifred Coe, Katharine Hepburn and Ludlow Smith, Mercedes de Caballero and New Sparks, Gloria Stuart and Newell Blair, Nancy Fair and Percy Dunn, Margaret Wood Holt and Jack Holt, Dorothy Dunbar and Max Baer, Norma Talmadge and Joseph M. On Hamilton Trail

SHREVEPORT, La.—The trail of Raymond Hamilton, one of the few nationally known desperadoes still roaming the nation, was sought in Shreveport Tuesday.

The hunt was spurred yesterday when police discovered an abandoned automobile in which Hamilton and two of his lieutenants, Julius Bonanan and Chester Elliott, are believed to have fled from Maud, Texas, where they wounded a night watchman.

The watchman, Gene Mills, had walked up to a parked car to question the occupants and was ordered to get inside. He turned and started to walk away, but a gun barked and a bullet hit him in the side. The gunmen fled.

Special Session!

By means of the "grape vine" route the Governoor has stated that if there is to be a special session of the Legislature he will call it by the 7th, of this month—coming Friday.

It is not far from right to predict that there will be no meeting of the law makers before the present term expires.

The Governor has stated that if he did not get a majority of votes for his convention plan he would not assemble the legislature.

At present a close guess as to how the members of the Legislature stand on the constitutional convention would be to the effect that the Governor lacks 12 or 13 votes in the house and 4 in the Senate.

Its rather hard to get a majority of the members of the Legislature, who are elected by the people to vote not to submit such a highly important question to the people.

Altho the insistant demand for a convention is not coming from the people of Mississippi, it is safe to say that the law makers would be willing to let the people decide the issue.

However, if a special session depends on a majority of the Legislative votes to call a convention, we again predict, there will be no special session.

Conner vs. Murphree

As our Governor enters into the last lap of his four-year term of governorship his futile efforts seems to be "keep Murphree away from the Governor's chair."

News papers carry his message to the people filled with abuse and condemnation of Dennis Murphree.

The people wonder why. If Governor Conner, under the present constitution cannot succeed himself, why should he object to Murphree being our next Governor, unless it is for political reasons. Why not let those who aspire to this great honor fight their battles for them selves with the voters of Mississippi being the sole judge. Why should anyone, who has been honored with the high office as chief executive of our state, seek to dictate to the people as to whom we should elect or not elect?

Because of depressed conditions and high rates of taxation the average man, who in the days gone by, cared little for politics, now is looking with keen interest, our political situation squarely in the face.

The "wool" is not so easily pulled over the public eye as in days gone by.

Mississippians have not been asleep. They know what has taken place within the capital at Jackson. They know who has been a friend of the people and has stood for sound, constructive and democratic government.

All of the Governor's wrath that he has showered upon Murphree can not wipe from the official record in the state house, Murphree's stand for clean, democratic government. For his relentless fight to save the good name, the faith and credit of our state. For his defense of the elective system and his denounciation of Dictatorship.

The press has beaten a path to the Governor's mansion to receive "the copy" carefully prepared for the newspapers by Governor Conner and with which, he hopes to apply the brakes to Murphree's steady march to the high office that he himself so jealously holds today.

Such statements through the papers are falling upon deaf ears. The people themselves, will decide the issue.

Would that Mississippi had more statesmen like Dennis Murphree.

Shameful

The Brookings Institute's report on Mississippi that caused so much discussion throughout the state because of its recommendations as to changes that should be made in our state government has come into the spotlight again.

In Mississippi State, one of our institutions of higher learning, supported by the tax-payers and which should be free from any and all things that lead to politics has included the study of Brookings report to its list of studies.

Brookings, it is to be remembered, recommends among many things that the Board of Supervisors of each county should appoint the Chancery Clerk, Circuit Clerk, Sheriff and Tax Assessor in their respective counties.

Also, that the Attorney General should be vested with the power to appoint the 17 District Attorneys and all county attorneys throughout the state.

Again, that the office of State Superintendent of Education should be abolished and that the Governor should appoint a board of five and this board in turn should appoint each of the County Superintendents of education in each county.

The offices are not to be abolished, with the exception of one named above and another created with four more members, but will continue in force. The only result will be robbing the taxpayer of his right to select the officers to serve him and to turn it over into the hands of a few.

Yes, this is being taught to the young boys and girls of Mississippi, in an institution being supported by the voters and taxpayers of our state.

It was told to the writer that the Professor told his class that this kind of system should be put in force as it would save the taxpayers money. And when asked how, the reply was—it costs too much to hold elections.

A shameful act to put such teachings into the heads of our future men and women of our state.

Its a direct move towards the concentration of power which leads to Dictatorship.

It means the taking away of the voice of the people.

It means the death of the elective system (democracy) and the building up of a huge political machine through the medium of the appointment system.

If this is so, and we have every reason to believe it to be, not only is it seeking to place our schools further into politics at the expense of the taxpayer, but it is a shameful act.

Should there be a special session of the Legislature, this practice along with other things, should be investigated.

Better Homes Via The Better Housing Plan

Of the many plans offered by the United States Government for aiding the unemployed and the rehabilitation of the homes of the nation, The Better Housing Plan is an outstanding offer.

For 20c per day, our maximum cost, and with no tax on the increased valuation, the home receives more lasting benefits than we pay. Last but by no means least—we do our part in putting men to work.

The Government is spending billions to aid re-employment—surely we can spend the small sum of 20c per day.

The opportunity awaits the average Mississippi home to be shingled, or given a coat of paint, or to be repaired or repapered for $200.00 or less.

Under the better housing plan or with modernization loans made by our local banks on a personal note, the owners of homes may secure a loan of $100.00 for a three year period at a cost of only $3.20 per hundred per month. This includes interest and all charges.

Those concerns of our city offering lumber, roofing, paints, wall paper and other materials essential to repairing and remodeling our homes await the opportunity to explain the plan.

Meridian should join hands with the rest of the nation in this great recovery move.

REROOF, REMODEL, PAINT OUR HOMES NOW!

Over in York a few days ago, robbers secured the total sum of $11.00 when they robbed a railroad depot. Those yeggs must have been doing a long stretch in solitary confinement. These up-to-date birds would have chosen a bus station.

Stanford invites Alabama to Rose Bowl. Turns thumbs down on L. S. U. Then again can you blame them? They saw so much of Sinclair, they just couldn't afford to take a chance on Huey Long.

The Sheriffs would be ready to receive taxes, but the receipt books have not yet been recived from the printer, according to Sheriff Stephens. As far as we are concerned, we hope he never receives the books.

The two-year vacation "with pay" will soon be over as far as Uncle Sam is concerned. Unemployed men are to be put to work on projects such as building good roads, etc. When given the opportunity, we wonder just how many will will actually go to work.

"Pray-then-vote," states the Meridian Star, with reference to our next gubernatorial campaign. As far as we are concerned, that makes it unanimous. Let's hope and pray the majority of our citizens will vote against any man who is for a one-man dictatorship.

And, "Give us rest," also from the Star. Again the "Ayes" have it. Practically all of us are fed up on this Constitutional Convention stuff. Give us rest, is right.

The Insulls will attempt a come-back in the utility field, either here or in Greece. For the sake of the suckers in this country, let's hope they choose Greece.

Pat Harrison's recent political "fence-building" campaign throughout the state deserves the congratulations of his admirers.

It brought Pat a lot of publicity, which he thought was so necessary at this time.

For our part, we can't see why Pat should worry.

"Two years ago" states a news item, "the State of Mississippi was flat broke, but it's different now. By January, we'll have a surplus of a million dollars."

That's easy. Two years ago people of this state didn't "kick in" every time they ate a mouthful of food or bought a pair of sox. In other words, we didn't have the sales tax racket.

State Manager Wiley Blair, of the HOLC, has written a letter to all applicants to his department in which he says: "We sincerely regret that the present resources of the HOLC will be exhausted before we can handle your application." Just the exact status of the HOLC has not been determined as to what its future in regard to applications will be.

Although November is usually a quiet month corporation activities continue up to the standard in number, however, the organized capital was a little light, according to reports rendered during the month by Secretary of State

Petitions for closure of minor railway stations, and a few small telegraph offices of the Postal Telegraph Co., were considered. The docket contained a total of 26 cases to be heard, according to Secretary Williams.

And So They Were Married

After a lot of fuss about the nationality of her intended, Ellen Wilson McAdoo, nineteen-year-old daughter of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo of California, obtained her father's consent and was married to Rafael Lopez de Onate, screen actor and native of the Philippines. The happy couple is shown above.

Pirate Castle Is Now U. S. Hotel

WASHINGTON.—Another step in the government's program for reclamation of the Virgin Islands—once described by President Hoover as "America's poorhouse," is being taken.

Bids were opened Nov. 15 for operation of Bluebeard Castle, a hostelry so quaint it is expected to lure thousands of visitors to those fascinating Caribbean Islands.

Bluebeard Castle, ancient pirate fortification overlooking the magnificent harbor of St. Thomas, has been completely reconditioned with PWA funds. President Roosevelt visited it on his tour last summer.

Although the government has made Bluebeard Castle a thoroughly modern hotel, with baths for every room, architects have carefully preserved the charm of the old fortress. The architecture was planned to harmonize with the tower and with the exotic tropical scenery.

The bath rooms have been done in tile, but the floors of the bedrooms are laid with oak blocks set in concrete. A dining terrace overlooking the harbor is shaded by towering mahogany and palm trees.

The Winter temperature in the islands hovers between 70 and 80 degrees and the Summer temperature averages between 80 and 85, never rising above 91, with trade winds blowing constantly.

The hotel will be operated under regulations and control of Secretary of the Interior Ickes with respect to rates and the grade and character of the services rendered.

This, of course, is not the first time the government has been an overseer in the hotel business. There are U. S. controlled hostelries in the Canal Zone, national parks and in other possessions.

Chain Store Man Charges Swindle

MEMPHIS.—A "treasure island" story which Clarence Saunders says cost him $1,500 was brought to the attention of a Criminal Court here Monday.

After several weeks incarceration in the county jail, a 55-year old German, who says he is Dr. Armgaard Karl Graves, former German service agent and author of a number of books on international affairs, was called to trial to answer Saunder's accusation.

Saunders, widely-known chain store merchant, now merchandising a cleaning fluid, says the defendant obtained $1,500 from him to be used in an expedition to the coast of Haiti where Saunders says the defendant told him he would be able to dig up $3,000,000 in buried gold.

"Dr. Graves said the gold was buried by German naval officers during the war when they found their ship pressed by the allied," Saunders announced when he swore out a warrant which caused the defendant's arrest in Port Arthur, Texas.,

Throughout his confinement in jail here, Graves has insisted he would be able to clear himself when brought to trial. He has indicated what his defense will be to the charges of obtaining money by false representation.

Creditor Owning New Car Straw That Breaks Back

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—M. E. Snellgrove, Montgomery merchant has other ambitions in life than to make money, and a week ago sent notice to all his debtors who could not pay to "forget it."

Everything worked fine, and many of those who owed Mr. Snellgrove dropped by to shake his and tell their tales of woe.

But—one fellow who owed the kindly merchant more than $100 proved the straw that broke the proverbial camel's back when he appeared with a spanking new automobile.

All the other debts are cancelled Mr. Snellgrove said save the note for $100 has been turned over to an attorney for collection.

Ready To Wed 'Willie'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The interrupted romance of Wendy Barrie, youthful English actress, and Woolworth (she calls him "Willie") Donohue, equally youthful heir to many New York "five and ten-cent" millions, Monday was back in the air.

In the air and through the air, according to Miss Barrie, for she said "Willie" called her long distance Sunday night from his Long Island home and told he he was coming out to Hollywood.

"And I would marry him now if he was here—and he's coming out soon," said Wendy.

Donohue, a cousin of Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani, is but a few months older than Wendy's 22 years. She said she came to America two months ago to marry Donohue.

"Yes," she related, "his mother objected because of our youth, so I came on to Hollywood. I am to make a couple of pictures while I'm here."

Robinson Trail Blows Hot; Clue Given by Hikers

Nashville, Tenn.—The cold, month-old trail of the fugitive Tommy Robinson, Jr., Nashville youth who kidnaped Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville, Ky., society matron and successfully eluded the famed department of justice after collecting $50,000 ransom, blew hot today.

A telephone call from C. B. Faris, a resident of Donelson, Tenn., near here, put police and department of justice agents on the trail of the crackpot abductor.

Faris said he picked up two hitch-hikers Sunday who gave their names as Starling and Mary Knight of Huntsville, Ala.

The couple, Faris said, told him they and a youth they identified as Robinson "hooked" a ride Saturday on a truck at Elizabethtown, Ky., and rode to Franklin, Tenn., 20 miles south of Nashville.

They said he gave them a small bill to buy a sandwich at a Franklin restaurant.

Federal agents sought the banknote today in an effort to determine whether it was part of the Stoll ransom.

Police and federal agents immediately placed Robinson's home here under surveillance on the chance that the youth might return to see his family.

The boy's father, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., is under bond pending the outcome of an appeal from a federal court decision ordering his removal to Louisville to stand trial in connection with the kidnaping.

The largest airplane ever built in the United States, having room for 32 passengers and a wing spread of 114 feet, recently was completed at Bridgeport, Conn., the first of five designed for service between the United States and Argentina.

25 Per Cent Power Cut Jackson's Goal

City Attorney Morse for a greater cut. The commissioners also considered the availability of TVA power.

The 25 per cent slash, if ordered, will be based on a report of Burns & McDonnel, Kansas City engineers, showing that the company's property in Jackson, upon which they contend the rate should be based, to be $1,500,000, and excess profits of $183,000 last year on the basis of the present rates. The power company did not refute the valuation placed on its properties, nor did it offer a valuation based on a study of its engineers. The company contended that to break down the property to the Jackson limits would entail an expenditure of $250,000 and take about one year to complete.

Company officials contend that the rate should be based on the state-wide valuation.

In addition to the 12 per cent reduction in residential rates, the power company, through Harvey C. Couch, president, offered to work out a "promotional" rate, based on increased utilization, and which Mr. Couch estimated would save patrons approximately $250,000 annually.

Also tied into the power company offer is an agreement to substitute motor transportation on a wider basis for street cars, and a reduction of two cents in the 7-cent fare.

determined effort to modify the prohibition laws in the Legislature which meets in January.

"Let everyone who wants to hold our Alabama prohibition laws, and are opposed to the manufacture and sale of beer, wine and whiskey and all the rest come to this meeting," read the call sent out by Harry Denman, president of the alliance.

This call echoed while Governor B. M. Miller at Montgomery, a life-long prohibitionist, demanded that the state laws, openly and widely violated in the state since the repeal of national prohibition, be enforced.

Tests To Be Rigid For Government Mortgage Loans

ATLANTA, Ga.—To be eligible to participate in the government's plan of lending money for lifting the burden of home mortgages an institution must be unusually worthy and undergo a most rigid examination.

Whether a private institution is to be accepted by the government as a holder of loans insured by the federal act depends upon the capital, rating, and relationship with the United States treasury.

James A. Moffett, administrator of the National Housing Act, detailed the requirements shortly after conferring with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs just prior to the expected visit of Secretary of Interior Ickes over the week-end.

Selden Gilgore, two and one-half years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilgore of West Philadelphia, Pa., is a very unusual child. Members of the psychological clinic of the University of Pennsylvania pronounced him a "near genius" after tests gave him an I. Q. rating of 146.6.

Bilbo, Departing, Takes Final Shot At Senator Long

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 8.—The thoughts of Senator-Elect Theodore G. Bilbo ranged far and near in a press conference made on the eve of his departure on a leisurely automobile journey to Washington where he will be sworn in January 3 as the junior senator of Mississippi, succeeding Senator Hubert D. Stephens. His frank comments touched on Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana; soldiers' bonus, public works relief, cotton production control, prohibition and Tennessee Valley Authority with the probability of its early extension into Mississippi.

Senator Long, in the opinion of "The Man Bilbo," as the senator-elect refers to himself, will never trouble Mississippi by an invasion into this state to mix in its internal political wrangles.

An ax was resting on a dressing bureau in the bedroom converted into a reception room which Bilbo said he carried with him through his campaign to "clear away any obstacles which might block his highway."

"That is not a Huey Long ax," he commented. "After January 3 you are going to see some real chopping done."

'Hooey and Huey Same'

Bilbo said he was going to Washington early "to get a bird's-eye view of proposed legislation before Congress convenes."

"Pat Harrison is going to start hearings before the Senate finance committee in a few days, and I am going to sit in at the sessions and get some advance information," said Bilbo.

"Pat and I are pals and we will be coworkers and colleagues in Washington."

"Do you think Senator Long will come to Mississippi and support a candidate against Senator Harrison?" Bilbo was asked by one reporter.

"Mississippi will never have any trouble with Huey Long as long as the Mississippi river separates the two states," he promptly retorted.

"There shall be no crossing of that river—Hooey. Some people spell it Huey and others Hooey. It means the same thing."

The reason Senator Long had the Louisiana senatorial primary election set for January, in the opinion of Senator-Elect Bilbo, was to get the primary election out of the way to give Long more time in which to advance his candidacy for president of the United States, and not so that he can come into Mississippi, said he.

Long 'Has No Party

"Huey Long has got to start a third party. He has got himself out of the other two parties. He is at cross-purposes with the Roosevelt program, and he is not a Republican. He has no party, and he has got to start him one. Hooey."

Bilbo asserted that he is already at work on soldier bonus legislation, but he does not propose to introduce a bonus bill himself. Revenue-raising measures must originate in the House.

"I am going to scotch for it, build fences and pour high life on it. I think we are going to get the soldiers' bonus paid at the oncoming session."

Public Works

As for the public works program, Senator-Elect Bilbo said if the administration will give Mississippi funds for the Natchez Trace, highway paving and farm homesteads in amounts aggregating $175,000,000, he numerated, then "I will vote for every bill that comes along."

Senator-Elect Bilbo disclosed that he still has the limousine given to him when he was inaugurated governor in 1928, and that it is being taken to Washington along with the smaller car.

"I have had that limousine in storage all the time waiting to take it to the Senate wih me," he condeclared. "For myself, I shall continue to drive and ride in my Ford. The limousine is being taken along for my friends visiting Washington."

"But the salary of a senator does not let one afford a cheauffer,

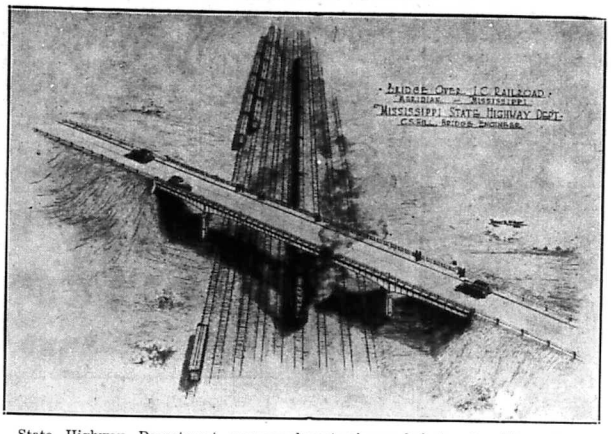
NEW OVERHEAD BRIDGE FOR AIRPORT ROAD



State Highway Department announced Tuesday afternoon that Pigford Bros., Russell, Mississippi, were the low bidders on a 320 foot steel and concrete bridge which will accomodate traffic on U. S. Highway 11, over nine I. C. railroad tracks on the outskirts of Meridian. The cost will be approximately $76,000.00. One hundred and fifty working days will be allowed to complete the work.

Upon acceptance of the bid by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, work will begin at once.

The bridge consists of a 320-foot cantilever plate girder span supported on concrete piers and abutments. The center span will be 190 feet crossing nine tracks while the anchor spans will be 65 feet in length. A 24-foot clear roadway width will be provided for vehicular traffic with a four foot sidewalk along one side for pedestrians. The contract calls for reinforced concrete floor and railing construction. Five girders are required to support the roadway while the sidewalk will be supported by means of brackets attached to one of the outside girders. Plans for the bridge were designed and prepared in the bridge department of the Mississippi Highway department under the direction of C. S. Hill, bridge engineer.

Nippon 'Regrets' Lack of Action in Arizona Attacks

TOKYO.—Japan "regrets" that the bombings and attacks against Japanese residents of the Salt river valley in Arizona have not been satisfactorily settled, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota told the House of Peers Tuesday.

Replying to interpellations by the peers, Hirota said:

"It is a delicate question, and we are relying upon Arizona authorities to solve it. We regret that it has not been satisfactorily settled, and especially that no one has been apprehended in the bombings and that no information has come from Washington as to who is responsible for the attacks.

"We have confidence, however, in American statesmanship, and we trust that Secretary of State Hull will move to end the difficulty amicably."

Conner Abandons Idea Ex. Session

JACKSON, Miss. — Abandonment of plans for an extra session of the Legislature was revealed Tuesday by legislators who conferred with Governor Conner.

Just how many votes the Governor lacks of having a majority has not been revealed, but the last official report—and the only one released—showed he needed 10 votes in the House and 5 in the Senate.

Among the legislators conferring with the governor was Rep. Sam Lumpkin of Tupelo, who in addition to discussing the appointment to be made Jan. 1 of a commissioner of state banks, is believed to have mentioned the convention to the governor. Mr. Lumpkin also announced that he would be a candidate next year for floater representative from Lee and Itawamba counties.

R. B. Clark, former Tupelo banker and also with the Federal Loan Bank until recently, is being mentioned for the bank post, as well as J. S. Love, incumbent commissioner, whose reappointment is indorsed by a large number of bankers. Another mentioned is Mayor J. P. Nanney of Tupelo, also president of the Bank of Tupelo.

Jimmie Wallington Marriage Beached

Jimmie Wallington, NBC announcer, who married Anita Furman, dancer, a few days after he received his divorce from Stanislawa Butkiewicz with whom he lived for a number of years has seemingly gone on the rocks. They were married in July and reports from reliable sources state the popular announcer and his bride now have separate addresses.

Hornet Broadcasts

BOSTON.—Patrolman Peter A. Di Sessa of Jamaica Plain, on duty in one of Boston's radio-equipped cruising cars, heard a buzz on his set that sounded like the dispatcher at headquarters about to broadcast a message. But no message came. Di Sessa reached up to put on more power. The buzzing stopped, but the patrolman got a sharp sting on his right hand. It was a hornet "broadcasting."

Biggest Victory In Dope War Won By Government

WASHINGTON. — The government's ruthless war against the dope traffic had won its greatest victory on a nationwide front.

Elated by success of the spectacular week-end raids against the evil, but appalled by miseries bared among addicts, Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger mapped a finish fight against the traffickers and announced a plan to rehabilitate their victims.

Final reports from 15 district headquarters throughout the Country showed 765 persons in custody, by far the largest roundup ever achieved in the dope war.

Among peddlers taken were forgers, counterfeiters, bank robbers and murderers, according to Deputy Commissioner Louis Ruppel. Among the dope victims held were 178 women.

Dope-crazed parents were revealed initiating their children as addicts. Peddlers, particularly in Cleveland, Ohio, were exposed as enticing children to use dope.

Anslinger said:

"We have dealt the traffic a crippling blow, but the fight is far from won. Our staff has proved itself efficient enough to cope with the dealers. The issue now is up to the courts. Dealers should be sent up for long prison terms and their victims sent to curative institutions."

Most victims, Anslinger hopes ultimately will go to the government's new curative farm at Lexington, Ky. That farm will not open, however until next March.

Meanwhile the commissioner hopes, to turn the cravings of victims to good purpose. With Major illicit sources of dope dried up, he believes they will aid authorities to keep it thus in exchange for drugs, medically administered.

Many Escape

While the narcotics bureau has a record of 99 per cent convictions, many repeater-offenders escape with probation, short jail sentences or parole when sentenced to longer terms.

Degradation of victims was exposed by a case at Narrows, Va., P. P. Lunkenhoker, 50 years old, arrested as a long-time addict and suspected peddler, confessed he recently had induced his 19-year-old son to share his habit and his

BONUS ISSUE IN NEW CONGRESS TO BE ROOSEVELT'S HARDEST TEST

Steps Being Taken for Compromise Bill to Avoid Showdown

WASHINGTON. — Faced with the job of helping the country along to better times, the 74th Congress — Roosevelt's own — comes into session January 3 anxious to do the president's bidding.

Looming today as the president's major test is the soldiers' bonus issue. Majority sentiment appeared to be for passing a bill cashing the $2,200,000,000 remaining on the adjusted compensation certificates.

The bill will sail through the House overwhelmingly. It is expected to be passed by the Senate by a close vote.

To avoid an outright showdown of the president's strength, steps are being taken for a compromise bill, which he will sign.

Suggestions were made that if the veterans will drop demands for a pension system immediately after the bonus is paid, the administration will support payment of the bonus.

On other legislative issues, President Roosevelt was believed to hold the whip-hand. A fight is brewing over monetary inflation—further devaluation of the dollar—remonetization of silver and taxes on federal and state bonds. Observers believe the president can force defeat of such measures or at least bring about compromises.

The new Congress appeared definitely set to revise the NRA. Major features of the permanent legislation probably will include:

1—Continuation of the code system.

2—Minimum-wage and maximum-hour authorization without specified limitations in the bill.

3—Authority to outlaw child labor by voluntary agreement in codes.

Labor Disputes Board

4—Permanent labor disputes adjustment board, with clarification of Section 7-A, prescribing don'ts for employers in their relations with employes so as to assure employes freedom in having representatives of their own choosing for collective bargaining.

Sweeping overhaul of the federal relief system is foreshadowed. Congressional leaders are determined to require auditing of relief expenditures and to place responsibility for distribution of the funds.

Revision of the tax law appears likely; though the outlook is for no general increase. Administrative changes designed to plug loopholes, and some shifting of current levies were believed likely.

Other issues are:

Banking—A red-hot fight over proposals for a Central Federal Bank is assured. Conservatives in the Democratic ranks are fighting such a proposal. There is a non-partisan drive for radical changes in the Federal Reserve Act under which the government would have power to regulate the flow of credit to private business.

Immigration—Measures to tighten the laws and facilitate deportation of alien Communists will have a large following.

Corporations Seek Results

Corporations — Proposals that corporations doing interstate commerce be required to obtain a federal charter are meeting wide support. Passage appears doubtful. Anxious to head off radical and

British Sending Vast Funds Over For Investment

LONDON.—Observers in the financial district of London report in the last few weeks a tremendous movement of British funds for investment to the United States.

This means the London financial world's confidence in America's future is restored and is dictated by the low prices at which American industrial stocks now are selling in proportion to dividend yields.

Some of the best American stocks now are being bought on the basis of 7 per cent dividend yields, while the British think 5 per cent would be ample and anything above that means a bargain.

Managers of the great investment trusts are reported to be sending millions of pounds sterling to America for investment and small investors also are keenly interested.

One investment broker said that while a month ago he had about three inquiries weekly for American stocks, now he is dealing in over 100 daily.

Decline Revealed In Unemployment

NEW YORK.—The total number of unemployed workers in October, 1934, was 9,604,000, according to an estimate today by the national industrial conference board. This is a decline of 345,000, or 3.5 per cent, from the preceding month and of 41,000, or 0.4 per cent from October, 1933.

The gain in employment from September to October, 1934, was principally due to the settlement of the textile strike. Cotton mills showed a net gain of 175,000.

Retail Centers Report Volume Above Last Year

NEW YORK.—Christmas buying in the retail stores of the country furnishes encouragement for this week in business and finance. Retail centers report business running 20 per cent and upwards ahead of a year ago for this season, which, if this volume holds for the balance of the Christmas buying period, will make this year the best since 1930 and 1929.

Christmas trade last year ran 35 to 40 per cent greater than in 1932, which would make this year's business at its present pace 70 per cent above the 1932 totals and well in excess of the 1931 December volume.

Yard To Broadcast True Murder Story

LONDON.—Scotland Yard is planning to broadcast by radio the full story of a recent murder, including details of their search for the slayer, in order to obtain public cooperation.

The slayer entered the store of a marine supply dealer and battered the aged man to death.

The crack British police organization proposes to stress what obstacles are hampering the apprehension of the slayer, hoping some information will be forthcoming which will lead to the murderer's arrest.

Widow Will Receive $100,000 For Gravel

SANCO, Mont.—Mrs. Charles Palm, a widow with nine children, "struck it rich" on her dry-land farm near here. Geologists seeking sand and gravel to be used in the gigantic Fort Peck dam found 1,000,000 cubic yards of it on the Palm homestead, the only available source of supply. Gravel contracts will bring her $100,000 during the next five years.

Phone Rate Cuts Predicted By Rice

JACKSON, Miss. — Attorney-General Greek L. Rice today predicted that telephone rates in Mississippi and other states soon would be reduced as much as 20 per cent by the "voluntary action" of telephone companies in an effort to satisfy the growing demand over the country for lower telephone rates.

The attorney-general is en route to Washington for another conference with officials of the Federal Communications Commission concerning the movement initiated by the Mississippi Railroad Commission for a reduction in telephone rates in this state.

Christmas Spirit

With only eleven more shopping days until Christmas, Meridian has "taken on" the ole time Christmas spirit.

Stores are crowded with eager shoppers. Mother and Dad with the kiddies have completely captured "Toyland" throughout the city. With dancing eyes and with outstretched arms "the little folks" are looking over old Santa's stock of toys. The rattle of the drum—the "pop" of the toy guns—the blast from a long red horn and the cry of the "mama doll" lets you know that it's pretty near time for old Saint Nick.

Confidentially, the writer was caught, red-handed, a few days ago standing in one of the "Toylands" amid drums and horns and all kinds of toys, forgetting that there was such a thing as a world with his thoughts buried in a big pretty book. It was "The Night Before Christmas."

Just can't help it folks. We were kids once, just like the kiddies of today and when it gets around to this time of the year—we plead guilty—we love to forget the present and go drifting back to our childhood days when Mother used to take us in her lap, before the open fire and every night just before Christmas, she's read every boy and girl's favorite;—

" 'Twas the night before Christmas
And all through the house
Not a creature was stirring
Not even a mouse—

But there's not a court in any land that would convict us for being a kid again, for you, dear reader, would be the jury and we're sure that story was one of your favorites too.

Yes, you and I, we are just over-grown boys and girls and remembering that "honest confession is good for the soul," we must admit "The Christmas spirit has got us."

Aubert Dunn

Aubert Dunn, Congressman-elect from the fifth Congressional District has gone to Washington to assume his new duties.

Aubert carries with him the best wishes of all his friends, those who cast their ballot for him and a large percentage of those who voted against him as well as his opponents in the firy congressional fight.

Aubert's past record is one of accomplishments and worthy of note. There is every reason to believe he will continue to serve his people in an unselfish manner and in a patriotic spirit.

Aubert is a firm believer in our President and his ideals. The only point of disagreement—Aubert believes in the immediate payment of the soldier's bonus. With this only exception our new congressman rides with Roosevelt 100 percent.

Aubert's platform was splendid. It voiced the sentiments of the people of this district. Aubert will live up to his promise—to support such a program in our national assembly.

Thousands join with us in wishing our native son and Congressman-elect Aubert Dunn, success and happiness as he assumes his new duties in the nation's capital. May he carve his name by meritorious deeds in the hearts of his fellow citizens and upon the pages of American history as a champion and a defender of Democratic Government and "The Forgotten Man" created by the Hoover administration.

Plan to Develop Industry In Dixie To Be Presented

NEW YORK.—Plans for development of the South, laid down recently by President Roosevelt, were ready today for presentation Monday at a meeting of governors of six states to organize an intensive drive to bring industry and tourist trade to that section of the country.

A meeting was held last night at the Engineers' Club to formulate plans for an intensive campaign to promote the states of Georgia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Alabama by the Southeastern development board, an organization formed along the line of the New England council.

Howard E. Coffin, chairman of the advisory council of the Southeastern development board and a leading industrial figure in the South, pointed out that the cotton industry, so long the livelihood of the South, was fast becoming obsolete due to the keen competition of foreign governments, and advocated the creation of new industries for the South.

Points to Resources

"For instance, slash pine soon will supplant the Canadian manufacturies in America in production of news print," he declared. "It has been ascertained definitely by chemists that the Southern pine is every bit as good, if not better, than that of Northern pine for newsprint."

He also revealed that scientists have discovered recently that this type of pine makes a better rayon silk than the celluse in common use today. Coffin also pointed out that the transportation of the South, both rail and highway, had been improved considerably in the past few years, as another indication of the advancement of that section of the country.

The board which was organized in Atlanta, Ga., November 19 to "sell the South to the nation," was advised by President Rsoevelt, who is greatly interested in that section of the country because of his part in the development of Warm Springs, Ga., to lay plans along the lines which would cooperated with the NRA.

Stabbed By Ghost

CALCUTTA.—A fisherman is in the hospital with a serious wound which he says was inflicted by a ghost. His wife and sister-in-law died a year ago and since then, he says, he has seen their phantoms flitting about the house. They have even spoken to him. One night the ghost of his sister-in-law appeared blew out the light, and then stabbed him in the neck. He is not expected to live.

When Cat's Away—

SEATTLE, Wash.—"When the cat's away the mice will play" is an adage that was brought forcibly home to Mrs. Margaret Ahrenstedt. Her cat went out for the evening recently, and mice in the grocery store she operates nibbled at a box of matches. The result—a fire that did about $200 damage.

Senator-Elect Bilbo announced the personnel of his official family in Washington. Mrs. Laura Wimberly, his private secretary when governor, will occupy that post for him in Washington. John L. Smith, former railroad commissioner, will be "research and contact" man; Miss Hilda Eakes of Union and Mrs. Virginia Simmerson of Tupelo, daughter of former Attorney-General George T. Mitchell, will also be in his office.

The offices of Senator-Elect Bilbo, occupying a three room suite in the Royal hotel on the third floor, are being dismantled, but there remained a large number of callers waiting at the doors for a chance to see the senator-elect. It has been that way every day he has been in Jackson since the election. And every one of them, going in the rotation in which they arrived on the scene, are getting in to see Bilbo.

inflationary forces in the next Congress, big business was determined today to make its new recovery drive show positive results within the next two months. Evidence of improving conditions will act as a powerful deterrent on further experimental legislation, industrial leaders pointed out. The chief constructive measure behind which business sentiment is lining up solidly is a thorough-going revision of NRA on a permanent basis to make its labor provisions more elastic and to reduce government supervision to a minimum.

U. S. Frogs Give Germany Leather

BERLIN. — Bullfrogs imported from Louisiana are being counted upon to aid Germany in its desperate fight to find substitutes for foreign goods.

If the Louisiana breed of frogs can be made to prosper and multiply in Germany's climate, this country hopes to raise enough of them to provide luxury leather for women's shoes which will compete with snake and lizard skin in quality.

One big frog farm has already been started at Meissendorf in lower Saxony. There the first batch of American frogs are being raised. If the experiment proves successful, other frog farms will be started.

460-Pound Meteorite Falls At Jonesboro

JONESBORO, Ark.—A meteorite weighing 460 pounds is being exhibited at the home of Herbert Songer, Jonesboro man, who saw the flaming body fall as he was walking along the railroad tracks toward his home.

The meteorite, a flaming ball of fire, apparently exploded before it struck the earth, with a loud noise. It was almost completely buried in the ground when found by Songer and the Rev. Charles Parker, Songer said he was going home from work when the meteorite suddenly appeared, dropping approximately 300 yards from him, narrowly missing the railroad tracks and telegraph wires northwest of the city.

The miner shot the wolf, dressed out the deer and sent in the wolf hide with a claim for the $20 state bounty.

HARD SURFACED ROAD TO SPAN NORTH AND SOUTH AMERICA

International Pacific H'way From Alaska To Buenos Aires

Engineering Forces Blazing Trail Over 12,000 Miles of 'Jungles and Mountain Passes.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The International Pacific Highway, once a fantastic dream will very shortly be a very solid reality. The highway on the northern end starts at Fairbanks, Alaska, crosses valleys and plains and mountains of the north Pacific coast of Canada, then through Washington, Oregon and California. Crossing into Mexico, the road follows the west coast line of that country into Guatemala Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Columbia, Ecuador, Peru, Chile and Argentina. In Argentina on the west coast the route passes through Valparaiso, then a hundred miles south to Santiago, thence across Argentina to Buenos Aires on the Atlantic coast, a total distance of more than 12,000 miles and taking from 30 to 60 days to travel, depending upon the time spent at the various places enroute for sightseeing.

From Snow to Tropical Heat and Back Into Snow Again

In climate, the road travels from the sub-Arctic snows of central Alaska through the (sometimes) temperate Canada and our own far west, through the equatorial tropics of Central America, to the snows of the high Andes. One end of the highway never enjoys the same season as the other; while Alaska has winter, the Argentine has summer — and vice versa.

Plenty of Scenery

In scenery, the Highway covers a range as wide as the climate; a bewildering assortment of mountains, deserts, jungles and plains; the Rockies, the formidable Barrancas of Mexico, the Darien Mountains of Panama, the volcanoes of Guatemala, the nitrate deserts of Chile, the jungles of the equatorial countries, and of course the mighty Andes—to name only the obvious features.

Is An Engineering Feat

It goes without saying that from an engineering standpoint, the Highway ranks with the most difficult projects ever undertaken. Taylor W. Gannett, U. S. Vice-Consul at Guayaquil, describes the Andes traversing Ecuador as "a ladder running north and south, two continuous ranges forming the sides and smaller parallel ranges running east and west forming the rungs" . . . a highway engineer's inferno! Yet pioneer parties are driving the Highway through—at altitudes which here and there reach 10,000 feet. It also goes without saying that the Highway when it is first opened to tourists

Goth'm Poor Unfed While Food Spoils

New York.—Inefficiency and the shifting of responsibility between the department of public welfare of the city and the TERA, a state agency, has resulted in the freezing of enough potatoes to feed the population of the city for a day—1,400,000 pounds—and the flooding of the city with 9,000,000 potnds of cabbage, 11,000,000 pounds of veal and 500,000 can of roast beef, little of which is reaching relief clients because of red tape and delay.

The foodstuffs were shipped to the TERA by the FERA, federal organization.

The impasse was discovered by the aldermanic investigating committee today, and the fact disclosed so shocked Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutsch that he shouted, "This investigation has only just started!"

The climax came when Carl Anderson of the department of public welfare, revealed that the TERA was shipping such quantities of food into the city that he refused to take responsibility for its storage or distribution as it was "not my property."

Big Corporations To Spend Billion In Improvements

New York.—The nation's great corporations will spend a billion dollars next year in long-delayed capital improvements to speed 'recovery, Federal Housing Administrator James A. Moffett announced Tuesday.

The steel, automobile, oil and communications industries are leading the way, Moffett said. The heavy spending is to be done in connection with the government's housing program.

The housing administrator asserted the United States Steel Corporation would devote $40,000,000 to replacements and modernization, treble the amount expended in 1934.

The automobile industry, exclusive of Henry Ford, he added, would spend $50,000,000, and Mr. Ford himself $20,000,000.

Moffett announced that American Telephone & Telegraph had decided to appropriate $200,000,000 in repairs and betterments and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had set aside between $67,000,000 and $73,000,000.

In an address here, the housing administrator announced five million new homes are needed by the nation and 29,000,000 old ones must be renovated.

Village Seized By Bandit Gang In Bank Robbery

Norwalk, Ohio.—A gang of bandits, believed to number at least 11, took over the village of North Fairfield for more than two hours today and staged Ohio's third bank robbery in three days.

The robbers obtained $2,000 in cash from the vault of the North Fairfield Savings Bank Company.

The 800 residents of the community were terrorized by the gang which isolated the village by cutting telephone and telegraph wires. They also plunged the town into total darkness by cutting all street light cables. Then they cooly proceeded to hang barn doors, taken from a farm outside the village, over the front windows of the bank.

Seven dynamite blasts were set off by the robbers to force open the safe.

They left about 4:30 a. m.

One of the bandits, posted as a lookout outside the bank, promptly opened fire whenever a resident ventured outside.

The bank safe was wrecked by the blasts. The robbery was the third at the bank in two years.

A few days ago a gang of bandits isolated the village of Adelphia, in Ross county, in much the same manner as that used at North Fairfield today and escaped with $500.

The following day bandits staged a "waiting hold-up" of the State Savings Bank at Woodville, Sandusky county, locking two bank employes in the vaults and escaping with loot of $10,000.

Soviets Propose Luxury Cars, Rare Fruits For All

Moscow.—Signs of the times in Soviet Russia:

A style show, with mannequins.

Construction of hot-houses for growth of rare fruits for the luxury trade.

A decree ordering all officers in the Red Army to learn to dance.

Limousine or sedan-model cars for the comrades.

The Soviet comrade, instead of bouncing over the roads in farm carts or open cars of uncertain vintage, now is to have his limousine, like any bourgeois.

It will have the sleek lines and deep upholstery of modern imported models. And, in case the tired working man has a taste for speed, it will develop 50 miles an hour.

The first of the limousines has just been turned out at the Gorki automobile plant.

The description of the bandits was given as follows:

One, 25 years of age, dark hair, 5 feet 9 inches tall, wearing a grey overcoat, light hat. The other wearing a blue overcoat, 24 years of age, and also with dark hair and the same height. The woman was described as being 24 or 25 years of age, wearing a blue coat, small black hat. Rough looking with no paint or powder on her face. They were driving a two-door Chevrolet coach painted brown. The speedometer showed mileage of 90,000. The car had a Missouri license tag. Rip Collins, desk sergeant immediately placed officers on the highways leading into the city from the north and west.

Further Action In Long-Overton Inquiry Expected

Washington.—After having discussed the political situation in Louisiana with a number of members of the Senate, Mrs. Hilda Phelps, Hammond, chairman of the women's committee of Louisiana, is convinced that further consideration will be given the charges filed by the women's committee against Senators Long and Overton. Mrs. Hammond finds that each senator upon whom she calls has many questions to ask concerning the Louisiana situation.

Mrs. Hammond finds that interest in charges has been increased by the fact that Senator Long has come into greater national notice and because senators have been receiving so many letters from their own constituents urging that consideration be given the charges of the women's committee.

Boy Watches Police Drag River for Him

Boston.—An interested spectator at dragging operations in Muddy river today for the body of 6-year-old William Cossaboom, Jr., missing since last night, proved to be little William himself.

The boy was sighted by a chum as he stood in the crowd watching police drag for his body.

Daughter of A. Dravin Struck By Automobile

Dorothy Rose Dravin, eight year old daughter of A. Dravin, proprietor of Dravin's Clothing Store, was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon on eighth street between 24th and 25th aves., reported to have been driven by a Miss Harrington and who was said to be employed by the Liberty Shop.

The injured child was carried to the Meridian Sanitarium and upon examination was found to have received a broken leg.

Full particulars regarding the accident could not be obtained.

Roosevelt Receives Demand for Bonus

WASHINGTON.—The American Legion Legislative program was laid before President Roosevelt today.

Embracing a demand for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, a universal draft law and other proposals, the legion program was brought to the White House by its national commander, Frank N. Belgrano.

The legion chief refused to comment on his conference with the president except to say that he brought the legislative demands of his men to the White House.

He spent about 15 minutes with President Roosevelt. After he left the White House he said he planned to leave immediately for San Francisco, his home, to spend the holidays.

AGAINST BONUS

WASHINGTON.—The National Economy League pressed a campaign against immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus Monday while leaders of the veterans' bloc predicted the measure would receive more than two-thirds majority.

Henry H. Curran, director of the league, sent a letter to members of Congress, saying immediate payment would cost $2,000,000,000. Declaring the bonus is not yet due, he asked what the members would think if "holders of $28,000,000,000 worth of government bonds now outstanding" should demand payment "right away."

"Would this impress you as a fair demand?" he asked.

On the other hand, supporters of the bonus proposal, stuck to their contention that the government should pay the money. Representative Wright Patman (D., Tex.) whose bill provides payment by issuing treasury notes, said no new taxes would be needed.

"At least 300 House members and 70 senators are pledged to vote for cash payment," he said.

"JAFSIE" DOUBTS IF HAUPTMANN CAN BE CONVICTED OF MURDER

'Lindbergh Line' Will Be Dissolved Like Air Express

New York. — Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., known as the Lindbergh Line and the oldest cross-country air line, will dissolve stockholders were notified today. The action is in compliance with the 1934 Mail Act and follows a similar liquidation by Western Air Express Corporation.

Transcontinental Air owns 47 per cent of the new Transcontinental & Western Air Inc., the company to result from the proposed merger of the present company with T. W. A., Inc., and formed to bid on mail contracts from Los Angeles to New York. A similar interest was held by Western Air.

The holdings in the mail line will be distributed by Transcontinental Air to its stockholders, at the ratio of two shares of the New merged company to five shares of T. A. T. now held. The proposal will be voted on December 31, and the new T. W. A. stock will be listed on either the New York Stock Exchange or the curb exchange, it was declared. In addition to the stock distribution, stockholders will receive a small amount of cash, the letter declared.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has been technical adviser to T. A. T., since 1929, following his epochal flight to France the year before.

Bilbo Impresses Capital As Shy

WASHINGTON. — Theodore G. Bilbo, senator-elect from Mississippi, may "raise more hell than Huey Long" eventually, but thus far the capital has found him a modest, shy and retiring man.

He arrived in Washington last week. Newspapermen along the route had no difficulty in seeing Bilbo or hearing his flivver. But once in town, the "Stormy Petrel" became almost as hard to find as a cabinet member's unlisted telephone.

Citizens have caught a couple of glimpses of a red necktie, fronted by a diamond horseshoe stickpin, and have decided that it was the man who staged a big meeting all his own in Mississippi last summer—but they weren't sure. The very few who have talked to him report that Bilbo had little to say and he said it in few and dignified words.

Bilbo visited Washington shortly after his election and he proved an elusive man on that occasion also. But the rumor that he was held a prisoner in Senator Pat Harrison's office proved false. He and Senator Harrison visited the White House and the senator-elect issued a statement that he would support the president.

But there does seem to be substance to the report that the senior senator from Mississippi has been acting as Bilbo's advisor. It has been possible, for example, to reach the senator-elect—after involved negotiations—through Harrison's office.

Those close to Bilbo aver that one thing is certain—he does not plan to pattern his Senate career on that of Senator Huey Long. Bilbo does not like the Louisiana solon and one of the surest and quickest ways to rouse the small and wiry Mississippian is to compare him to Long.

Red Tape Ties Up Relief Coal in N. Y. As Jobless Shiver

NEW YORK.—An amazing story of municipal red tape which hamstrung the delivery of 200,000 tons of coal to the city's shivering needy and finally forced an emergency purchase at an extra premium of $1.53 to $1.78 per ton last November 21 was revealed today to an irate committee of aldermen investigating relief.

Already enraged by the disclosure that 1,400,000 pounds of

Evidence Lacking — Declares Who Put Up Ransom

MIAMI, Fla. — A sensational statement by Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon, who paid the $50,000 ransom in a Bronx cemetery to the kidnaper of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., in April, 1932, put a new aspect on the case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, carpenter accused of the baby's murder.

Condon, who is here on a mysterious investigation in connection with the Lindbergh case, said:

"I do not believe Hauptmann can be convicted on the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby."

Blow to Prosecution

This statement by a man who has been expected to be a star witness against Hauptmann was considered a severe blow to the prosecution. Condon not only will be called upon to try to identify Hauptmann as the man to whom he paid the money, but will be called upon for other valuable evidence at the trial. He has never publicly stated whether or not he recognized Hauptmann, and tonight's statement is considered by many as an indication that the case against Hauptmann is not so strong as has been supposed.

Condon, who has been on the "inside" of the investigation from beginning, is convinced, however, that Hauptmann could have been convicted in the Bronx on the charge of extorting the ransom money.

None Saw Killing

He said:

"No one saw Hauptmann kill the Lindbergh baby. I don't think they can convict him of the murder on the evidence they have."

In Palm Beach, Condon said, he had been in contact with a man whose name he had refused to reveal. He said he had received many letters dealing with the Lindbergh case, and that he was continuing his investigation.

It is known that he is sure Hauptmann, if he was involved in the extortion, was not the only person in the kidnap plot.

Lingbergh Armed Whenever Away From Residence

FLEMINGTON, N. J.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh now carries a revolver at all times when he is away from home, it was reported here tonight.

Police officials, completing plans for guarding Bruno Richard Hauptmann during his trial here for the murder of Colonel Lindbergh's son, said Colonel Lindbergh will be the only armed civilian allowed to enter the Flemington courthouse during the trial.

Searches Planned

All other spectators will be searched carefully before they enter the courtroom to insure against the possibilities of an escape plot or violence against the prisoner.

A heavy guard, including state troopers, special deputy sheriffs and Flemington's one-man police department, will be established around the courthouse and jail when the trial begins January 2.

At the same time new traffic regulations will be put into effect, eliminating parking in the vicinity of the courthouse. A reserve squad of troopers will be on duty day and night at a near-by barracks.

Gang Imprisons Woman, Carries Off 1000 Turkeys

VAN NUYS, Cal.—Terrorizing and imprisoning Mrs. Betty Logue in a closet, and beating and kidnaping Fred Gildner, watchman on Mrs. Logue's turkey ranch here, an armed gang, after devoting seven hours to loading the stolen birds yesterday fled with more than 1000 turkeys.

The robbers worked systematically, loading the birds into a truck. The loading completed, they threw Gildner into the vehicle and rumbled away.

9 To 1 In Favor of The Bankhead Act

Mississippi again leads the way to better times. With a total vote of 200,913 infavor of compulsory control of cotton production to aid in keeping their chief crop within bounds to only 6,503 votes against the measure, the farmers of the Magnolia state, not only have lead the other southern states in the support of the bill designed to bring about better times for the south, but have shown their willingness to cooperate in almost every detail with the New Deal era.

Lauderdale county was no slacker. The farmers of this county cast a ballot of 2,559 for continuance while only 39 votes were recorded adversely.

The Bankhead Act may not save the south. It may not save the farmers of the hill country. However we do know this to be true—After the enforcement of the measure the price of cotton has stood above 12 cents per pound instead of 5 or 6 cents. We do know that most all farmers in the hills are forced to use, at least a reasonable amount of fertilizer and all agree that it is better not to raise any cotton at all if the cost of production is higher than the amount received for the product.

With the promised revisions and corrections to be made in the Bankhead Act in order to do justice to the small producer.—The South is beginning to see a new day.

A 9 to 1 vote shows confidence in our leaders and a willingness to cooperate in a national effort to break the back of the depression and a firm belief that the south is coming into her own.

As the farmer prospers—so prospers the south.

Governor Conner will make some more reports. That won't worry anyone except a few Colonels and his appointees. The rest of us won't have to listen to him.

The Dallas News says "Hooie Long has made a foot-bailer a Senator, but he hasn't yet made a statesman out of a windbag." As far as that goes, show us a so-called statesman that is anything but a windbag.

G. W. (Bill) Hosey, Laurel's mayor will be a candidate for the Attorney General's office. With the assistance of the Power Company, Bill slid into the Mayor's office with ease, but, he'll find the path to the Attorney General's office mighty hard sledding.

Huey Long says he fell out with the President. That's another one in Roosevelt's favor.

We may have to bury quite a few solons before long. The Governor states he has called a ten day truce and it looks like he might even send them a Xmas present or a greeting card. If this happens, we know some of the legislators will drop dead.

J. C. Holton and Senator Bilbo occupied the same room in a Nashville Hotel recently. Now we are convinced of this fact; Holton does not walk in his sleep.

The Du ponts made nearly 4000 per cent profit on war time operation of Old Hickory Plant. "Our reward is an un-ending investigation and being held up to ridicule. These things cannot be quickly forgotten," states Irenee Du pont. The gentleman from Delaware is right—these things will never be forgotten—by the American people.

We have just discovered the modern Rip-Van-Winkle. Governor Miller of Alabama says liquor is being sold all over that state.

The Roumanian people are about to get into a war over Mme. Magda Lupescu. The old gal must have "it."

Uncle Sam has entered suit against some of Huey Long's henchmen for evading the income tax. As we see it, all the Government is asking that bunch to do is, "share our wealth."

We overheard a conversation between two gentlemen on the street a few days ago.

Gent No. 1: I see where the Governor is going to run for the Senate.

Gent No. 2: You are wrong. Mike Conner isn't going to run, he's just going to come out.

Capital Activities

By WALKER WOOD
Secretary of State

The Mississippi Rural Rehabilitation Corporation filed its charter in the office of Secretary of State Walker Wood, on December 7th. This corporation, composed of incorporations who are connected with the E. R. A., F. E. R. A., and A. A. A., gives as its purpose "to rehabilitate individuals and families on the soil and in coordinating industries by making it possible for such deserving persons who are financially unable to provide such means for themselves to lease, purchase and own suitable lands and living quarters; to own necessary live-stock, cattle and farming equipment and to be provided with the necessary furnishings and supplies to enable such persons to derive a livelihood from the soil; as well as to assist them to gain a livelihood in coordinating and affiliated industries."

Dr. Felix J. Underwood, executive officer of the Mississippi State Board of Health, states there have been 40,000 deaths in the past 20 years in Mississippi; 2798 reported deaths in 1918; toll reduced more than one-half by 1933, yet 1314 deaths in 1933. He states there are 13,140 estimated cases in the State now, and that 25 people are dying in our state every week from this disease. Buy tubercular seals now, and help combat the ravages of this disease.

Walter Lee, Tax Asessor of Hinds County, was re-elected president of the Mississippi Association of County Tax Assessors at their annual session just closed. H. D. Boutwell, of Jones County, was elected vice-president, and W. Y. Brame of Lauderdale county was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

Governor Sennett Conner addressed the annual meeting of the county agricultural and home economics agents at the State College last week.

The statement of Hon. Alf Stone, chairman of the State Tax Commission, issued on December 12th, 1934, shows that there has been collected from all nine sources under his supervision from January 1, 1934 up to December 12, $6,166,055.13, as compared with $4,531,313.92 for 1933. The increase from all sources for 1934 over 1933, is $1,634,741.21.

Division "A", State Supreme Court, ended last Monday its final session of 1934. December 17, Division "B" will hold its last session of the year. January 7th, both divisions will resume their hearings, and on January 22, the court will take up the criminal docket.

The fact was brought out at the county and home demonstration agents meeting last week at State College, that the cotton adjustment program had added more than $100,000,000.00 to the cash incomes of Mississippi cotton producers during the past two years. It was cited that the price of cotton has been raised from 5½c per pound in 1932 to 18c per pound in 1934, and cotton-seed was raised from $11.50 per ton in 1932 to $35.00 per ton in 1934.

Mississippi has consistently maintained a health record that has kept her over a period of years listed among the chosen two or three that lead all the rest.

The late James K. Vardaman was the first executive to be inaugurated in Mississippi's new capitol building.

During Mississippi's territorial days, from 1798 to 1817, four governors served the State. They were Winthrop Sargent, William C. C. Claiborne, Robert Williams and David Holmes.

Mississippi's public eating places do only 2 per cent of the total retail business of the State.

A patent has been granted to a Louisiana man for an automobile motor having a new cycle of operation which its inventor claims reduces fuel consumption 50 per cent.

Yule-tide Family Reunions by Telephone

Families and friends become scattered with the years and we miss their smiling faces and cheery voices—more especially at Christmas time. Probably you are wishing now that you could visit them this Christmas. Why not? Are they too far away? You can't get away? Or is it that it costs too much? Then why not surprise them this holiday season with a telephone visit instead? You can reach them anywhere by telephone. Distance doesn't matter.

A voice visit by telephone, you will find, has the personal charm of a face-to-face visit, is convenient and costs little wherever you call. For example, by using Station-to-Station service you can talk with folks fifty miles away for about 35c, and a hundred miles for around 55c, and greater or less distances at correspondingly low cost.

If you can't go in person, go by telephone.

"On The Farm"

By Henry Hodge, Jr.

Lauderdale county is showing marked improvements since the introduction of the Soil Erosion work. According to latest figures this year 169 local farmers have planted winter crops while in 1933 the reports show only 43. In the Okatibbee water shed where this work is being carried on there are 2,000 farmers and total acreage of 155,000 acres.

If this splendid work could be spread over the entire county it would mean the salvation to the dirt farmer and many dollars for the Meridian trade area.

According to O. N. Clark, Agricultural teacher for Dixie Highway, the farmers are fast preparing for spring planting. They are breaking ground for the valuable corn, cotton and potatoe crops. Crops that bring in the money that is so much needed on the farm. This community is nearly a one variety crop—cotton.

Last Friday, the day the farmers voted on the continuance or discontinuance of the Bankhead act, I was talking with one of Lauderdale county's prominent citizens and farmers. He was an elderly man with sound judgment. When asked what he thought of the Act, he replied "The Bankhead Act is the best thing that has happened to the south and the salvation for the poor man." Continuing he said, "I am wondering how the farmers will vote. It is very seldom the little man gets a chance to express himself on a farm question and I am wondering if they will vote right."

Well, this time the "little man" got his chance to express his opinion and took advantage of the opportunity. The Bankhead Act was approved by a 9 to 1 margin.

Hard Surfaced Road to Span N. and S. America

will not be a 12,000 miles stretch of unbroken concrete. On the contrary. Many thousands of miles of it will be the simplest type, a well-drained and adequately-surfaced roadway, safe and in the dry seasons easy to drive, but totally innocent of paving.

In many places the Highway traverses roads first laid down by Incas, Aztecs, Portuguese, Spaniards; in more than one its uses the roads that first bore the traffic of the ancient Mayas. The entire route, in fact, is rich in historical interest. As the traveler from the States rolls down the Pacific his track will cross again and again the tracks of the Conquistadores, the trails of the Incas gold-laden llama-trains; the cities on his route will include some of the oldest on the Continent; the ruins beside the way will record the history of civilizations thousands of years old.

In Mexico alone there are scenic, historical and other attractions which promise to make that country a favorite vacation land. Formerly almost as inaccessible as Thibet, Mexico will shortly be as easy to visit as many sections of the United States; within a year, according to the engineers. Entering the country at TiaJuana or Nogales, Sonora, the International Highway proceeds along the historic west coast to Mazatlon, then to Tepic and over the Barrancas to Guadalajara and Mexico City. There the tourist may leave the Highway and make his way back to the States straight northward to Laredo, Texas, over another new highway that rivals the Merican sections of the International Highway in interest if not as an exhibition of miraculous highway engineering.

The Belgian government has decided to place all roads in that country in good condition within five or six years at an expenditure of more than 300,000,000 francs annually.

potatoes were allowed to spoil and 11,000,000 pounds of veal remain untouched in a city warehouse for lack of men to cut it, the aldermen listened with mounting ire to the excuses of Russell Forbes, commissioner of purchase.

The nondistribution of the coal was due to delay in the construction of coal yards to hold it, and the delay in construction was due to the slavish following of city regulations by which requisitions for purchases and construction go on a snail's tour from office to office, Forbes said.

In the case of the coal, the city let bids which allowed an average of $9.47 a ton. This fuel was to be delivered in bags on the basis of 3000 tons a week to Manhattan; 3800 tons a week to Brooklyn; 1000 tons a week to Queens; 1200 tons a week to the Bronx, and 200 tons a week to Richmond.

The coal yards, however, were not ready. Contracts for these yards originated in the food and clothing bureau on November 15, but they did not finish their tour at Forbes' office until November 28, and at the end of November only nine yards were completed, Forbes said. In some of them the necessary equipment still was lacking.

Meanwhile, on November 21, when the fold forced action, the emergency relief bureau was forced to buy coal in bags from local dealers at a price varying from $11 to $11.25.

The dealers, Forbes said, complained that their trucks were loaded but no order to deliver had come through. The East New York Coal Company, he added, cancelled its contract for this reason.

Happy Christmas For U. S. Seen By Secretary Roper

Washington.—Beaming over the latest batch of business statistics, Secretary of Commerce Roper, foresaw a more bountiful Christmas this year for all Americans and a prosperous trade season for retail business.

These reports showed:

Factory pay rolls up 31.4 per cent for the first ten months of 1934 over 1933.

Farm cash income of $6,000,000,000, a gain of almost one billion over last year.

A hoard of $360,000,000 to be distributed by 6000 banks to eight million members of Christmas savings clubs.

Estimated 1934 income of $1,100,000,000 in the drouth region, whose previous highest annual income was $865,000,000.

Cold figures alone do not reflect the significance of the better Christmas spirit, Roper declared. He cited a growing spirit of understanding among English-speaking peoples, promising leadership for world peace and increased foreign trade.

He said:

"While other peoples may become excited by international troubles, the English-speaking peoples have become philosophical. In England, Australia, New Zealand and the United States, there is a vision of the necessity for international cooperation. With that vision will come a new spirit of understanding for the future."

Bear Shoots Itself

Helsingfors.—A bear shot itself dead at Kuusamo, Northeast Finland. Because his traps were continually being raided, a Kuusamo trapper fixed a loaded gun to a trap and connected the trigger to one of his traps with a cord. The next day he found a large bear lying by the trap. It had been shot dead.

What is said to be the smallest passenger carrying railway in Europe, having a track guage of only nine and a half inches, has been constructed in an English town.

Hauptmann Calm As Hearing Nears On Death Charge

FLEMINGTON, N. J. — His trial on the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby less than a fortnight away, Bruno Richard Hauptmann is awaiting the ordeal with the same phlegmatic his attitude since his arrest.

He is showing no signs of "breaking." He is manifesting a cool, detached interest in the forthcoming trial. Indications are that when he is escorted into the Hunterdon county court room here on January 2 for trial he will be ready to stage a desperate fight to escape the electric chair.

Santa Claus Gives 'Stone Boy' Watch

LARKSVILLE, Pa.—The medical world has no Santa Claus able to give a lease or life to Benny Hendricks, 9-year-old "stone boy" gradually dying of ossification, but much was done today to make memorable what may be the little fellow's last yuletide.

During the past week Benny has been receiving gifts from sympathetic friends in distant places.

Today his mother took him in to Wilkes-Barre. A portly department store Saint Nick pressed a real time-keeping watch into Benny's hand. The boy exclaimed: "Gosh, Now I know for sure there is a Santa Claus."

Tonight Benny sat in his home displaying his many gifts to Larksville playmates.

Rockfeller, Sr., To Omit Gayety

ORMOND BEACH, Fla.—More than ever shut away from the world, John D. Rockfeller, Sr., probably will celebrate the Yuletide this year in quiet seclusion.

No more does the 95-year-old philanthropist invite his friends to an annual Christmas party, where the singing of familiar hymns, the exchanging of gifts, the mammoth Christmas tree, even old Santa in person, and the laughter of happy children at play, held sway in years gone by.

Mr. Rockfeller has given up golf entirely. Last year he did not once set foot on the Ormond course and this year likely will be the same.

He has received occasional visitors this winter and probably will continue to have friends drop in for brief chats as the season progresses.

Russia and Manchukuo War Looming

Invasion by Soldiers Preceded by Reconnoitering Airplanes; Tension Is At High Point

HARBIN, Manchukuo.—Invasion of Manchukuo by 100 Soviet Russian troops, preceded by reconnoitering planes, was reported Sunday in dispatches from Tungning, Manchukuoan outpost on the Siberian border.

A clash between the Russians and Japanese-trained Manchukuoan forces, rushed into the area to cover their advance, was feared imminent.

The Russian incursion brought to a high point tension existing since Soviet forces occupied and fortified a barren, sandy island in the Wuda river this summer.

The Wuda is a tributary of the great Amir, that is the northern border between Manchukuo and Siberia. During the summer floods it changed its course and the island appeared.

Occupy Island

Russian forces occupied the island on Moscow's contention it was Soviet territory. Manchukuo contested the claim but the Russians acted first.

Today's reported advance thrust the spearpoint of the Soviet occupation further into Manchukuo. An apparently worthless river island tonight loomed as a possible cause for war.

Russian forces have constructed a garison on the island. They have also thrown up a "pill box" fort.

The Manchukuo commander of the Tungning border sector protested to the Soviet commander at Khabarovsk.

The Soviet commander replied bluntly that the island was Soviet territory. Thereupon, the Manchukuoan forces occupied the winding river banks facing the island to cut off the garrison's communication with Soviet territory.

Reds Retaliate

The Soviets retaliated by bringing up troops from Nikoisk. Russian airplanes were sent on reconnoitering flights into Manchukuo. Some penetrated as far as seven miles.

Tungning is the key to the western end of the valley which slopes eastward across Manchukuoan and Siberian territory to the sea at Vladivostok, Soviet Russia's one adequate Pacific port and the most important city in Eastern Siberia.

Japan Watching America

TOYKO. — Press attacks on American aggression" in the Pacific, coincident with abrogation, reached their peak today with a blast in the magazine Hinode warning that Japan would build up a fleet "capable of defeating America."

"America wrested Hawaii away from its queen, then took the Phillippines as a stepping-stone for convenience of her aggressive Far-Eastern policy," Shinsaku Hitata, naval critic well known in Japan, wrote.

"The United States possesses a navy built for carrying out a firm policy," he said.

"Japan must prevent a Pacific invasion by the United States."

The American navy, according to the writer, in practicing long-distance operations, apparently is preparing for action.

"Naval authorties in Washington are closely studying naval bases in the Pacific, especially in Alaska and Aleutian islands, in contemplation of operations in the North Pacific in the event of war with Japan.

Threat Is Seen

"America's aggressiveness threatens Far-Eastern peace. Japan must take the lead in next year's naval conference in an endeavor to weaken the American navy's demands and prevent long-distance operations, which are dangerous and likely to provoke war between America and Japan.

"Until the United States reduces her naval strength, Japan must continue on the alert for an attack from America."

Policing rights in the Far East, belong to Japan.

"Japan will build ships suitable for her requirements, and strong enough to defeat America."

"Japan will fight gallantly to save her mandates in the South Sea Islands, which certain ambitious European statesman wish to take away from her.

"Peace in the Pacific, he concluded, depends on America's relavation of her aggressive naval program program."

King and Queen of Dance Starred In 'The Gay Divorcee'

Many motion picture casts have boasted peers—even a Duke or so—but RKO-Radio goes them all two better by co-starring a King and Queen in the musical comedy, "The Gay Divorcee," at the Temple Theatre Monday night at 11:30 P. M., and also Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, the stars, were recently crowned by public acclaim, as the "King and Queen of Carioca" because of their interpretation of the fiery, exciting dance in "Flying Down to Rio."

In "The Gay Divorcee" the great Terpsichorean pair present two grand new dances, one called "Day and Night," originated by Astaire and called "the dance of moods"; another, the hit of the show, called "The Continental."

The latter creation, staged by Dave Gould, who staged the "Carioca" in "Flying Down to Rio," has already become the rage with movie folks, who call it "The Joy Dance" because it is said to combine beauty and sport, and is also well within the capabilities of young and old.

Music and lyrics for "The Continental" are the work of Con Conrad and Herb Magidson, authors of the current novelty song, "Yes, Sir, I Love Your Daughter." Conrad wrote "Champagne Waltz."

The play, a brisk and rollicking comedy built around a 100-mile-an-hour romance involving Astaire, Miss Rogers, Alice Brady and Edward Everett Horton, was adapted for the screen from the stage play which ran a full season in New York and another six months in London, starring Astaire.

Doing Damage To Livestock

TOOMSUBA, Miss. — It has been reported that a very "brave person or persons," in this section of Lauderdale county, has been killing the livestock. Last week there were reports of this nature; a fat, young cow was run over and drug from the road to die; a nice fat hog was shot in the head and left where it fell, to die; a young dairy cow beaten to the extent that it had several bad bruises on its body.

Christmas-Wrapped Bomb Perils 20 Jobless in Employment Office

LOS ANGELES.—Wrapped in Christmas paper and delivered as a gift, a bomb powerful enough to have wrecked the downtown office where it was opened endangered the lives of 20 persons today, but failed to explode when its fuse sputtered and went out.

The bomb was addressed to "Daddy and William Jellineck," at Jellineck's employment agency. It was contained in a standard size wooden fruit box, and weighed about 25 pounds. Its wrappings and markings indicated it was a Christmas gift.

Kosciusko Plant Told to Reemploy Union Members

WASHINGTON. — The textile labor board today ordered the Aponaug Manufacturing Company of Kosciusko, Miss., to re-employ all union members discharged or laid off since the organization of a United Textile Workers' local there last February.

The order followed three strikes at the mill in protest against alleged discrimination against union members.

The board ordered the former union employes to apply for reinstatement. They are to be placed on a preferential list and "shall replace wherever necessary those hired in their respective places since their discharge, or lay-off, and since the strike of May 8, 1934."

Clinton Youth Kills Himself

JACKSON.—William H. (Billy) Stubblefield 21-year-old son of a Clinton merchant was found shot to death on the Jackson-Vicksburg highway several miles south of here.

A coroner's jury, summoned by Justice of the Peace C. Cabell, of Clinton, returned a verdict of "suicide by a self-inflicted pistol wound."

The youth's body was found by a negro in a wooded section near the Lakewood Memorial Park. He had been missing and the object of an intensive hunt for some 24 hours prior to the finding of his body.

A single shot through young Stubblefield's head caused his death, which is believed to have been instant.

Ill health and despondency over his conditions was blamed for the suicide.

The youth had last been seen at his father's store in Clinton at noon Friday. He is believed to have secured a pistol from the store and walked from there to the spot where he ended his life.

The youth was a graduate of State Teachers' College at Hattiesburg.

'Pepper' Martin Signs Contract for Next Season

ST. LOUIS.—John L. "Pepper" Martin has signed a one-year contract to play with the world champion Cardinals in 1935, it was announced Sunday.

The "Wild Horse of the Osage," who has not been so wild since the fall of 1931 when he ran wild against Connie Mack's Athletics in the world series, signed the contract yesterday after a conference with President Sam Breadon at St. John's hospital. Martin is recuperating from an operation, which resulted in the removal of chipped bones from his left elbow.

School Principal Improves; Has Returned Home

Professor George Beeman of the Beat 4 Consolidated High School who has been confined in Rush's Infirmary for several days, was sufficiently improved Saturday to be carried to his home.

Mayor Scott of Jackson

The city of Jackson can well afford to be proud of their mayor and two commissioners.

Mayor Scott and Commissioners Hawkins and Taylor are staging one of the hardest fought battles of their political career—To erect a municipal light and power plant for the city of Jackson.

For years the Mississippi Power & Light Company of Jackson have forced the consumers of electric current in that city to pay exhorbitant rates. Rates that are needlessly draining the citizens of Jackson who use current in their homes for lights and other domestic uses. The rates for power to the manufacturers are out of the bounds of reason. Mayor Scott knows the Power Company has watered its stock and made setups on their books that are false.

Mayor Scott knows that the city of Jackson needs a New Deal and he is working to bring this about. The city is the loser now but if the plans of the Mayor and the two commissioners are realized, Jackson will be a deserving winner.

Of course the Power Company objects. Their political subjects are leaving no stone unturned to defeat the plan for a municipal plant and to destroy these three public servants of the people.

If the people of Jackson will only stand behind their city officials they will have nothing to regret. For proof that light and power rates can be lowered—look at the rates now being enjoyed by Tupelo, Mississippi.

Three cheers for President Roosevelt and his fight for lower rates to the people of the entire nation—The TVA and Mayor Scott and the Commissioners of Jackson.

Go to it—The people are with you.

Our City Officials

While we are giving praise to the city officials of Jackson, Mississippi, we do not want to overlook our own officials of Meridian.

Mayor Vinson and Commissioners Rumley and May have not been asleep at the switch. They have worked untiringly for lower rates for Meridian.

There is now pending in the courts the case of The Mississippi Power Company vs. the City of Meridian.

If we lose this fight, we feel sure our city dads will seek the TVA or make plans to return to municipal ownership of our own power and light plant.

Jacksonville, Fla., is a shining example of what a city can do if they operate their own plant.

The record for one year only of that city shows a million dollars profit in the treasury and best of all they enjoy one of the lowest rates in existence throughout the country.

The citizens of Meridian are grateful for the fight being made by our own city officials. We have every reason to believe they will continue to fight for lower power and light rates.

There is one thing certain—the consumers of electric current in Meridian know they need relief and they are not going to stop their fight until every source of energy has been exhausted and the desired rates are obtained.

We are thankful for our three city officials and their efforts so far. May they continue the fight they have started for the better interest of Meridian and her people.

"Huey Long plans his Presidential campaign for 1936" a newspaper headline. We are wondering if that bird knows that the whole United States votes in a presidential election.

Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor is "in the air." Someone wrote a story saying that Miss Perkins intends to resign—and did it make Frances hot! She demands that the author of the story be made to tell where he got his information.

Since Miss Perkins has expressed herself on the "shoeless South" we expect it would be a good idea for Miss Perkins not to ask for a vote on the question, especially south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Reports from nearly every section of the Nation point to the biggest and best Christmas since 1929. It just goes to show what we folks would do if we had the money to do it with.

Uncle Sam has been a better Santa Claus to the Nation this year than ever before. If there had been more letters in the alphabet there is no question that we would have received a fuller stocking this Christmas.

However, there should be "no kick". Without Uncle it would have been a miserable Yuletide.

The day the "Century of Progress" Exposition closed in Chicago, people wrecked the place—that's progress.

Holiday Business Shows Increase

States of Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee Lead Nation in Christmas Buying.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three southern states, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee lead all others in the whole country in increased retail sales for the last half of 1934. Other cotton growing states show increases of as much as 50% over 1933. The eastern section of the country averages 17% increase in retail buying over last year. The result of this swift flow of holiday spending on the part of the American people indicates fuller stockings tomorrow morning than at any time during the past three or four years.

Stores in the cities as well as those in the outlying districts are doing good business. Mail order houses everywhere are swamped with orders for Christmas goods. The Federal Treasury reports money in circulation all over America has increased by scores of millions of dollars since the middle of November.

And with this increased trade in the stores, post offices, in the manufacturing lines — came increased employment. The clothing industry is especially active. It will take months to replace the drained stocks in these mills and factories.

With it all comes a satisfied and optimistic state of mind among the American people. It is the basis for sound recovery for the nation as a whole.

From the commerce department here comes the report that people are not only spending more money this year for Christmas articles, but they are demanding higher quality. For the past several years people would purchase the cheapest articles possible to find. This is not the case this year. Even last year stern necessity dictated the purchase of plaids, essentials of clothing and the simplest of toys. Now they are purchasing mechanical toys, silks and satins, and diamonds and costly furniture. A survey on December 15th showed toy sales had already exceeded the total sales of 1933 by more than ten millions of dollars.

The most encouraging reports released show that this increased buying is not spotted. It is general all over the country. While certain sections of the south report the greatest percentage increase, due to favorable crop conditions, many metropolitan centers show increases of from 15 to 60%. The New England states generally are in much better shape. New York, Philadelphia and Washington merchants all reported Christmas trade starting ten days earlier than last year. Atlanta reported an increase of more than 33 per cent over 1933. Memphis reported an increase of 53 per cent over last year. Dallas, Tex., merchants report sales last year starting two weeks before Christmas while this year they started the day after Thanksgiving. Sales on December 5th had passed the total sales of 1933. The retail merchants' association states "Christmas sales this year have wiped out all talk of hard times. As far as Dallas is concerned the depression is over."

In St. Louis, merchants report a general increase of 22 per cent and the better quality of merchandise has made a surprising appeal to buyers. In New Orleans the larger stores report a "sell-out" two weeks before Christmas with last minutes orders placed that in many cases factories were unable to fill.

From Butte, Montana, in the west, Texas cities in the southwest and from points in practically the whole of the United States, reports seem to indicate that the backbone of the depression has been broken.

In Meridian Best in Years

Business is better in Meridian than at any time during the depression. This statement can be taken as the expressed sentiment of every merchant in Meridian. One large merchant stated people were in a spending mood because they had the money to spend, but, he added, "they are buying carefully, there is nothing reckless as there was in the days prior to the depression." One large firm starting business here in recent months is reported to have done double the business they had expected to do. This firm has sold upwards of 150 bicycles during the past few weeks, more perhaps than the total number sold during the past three years up to this time. Other merchants claim increased business over last year running as high as 60 per cent. Higher priced merchandise is in greater demand than at any time during the past four years. Grocery firms are also reporting an increased business.
